8 SLAIN IN WAR AGAINST BANDS OF NICARAGUA

Several Shot as Rebels Attack Towns Over Republic.

SANDINISTAS SACK VILLAGE AT MINES

Two American Officers Given Navy Cross for Services in Latin Uprising.

Managua, Nicaragua, July 20 (A.P.). At least eight men were killed and several wounded in fighting between national guard troops and insurgents in several places in Nicaragua over the week-end, according to reports which reached here tonight. United States Marine airplane patrols were being sent from Managua tonight to aid the national guard.

A Guardia patrol was ambushed on both sides of the Coco River at a small place called Kisalaya on Saturday, the report said, by a group of 40 insurgents. After sharp fighting the insurgents scattered, leaving three dead. One member of the Nicaraguan Guard was wounded and taken to Puerto Cabezas by a Marine amphibian plane yesterday.

Insurgents Sack Town.

Disturbances were also reported to have occurred yesterday at Rama, on the Escondido River, where a large group of men, believed to be disgruntled laborers, entered the town armed with pistols and machetes and were driven out by the national guard after 20 minutes of street fighting, in which three of the invaders and one member of the national guard were killed.

It was officially confirmed also that the Sandinista chieftain, Pedro Altamirano, with 250 men, yesterday entered and sacked the small mining town of Santo Domingo, in Chontales department. A small force of six policemen fired on the insurgents as they advanced on the town, killing one of them. The insurgents evacuated the town shortly afterward, when they learned a national guard patrol was approaching.

Admiral St. Clair Smith, commander of the United States Special Service Squadron, is expected to arrive here tomorrow for a few days visit

(Associated Press.)

For routing a band of Nicaraguan insurgents that had ambushed and killed a Marine captain, Lieut. John C. Wood and First Sergt. Clyde R. Darrah, of the Marines have been awarded the Navy Cross.

Lieut. Wood's home is in Santa Cruz, Calif., and Sergt. Darrah's is in Springfield, Ill.

Both were cited by Secretary Adams, who made the award for "Distinguished Service" during the insurgent outbreak last April.

Wood is now on duty in Nicaragua and Darrah is under orders to return to the United States and report for duty at Quantico.

Gandhi Plans to Start For London August 15

Simla, India., July 20 (AP)—Any doubt as to whether Mahatma Gandhi would attend the round-table conference at London in September apparently had been dispelled today when the Mahatma announced he would sail probably August 15, or even earlier.

"I have certainly consented to attend the session of the federal structure subcommittee subject to the weather and political conditions being favorable, and you may depend upon it I will do so," he said.

One Slain, 5 Hurt In Rum Raid Fight

Reputed Alcohol Dealer Killed in Kansas City at Alleged Depot.

Kansas City, July 20 (A.P.).—Federal prohibition agents, reinforced by city police, tonight raided an alleged liquor depot in the North Side, and in fighting which followed a reputed alcohol dealer was slain, and two dry agents, a city detective, a pedestrian, and another occupant of the place were wounded.

Joe Careo, whose arrest was sought by the ten Federal agents and six city officers, was killed by Lieut. E. L. Nelson, Kansas City detective. Nelson said Careo resisted arrest and attempted to seize his weapon.

Curtis Burks, a dry agent, was paralyzed from the waist down by a bullet and his condition was critical. E. C. Anderson, another agent, was less seriously hurt. Clarence Reedy, police detective, was shot in the neck Joseph Lusco, 37, one of eight men placed under arrest, was suffering from a probable skull fracture.

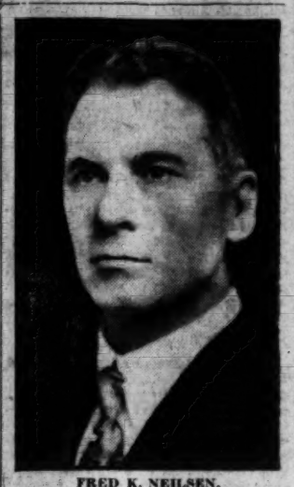
Two Dead, Several Hurt In Seville Strike Riots

Seville, Spain, July 20 (A.P.).—Something akin to guerrilla warfare reigned here tonight as Provincial Governor Jose Bastos marshaled troops and civil guards to rout syndicalist strikers and alleged roof-top snipers who participated in clashes today in which one policeman and one other person were killed and several were wounded.

Twenty arrests were made by police.

Rift Closes Session On Mexican Claims

Latin Newspapers Blame Fred Neilsen for Row in Meeting.



FRED K. NEILSEN.

Mexico City, July 20 (A.P.).—Today's newspapers printed a statement that the sessions of the Mexican-American General Claims Commission in Washington have terminated because of a dispute between the American commissioner and the neutral arbiter, and that there is little probability Mexico will accede to an extension of the time limit for the commission to complete its work. The limit is August 31.

In event that Mexico should agree to extend the limit, "possibly the United States Government will be obliged to name a new commissioner, because it appears that the present commissioner, F. K. Nielsen, is no longer persona grata to Mexico nor to the arbiter, Dr. Horacio Alfaro, of Panama," the statement says.

The nature of the dispute is not explained. The Mexican representatives on the commission are said to be preparing to return home.

(Associated Press.)

Despite official reticence in Washington, it was learned yesterday that proceedings of the Mexican-American General Claims Commission are virtually at a standstill, due to a clash within the commission itself.

There was no intimation, however, that President Hoover is contemplating any change in American representation on the commission, as suggested by Mexico City press reports.

Fred K. Neilsen, former solicitor of the State Department, now represents the United States on both the general and special claims commissions with Mexico. He received one appointment from President Coolidge and the other from President Hoover. Within the last few days Neilsen also was appointed by Mr. Hoover to a special arbitration proceeding with the Egyptian government.

The general claims commission sits in Washington, and the special com-

3 KILLED AS RIOTING RAGES IN MINE AREA

Coal Strike Disorders in Three States Bring Strife to Climax.

Three slayings, including that of a 16-year-old boy, climaxed a day of disorders in the tristate coal district, embracing Pennsylvania, Ohio and West Virginia, yesterday, according to Associated Press dispatches.

In St. Clairsville, Ohio, a youth with membership in the National Miners Union, which is directing the coal strike in that section, was shot and killed when pickets attempted to halt employes of a mine near Martins Ferry.

In Scranton, Pa., the biennial convention of District No. 1, United Mine Workers of America, broke up in a riot marked by fist-fighting, which continued until police were called in.

Two men were shot and killed from ambush near Raymond City, W. Va., and scores of minor battles were reported throughout the district.

These disturbances followed an outbreak Sunday at Canonsburg, Pa., in which more than 100 persons were injured.

St. Clairsville, O., July 20 (AP)—William Simon, 16, a member of the National Miners Union which is directing the coal strike in southeastern Ohio, was shot and killed late to-

Argentina Reports Garrison in Revolt

Troops, Bombing Planes Are Rushed to Quell Uprising.

Buenos Aires, July 20 (U.P.).—A revolt has broken out in the garrison at Corrientes, capital of the province of the same name, Minister of Interior Octavio Pico told the United Press tonight.

"A small revolt of the garrison situated at the capital of the province of Corrientes started this morning," he said.

"The central government has sent a battalion of Infantry from the City of Santa Fe to suffocate the uprising, and simultaneously several bombing planes have hopped off from the air base at El Palomar, near Buenos Aires, in order to cooperate with troops if necessary. "Complete tranquillity reigns in Buenos Aires and all other parts of the Republic."

U. S. JURY CITES 53 ON LIQUOR CHARGES

Action in Baltimore Brings Climax to Investigation Costing $500,000.

Baltimore, July 20 (A.P.).—Climaxing the largest and costliest prohibition investigation ever undertaken, a Federal grand jury here today returned three indictments charging 53 corporations and individuals with conspiracy to violate the prohibition laws.

Return of the indictments, naming persons in New York, New Jersey, Delaware, Maryland, Michigan and Ohio, brought to an end the investigation started in August, 1929, following the seizure here of three huge stills, used for cracking and redistilling commercial alcohol for beverage purposes.

More than 30 witnesses, including Prohibition Director Amos W. W. Woodcock, Dr. James M. Doran, former director and officials of the Attorney General's office appeared before the inquest, which was reported to have cost the Government $500,000. Four times the life of the jury was extended to complete the case.

Included in those indicted were the U. S. Industrial Alcohol Co. and its subsidiary, the U. S. Industrial Chemical Co., of West Virginia and Maryland, said to be the largest industrial alcohol company in the country.

Also indicted was Al H. Jaffe, slain a short time ago in gang warfare in Cleveland, said to be the outgrowth of his liquor activities.

The indictments charged a vast conspiracy started in 1927 which went to the length of forming corporations for the purchase of industrial alcohol, so that it could resell the product to other companies and individuals for conversion into beverage channels.

Besides the three-still cracking plant raided here to start the investigation, officials said the ring operated other such ventures at Cleveland, Erie, Pa., Paterson, N. J., and Fredonia and Florida, N. Y.

Indicted in the first group, charged with the commission of 49 overt acts, were:

Amason Industrial Chemical Co., New York; Joseph J. Darvin, its president; Morris Levine, Nate Scharlin

Union Taxicabs Will Install 20-Cent Rate as War Looms

Protex-U Co. Official Says Firm Is Ready to Reduce Price Still Further If Diamond Follows by Cutting Present Tariff.

The latest step in Washington's taxicab fare war was taken last night by the Protex-U Cab Co., which announced a reduction from 35 cents to 20 cents to begin at 6 o'clock tomorrow morning. This rate is believed to be the lowest ever known in the Capital for modern taxicab transportation.

In making the announcement, which was foreshadowed at a meeting of the Central Labor Union on July 6, Charles H. Lettow, a member of the company's board of directors, said his firm is ready to make still another cut should the Diamond Cab Co. follow the 20-cent pace,

More than 80,000 persons have joined the list of regular cab riders since the inauguration of the 35-cent rate 18 months ago, Mr. Lettow said. He predicted that with the fare cut almost in half, twice that number would be added to the thousands who already use taxicabs to and from work.

The taxicab official admitted that even with the 35-cent rate his company, which is composed of independent drivers, was operating at little or no profit, but that one purpose of the reduction is to force

FALL IS SPARED FINGERPRINTS AT PRISON DOOR

Former U. S. Secretary Faces Ordeal When Health Permits.

JAIL OFFICIALS MEET HIM 20 MILES AWAY

Member of Harding Cabinet Starts Term in Famous Bribery Case.

Santa Fe, N. Mex., July 20 (A.P.).—Albert B. Fall, former Interior Secretary, convicted of bribery in Federal oil leases, tonight entered the New Mexico State Prison to serve a year-and-a-day sentence. Fall, brought from El Paso, Tex., in an ambulance, was taken directly to the prison hospital, where he is expected to serve his time.

The usual photographing, finger printing, classification and numbering routine was dispensed with until Fall is reported by the prison physician, Dr. E. W. Fiske, as able to stand these details.

Fall came here from his ranch at Three Rivers, N. Mex., where he rested two nights after leaving his home in El Paso, Tex., en route to the prison. He is suffering from chronic tuberculosis.

Arrives at Lamy.

Lamy, N. Mex., July 20 (U.P.).—Albert B. Fall was taken into custody here tonight by United States Marshal Joseph Tondre, when he stopped his leisurely ambulance ride from El Paso to Santa Fe, where he must serve a sentence of a year and a day for accepting a bribe while he was in the Harding Cabinet.

Tondre walked up to Fall's ambulance and, extending his hand, said, "Hello, Mr. Fall."

Fall shook his hand and replied, "Hello, Mr. Tondre. Glad to see you."

Tondre was accompanied by Warden Ed Swope, of the State penitentiary, where Fall must serve his sentence.

Fall's commitment papers were not read to the former Secretary, Tondre explaining that Fall knew he was wanted.

Tondre turned Fall over to Swope and in turn Swope turned him over to Prison Guard David Jackson.

Trip Made Leisurely.

Jackson was assigned to guard Fall on the remaining 20 miles of Fall's journey to Santa Fe. Fall stopped over Sunday at his ranch near Three Rivers and resumed the trip today, stopping frequently to take medicine and exercise.

Dr. J. H. Gambrell, Fall's physician, said strychnine was administered as a stimulant at Duran, N. Mex., 100 miles south of here.

A little later Fall arose from the ambulance litter on which he was riding and took a walk along the road.

At the prison Fall will be committed to the care of Dr. W. E. Fiske, prison physician, who will examine him to determine just what his condition is. Army physicians have described it as not so serious as to prevent Fall from serving his sentence.

The purpose of the stop here was to let members of the large Fall party eat.

Former Noted Jockey Found Stunned on Road

New York, July 20 (A.P.).—Buddy Ensor, 40, a former jockey, was found tonight in a semiconscious condition near City Island road, apparently stunned from a blow in the back of the head. At a hospital it was said his skull may have been fractured.

Ensor gave his address as the Emerson Hotel, Baltimore.

Hall Fails to Clip Hawks' Air Record

Loses by Seven Minutes in Havana to New York Elapsed Time.

Floyd Bennett Airport, N. Y., July 20 (A.P.).—James Godwin Hall, flying broker, failed by seven minutes of elapsed time today to beat the Havana-New York record of Capt. Frank M. Hawks. The former Army pilot landed his plane here at 3:55 p. m. (E. S. T.), at the end of a one-stop flight in which he left Havana at 7:04 a. m. (E. S. T.).

Hall made the flight in 8 hours 51 minutes of elapsed time, including a stop of 56½ minutes at Miami to refuel. Hawks' time, including two stops, was 8 hours 44 minutes.

The former Army pilot covered the distance in 7 hours 54 minutes 30 seconds of flying time, however, thus cutting 8 minutes 30 seconds off Hawks' actual flying time.

"Ma" Kennedy to Sell Home, Seek Solitude

Los Angeles, July 20 (U.P.).—Incensed because curious crowds loitered around the Hermosa Beach cottage where she sought seclusion after suing for annulment of her marriage to the Rev. G. Edward Hudson, Mrs. Minnie "Ma" Kennedy tacked up a "for sale" sign today and left the beach.

Mrs. Kennedy intimated she hoped for a secret hiding place until next Thursday, when she is to appear in court. Hudson, it was believed, will allow the decree by default. Aimee Semple McPherson, noted evangelist and daughter of Mrs. Kennedy, arrived in Los Angeles today from the Northwest.

BRUENING TO WITHDRAW PLEA FOR $325,000,000 LOAN; HOOVER PROPOSALS ARE TELEPHONED Suggestions Are Sent to Stimson to Present at London.

EMPHASIS IS PLACED ON VISIT OF MORROW

Utmost Reserve Maintained Regarding Exact Nature of U. S. Ideas.

(United Press.)

President Hoover decided yesterday, just 30 days after his debt holiday proposal, to take the initiative at the London financial conference called to consider Germany's plight. He telephoned to Secretary of State Henry L. Stimson, chief United States delegate, a series of suggestions on means to alleviate the German situation, and that connecting one which affects all the nations of central Europe.

The proposals will be presented to the conference this morning and it is understood they may be made public then.

Though the word "plan" is avoided here, it was learned that the proposals amount to that. They are not confined to measures that Germany should take herself to strengthen her finances, but contain constructive suggestions for the stabilization of her finances.

Silent on Proposals.

No one would say last night, in advance of the presentation to the London Conference, what the proposals were. It was said authoritatively, however, that they did not envisage an immediate long-term credit for Germany. An eventual one of $500,000,000 has been mentioned in European dispatches. The reason why no long-term credit is suggested, it was said, was that such a credit would have to be marketed publicly, and public marketing of such a loan, in bond form, would be impossible, while Germany's finances are in chaos.

The United States suggestions were drafted at a most unusual conference at the White House. It lasted on and off all day. Present were Mr. Hoover, Acting Secretary of State William R. Castle, jr.; Acting Secretary of Treasury Ogden L. Mills; Charles G. Dawes, Ambassador to Great Britain, and Dwight W. Morrow, senator from New Jersey, former Ambassador to Mexico, and former partner in J. P. Morgan & Co.

This concentration of big brains began yesterday morning, when Dawes and Morrow arrived in Washington, to be White House guests, even before the President came back from his Rapidan camp. Mills and Castle were called in, and all day were in and out of the President's circular office in the White House Executive Offices.

Preliminary Exchange.

There they worked out the American proposals which are understood to go much farther than this Government was prepared to do three days ago. At that time, it was said authoritatively that the United States favored merely a preliminary exchange of views. Unless this statement was misinterpreted, the President apparently decided during this week-end to go into the London conference in a forceful manner.

It was understood that Mr. Stimson, in his telephone conversation, did not indicate even whether the other governments would have such specific proposals to make; in other words, the United States is willing to take the lead.

Proposals may be made by others,

Mexican Consul Named in Divorce

Valdez, Recently Accused in Beer Incident, Cited In Oklahoma Plea.

Oklahoma City, July 20 (A.P.).—Naming H. Valdez, Mexican Consul here, Leslie Barrett filed a divorce suit today against Merlee Barrett.

Consul Valdez, who figured the other day in an incident which later was expunged from the police record, could not be reached for a statement.

Barrett's attorney said Mrs. Barrett was the sister of Valdez's deceased wife.

Senor Valdez and a Miss Kay Barrett were booked at police headquarters last week after officers said they had destroyed a quantity of beer at the woman's home. Later the record of the case was voided by the police.

Senor Valdez claimed diplomatic immunity. At the time it was said Kay Barrett was the consul's sister-in-law.

Court Order to Indict Col. Lea and Son Upheld

Nashville, Tenn., July 20 (U.P.).—Judge Charles Gilbert is entirely within his 'egal rights in ordering Attorney General Richard Atkinson to bring indictments against Col. Luke Lea and Luke Lea, jr., in connection with the failure of the Liberty Bank & Trust Co. here, Supreme Court Justice W. L. Cook ruled this afternoon.

The decision may even result in Mr. Atkinson being temporarily supplanted in office. It was made after he had requested, through a personal attorney, a writ of supersedeas to prevent Judge Gilbert's order from being carried out.

Von Hindenburg's Plea To Hoover Is Revealed

(Copyright, 1931, by the Associated Press.)

New York, July 20 (A.P.).—The Associated Press herewith publishes the appeal from President Von Hindenburg of Germany to President Hoover which was cabled to Washington by the German president on June 20. For some reason unstated it has never yet been made public, either in Washington or Berlin. The following is the text:

"June 20, 1931.

"Mr. President: The dire distress of the German people, which is now at its highest peak, compels me to turn to you with this extraordinary step.

"The German people have lived through some infinitely difficult years, with a climax during the past winter. Even this spring the hope for improvement in our busines and industry has not materialized.

"I, therefore, have put into effect, through the extraordinary powers conferred upon me by the constitution of the Reich, measures intended to safeguard the execution of the most necessary tasks of state and to maintain the possibility of life for our unemployed population. These measures cut deeply into all economic and social relations. They demand heaviest sacrifices from all parts of our population.

"Every possibility of improving the situation by internal measures, without relief from the outside world, has been exhausted. The economic crisis from which the entire world is suffering strikes the German people, who have been robbed of their reserves through the consequences of the war, with especial vehemence.

"As the developments of the last few days show, the whole world has lost its confidence that the German economic system is in a position to function in view of the burdens now resting upon her. Large credits which foreign countries had given us have been withdrawn. Even within the

PRESIDENT VON HINDENBURG.

Address of MacDonald As Debt Parley Begins

London, July 20 (A.P.).—Following is the text of the "keynote" address of Prime Minister Ramsay MacDonald of Great Britain, delivered at the formal opening of the international conference in London this evening:

In the name of the government, and of the whole nation, indeed, I give you all a most cordial welcome.

I should like to indicate the purpose which his majesty's government thinks this conference should serve.

The present moment may be one of the turning points in the history of the world for good or ill. If we can not find a solution of the present crisis no one can foretell the political and financial dangers which will ensue. If we can find such a solution it will be a striking proof of the growing effectiveness of international cooperation.

During the past two years the economic life of the world has been thrown out of gear by an unprecedentedly severe fall in prices. For example, wheat has fallen over 50 per cent, cotton 60 per cent, rubber 90 per cent, and so on with practically all the primary commodities.

World Trade Suffers.

The countries which are engaged in the production of these commodities have, in consequence, been forced to restrict drastically their purchases of industrial goods and world trade has suffered from a persistent, calamitous decline

This fall in prices has greatly accentuated the burden of all debts and has involved budget and financial difficulties for all debtor countries. But its effects have been felt in most acute form by what I may call international industrial and financial states, and the very special position of Germany, both as an exporting and debtor state, has concentrated upon it to a supreme degree all the problems which other states have had to face in a less critical manner.

The German government has increased taxation and imposed sacrifices on their people, but they felt bound to declare last month that they could go no further and that they would have to use their right to declare a postponment of their liabilities under the young plan unless the situation improves. This alarmed foreign lenders, upon whose support Germany has been largely dependent during the last six years, and withdrawals of short-term credits ensued on a very large scale.

Appeared Almost Hopeless

By June 18 their position appeared almost hopeless when the whole face of the world was changed in half an hour by the dramatic announcement of President Hoover's offer. History will pronounce this decision as an act of rare courage and statesmanship. It is no small thing to ask the people of the United States, far removed as they are from Europe, and themselves at grips with a domestic slump of unprecedented severity, to suspend for a year all their claims in respect to intergovernment debts. But, in my belief, it was also a stroke of sound business Its effect at the outset was startling;

Forest Fires Rage As Rockies Sizzle

Temperatures Up to 114 Degrees Slow Work of Fighters.

Boise, Idaho, July 20 (A.P.).—Forest fires flamed unchecked in the Western Rocky Mountain region today, record-breaking high temperatures adding to the difficulties of crews attempting to place them under control.

One of six blazes in National Forests of Northern Utah was reported threatening the town of White Rocks. At least ten forest fires, some spreading rapidly, blazed in Wyoming.

At Boise the mercury rose to 108 today, the highest since 1871. Twin Falls reported 104.8 degrees. Reno, Nev., saw a new high mark of 106 degrees. Eli Taylor, 68, a farmer near Salt Lake City, died from excessive heat. The mercury there rose to 106 degrees. Lewistown, Idaho, reported 114 degrees.

Chancellor to Ask Only for Continuation of Present Credits.

DECISION FOLLOWS M'DONALD'S ADVICE

Seven Powers Will Assure Germany of Willingness to Aid With Money.

London (Tuesday), July 21 (A.P.). Chancellor Heinrich Bruening of Germany decided early this morning, unless something new develops today, to withdraw his plea for a $325,000,000 loan for Germany and to ask, for the present, only for a continuation of the present short-term credits estimated at $125,000,000.

The German chancellor's decision was made on the advice of Prime Minister MacDonald. It would stand, he said, unless entirely new viewpoints developed out of today's sessions of the seven-power conference and any reference to a $325,000,000 loan will not be made until later at least.

The situation, as the British prime minister is said to have presented it, is as follows:

The only country from which Germany can get a long-term large loan at present is France. France, at the present status of Franco-German relations, can not make such a loan unless political and financial guarantees are given by Germany such as the German chancellor, in view of the strained situation at home, could not give.

Can not Change Conditions.

Premier Laval, he said, understands Chancellor Bruening's position fully, but at the same time he can not let up on the conditions.

Germany's problem, therefore, is so to restore the world's confidence that at the soonest possible moment a large loan can be floated. One practical means will be for Prime Minister MacDonald and Foreign Secretary Henderson soon to visit Germany for a "German Chequers" conference and for Premier Laval and foreign Minister Briand to follow with a visit to Berlin.

By thus improving international relations with Germany, it is hoped the time may not be far distant when, without political guarantees, such as are now insisted upon by French public opinion, the financially strong nations can grant a substantially large new loan.

Meanwhile, the seven powers at the conference will assure Germany that the existing short-term credit will not be withdrawn as long as Germany, on her part makes, a further effort to get herself out of the difficulties into which she has run since the Hoover plan was first announced and which in themselves have nothing to do with the Hoover plan.

Bruening Willing to Wait.

Chancellor Bruening was said to be willing, if the rest of the conferees feel like Prime Minister MacDonald about the matter, to wait until a more favorable moment, possibly autumn or early winter, to reiterate his plea for a new long-term loan.

If Germany now drops her request for the $325,000,000 loan the conference here may be of short duration, possibly lasting no longer than Friday. Prime Minister MacDonald, however, it is said, does not intend to adjourn the conference then but rather to "hold it in abeyance," in other words, to continue it with minor functionaries and to call the principal statesmen together again when the situation is ripe.

This, it was hinted, might possibly be in September.

Would Mean Failure.

Neither Prime Minister MacDonald nor Chancellor Bruening feels that a failure to give Germany a big loan at present would mean the failure of the conference. On the contrary, they feel that it is better to wait for a realization of the great objective of Franco-German understanding than to hurry matters too much now, even though this should mean still another terrific test of nerves to the German people.

Nobody realizes what this test might be better than Chancellor Bruening, but he is accustomed to look facts in the eye and to draw con-

Two large Alaskan black bears shattered the peace and quiet of East Falls Church, Va., yesterday morning, injuring four men, and bringing out a posse of about 50 citizens before one of the marauders was killed and the other recaptured.

The animals, which weigh about 350 pounds apiece have been residents, and hitherto, fairly peaceful residents of the town for about five years. They were brought back from Alaska that long ago by R. L. Makeley, an automobile dealer, who has kept them, caged at his garage ever since. One of them a few days ago attacked Will Dusom, an employe of the garage, who was delegated to feed them while Mr. Makeley was away on a fishing trip. Mr. Dusom is still on crutches from the attack, but aside from this little display of ill temper, the bears have been fairly well behaved citizens of the town.

But yesterday the male bear decided to go traveling and in some manner broke the heavy chain which held him. He was first sighted at the filling station of A. W. McPherson, a few doors from Mr. Makeley's garage. Mr. McPherson said he found the clusions accordingly. If Great Britain and the United States are unable or unwilling at present to grant Germany the loan which Luther earlier, and Bruening now, tried to get and if France can not aid without imposing conditions that must, in the nature of things, be humiliating to Germany, then, it is believed, there is nothing else to do but for Chancellor Bruening to bide his time.

It may be taken for granted, however, that he will warn the assembled delegates that the situation is dangerous and he is also reported to hope against hope that America may again come to the rescue with a surprising proposal.

Warns of Necesity of Aid.

Prime Minister Ramsay MacDonald, opening the momentous sessions of the heads and near heads of seven of the world's greatest governments, yesterday warned of the necessity of finding a solution of the present crisis centering in Germany.

After sitting for an hour and three-quarters, during which the prime ministers of Great Britain, France and Germany made short addresses, the meeting was adjourned until this forenoon, when its work will be taken up in earnest. The question of procedure was also discussed briefly during last evening's sessions.

The keynote was sounded by Prime Minister MacDonald, who presided, in his opening address.

May Be Turning Point.

"The present moment may be one of the turning points in the history of the world," he said, "for good or ill. If we can not find a solution of the present crisis no one can foretell what political and financial dangers will follow."

He outlined the drop in commodity prices and the withdrawal of credits from Germany and explained how the proposals of President Hoover for a year's moratorium in war debts and reparations payments had steadied the situation but had been insufficient to stop the German plunge toward economic ruin.

"Our position," he continued, "is to restore the confidence of the foreign investor in Germany. Otherwise, it will be difficult to stave off the flood before it has overwhelmed the whole of central Europe, with consequences, social and political, as well as purely financial, which no man can estimate."

Bruening Tells of Plight.

Premier Laval followed Mr. MacDonald. He outlined the course of the meeting which took place in Paris last week and explained the spirit in which the conversations had been initiated, expressing the hope of loyal collaboration between France and Germany for restoration of confidence and credit in the world.

Using perfect English, Chancellor Bruening of Germany then presented his country's plight, giving statistics to show how far the Reich has traveled along the road to financial ruin, delineating the measures which have been taken to meet the situation and urging the necessity of immediate assistance.

He stressed the necessity for foreign creditors to cease withdrawing their credits from Germany and pleaded for a loan of 1,500,000,000 marks (about $375,000,000) and the continuation of short-term credits amounting approximately to another $125,000,000. The Reichsbank gold and foreign exchange coverage, he said, must be considerably "broadened."

Talk Until Late Hour.

After the adjournment of the conference, the prime minister, who had been busy in conversation with the visiting delegates since their arrival at 9:30 a. m., affectionately put his hand on Chancellor Bruening's shoulder and invited him and Foreign Minister Curtius to have dinner at the House of Commons restaurant with himself and Foreign Secretary Henderson.

These four men, on whose shoulders rests a considerable share of the governmental worries of the world, talked until a late hour while attendants at No. 10 Downing street, unapprised of the prime minister's action, waited and watched every car which came toward the house.

The other delegates all left for their hotels, tired and ready to retire early.

In Private Room.

Last night's session took place in Prime Minister MacDonald's own room at the House of Commons, one of the most private and best guarded official sanctuaries in the world. Today's meeting and all subsequent sessions will take place in the so-called "cabinet room" of the foreign office.

The part played by the American delegates at yesterday's session was negligible on the surface, but actually, from Secretary Stimson's early morning conference with the prime minister, both Secretary Stimson and Secretary Mellon have been almost as busy as Prime Minister MacDonald. There was every evidence of the important roles they will play as America's first full plenipotentiaries at an European economic meeting.

There were cheers and shouts in four or five languages as automobiles bearing German, French, Belgian and Italian delegates sped away, after their arrival in two trains at Victoria Station. "Good old Mac!" was mixed with "Hoch Bruening!" Premier Macdonald had greeted the delegates on arrival.

One Dissenting Note.

There was only one dissenting note. A band of brown-shirted German Fascists shouted in unison as Chancellor Bruening drove away, "Down with Bruening! Up with Hitler!"

There were various estimates on the length of the conference, but hints were given in some authoritative quarters that some action must be taken within a day or two. Some of the emergency German decrees expire Thursday and Chancellor Bruening, who probably will return to Berlin tomorrow, must have something concrete to take back with him.

Secretary Stimson and Secretary Mellon were uncommunicative. At a press conference yesterday Secretary Stimson talked of how much he had enjoyed his Italian trip and of how Premier Mussolini had lit up the Forum for him. But he continually parried all questions regarding his mission here with "we prefer not to answer that."

U. S. STOCK OF GOLD HALF WORLD SUPPLY

German Financial Debacle Increased Funds in One Week by $90,000,000.

(United Press)

How the financial debacle in Germany which led to President Hoover's debt moratorium plan increased the already enormous gold stocks of the United States, the largest in history, was revealed yesterday by the Federal Reserve Board in its monthly survey.

Due to the release of a large amount of gold previously held under earmark for foreign account, along with an inflow of gold from Argentina and Canada, United States gold stocks were increased during June to the amazing total of $4,954,000,000, which is about half the world's supply.

"This release of gold was connected with large-scale withdrawal of short-time funds from the German market," the reserve board explained. "During the period from May 31 to June 23 the Reichsbank lost $230,000,000 in gold and $20,000,000 in foreign exchange, with the consequence that its reserves were reduced close to the minimum required by law."

The Reichsbank's ratio of reserves to notes, which is required by law to be not less than 40 per cent, dropped to 40.4 per cent on June 23, the board revealed. It was on June 24 that the agreement was reached between the United States, Great Britain, France and the Bank of International Settlements to advance the Reichsbank a $100,000,000 loan. President Hoover announced his moratorium plan on June 20.

"During the period of two months ending on June 24 the gold stock of the United States increased $200,000,000, of which $90,000,000 was added during one week, the largest addition to the gold stock for any week in the history of the country.

"Such a large addition to the gold stock in one week was facilitated by the fact that a part of the gold was not shipped from abroad, but was already in this country held under earmark for foreign account and was added to the country's monetary gold stock through release from earmark."

Tracing the movement of gold in the last five years, the Reserve Board pointed out that the principal recipients of gold in that period have been the United States and France, the latter now having the second largest stocks, totaling over $2,000,000,000.

RIFT ENDS SESSION ON MEXICO CLAIMS

mission in Mexico City. Dr. Horacio Alfaro, of Panama, is third commissioner and neutral presiding officer of both. Dr. Fernandez Macgregor is the Mexican member of the general commission.

The two claims commissions will expire in August, unless there is an extension. Diplomatic negotiations have been in progress for some time in Mexico City, it was said at the State Department, with a view to such an extension, as an alternative diplomatic settlement of pending claims may be attempted.

The suggestion in Mexico City papers that Mr. Nellsen might be supplanted as American commissioner, as he was "persona non grata to Mexico," prompted informed officials here to point out that the question of acceptability to the other government is not involved in such appointments, except so far as selection of the neutral member is concerned.

The first intimation here that the work of the general claims commission was not progressing smoothly was the failure of that body to hand down any decisions on five cases on which it has heard oral argument, by July 15, the approximate expiration date of the Washington session by special agreement between the two governments.

Although that agreement called for the Washington meetings, which started early in May for the first time here since the spring of 1929, to end "on or about July 15," thus giving the commission some leeway in announcing its decisions, indications yesterday were that such decisions now would be dependent upon a special arrangement in view of the fact five days beyond the midmonth date have passed.

Two of the cases awaiting decision, that of the Dixon Carwheel Co. and the Darnielle case, were carried over from the last Mexico hearings from August to November last year. Oral arguments were heard on the other three cases here prior to adjournment of the oral hearings June 9. These were the International Fisheries Co. cancelation of contract claim, the Joseph F. Rihan "denial of justice" claim, and the Batopilas mining case.

It was understood recently two of these cases were about ready for announcement of decisions, but no decisions have been handed down at the Washington session.

Claims involving approximately $675,000,000 are still before the special and general claims commissions for settlement. Officials yesterday did not suggest what disposition might be made of them should negotiations for extension of the commissions or outside settlement fail. It was learned that more than 100 cases are on the trial calendar of the general commission and an approximately equal number on the special commission's calendar.

At the last Mexico session, the general body rendered 23 decisions. The special commission, meeting in Mexico last March and April, handed down only one decision, in the Russell case.

Dr. Alfaro, brother of President Alfaro of Panama, was selected as the neutral presiding member of both commissions a year ago after they had been without such an official for a year following the resignation of Kristian Sindballe, of Denmark. The Mexican commissioner on the special claims body is Gonzales Roa.

The members of the general commission—Nielsen, MacGregor and Alfaro—made no comment yesterday on the situation.

The recent appointment of Nielsen to the Egyptian commission aroused speculation as to his probable future connection with the Mexican-American bodies. It was explained, however, at the time the Egyptian case would be heard in Vienna in the fall, and as there probably would be a recess of the Mexican-American commissions of some months after August regardless of their future status the double work need not interfere with the American commissioner's affiliation with these bodies.

AFTER VISIT TO WHITE HOUSE

Harris & Ewing.

The visit was believed to be in connection with the coming London conference on the international debt situation.

Address of MacDonald As Debt Parley Begins

not only did the value of securities rise with a bound, but even the price of commodities advanced.

War debts and reparations are not self-liquidating obligations like loans made for productive purposes. They can only be paid by exporting goods to the creditor countries or, insofar as there are obstacles to the movement of goods, by the export of gold. Thus the payment of reparations and war debts in a time of economic depression presents peculiar difficulties, and the knowledge that these difficulties exist weakens the confidence of investors and this in turn enhances the original difficulties so that a vicious circle is created. The Gordian knot was for the moment successfully cut by the President's beneficent sword, but foreign credits in Germany continued to be withdrawn.

Germany Loses Heavily.

It has been stated by the German minister of finance that from £150,000,000 to £200,000,000 of foreign exchange have been lost by Germany recently, a colossal sum, representing as it does, more than the equivalent of two years of reparations payments. The trickle of exchange purchases became a stream, the stream a river, and the river a torrent, until the inevitable breakdown occurred.

Thus we have now not merely to consider the measures necessary to carry into effect President Hoover's proposal, but we have to add to that the urgent emergency that has since developed in Germany.

Otherwise it will be difficult to stay the flood before it has overwhelmed the whole of central Europe with consequences social and political, as well as purely financial which no man can estimate.

If the foreign investor had retained his normal confidence in Germany her position would have remained safe and we should not be meeting here under these circumstances.

As regards her budget, her balance of trade, her economic and industrial organization, great efforts and sacrifices had been made and her position showed no radical defects.

Financial Side in Parley.

Our position, therefore, in a word, is to restore the confidence of the foreign investor in Germany. Clearly, the problem has both political and financial sides, but the mind of this conference is to be concentrated on the latter.

The fact that we have all met here today is in itself a demonstration that on every side a desire for the maintenance of cordial relations exists.

May I venture at this point to express the spirit with which we are determined to face our work? We are here representing our various nations and we are also here in the spirit of cooperative good will, resolved to end our deliberations with an agreement which will not only meet the requirements of the present crisis but begin a new time of candid and mutual effort to pacify the disturbed mind of Europe.

Let us admit first of all to ourselves, and confess it in our conferences, that there are some things which one or the other of us can not do because the public opinion to which we must be loyal will not allow it.

We are not here to enforce or to defeat or to humiliate; we are here to understand and to consider our own problems objectively, to remember how closely, in essentials we depend upon each other, and, therefore, to accommodate and to agree to something which each of us can take to our various parliaments, explain and get accepted as an agreement. I feel that each of us can do that and that an agreement here, even if, in every item, we do not like it, will reinspire our people with confidence and courage to face the heavy responsibilities which are to be the lot of all governments during the immediate months ahead of us. Let us begin our work as friends, as a real round-table conference energized by the will to succeed, and never fear for a moment but that we shall have the support of our people.

Two Main Alternatives.

As regards the financial aspect of the crisis, the question of what can be done must largely be reserved for bankers and financiers. I can only speak in general terms. There seem to be two main alternatives. The one is to find the means of providing new loans or credits to Germany. That is a matter that I understand has been under consideration in Paris. I am told that there are difficulties which would have to be surmounted before any loan could be obtained in the market here.

We must consider this. It may be a solution. It may not. But a solution, mutually possible and effective for its purpose, must be found.

The other way would be to attack directly the question of whether, by strengthening the internal position of Germany, we can give an assurance of its stability to the outside world so as not only to prevent the capital that is already in Germany from being withdrawn, but to enable it to be augmented.

There can be no question about the inherent strength of the German economy provided that it has the capital resources that it requires. It is for this purpose that President Hoover proposed the suspension for a year of all debts and reparations. This represents for Germany a very real and important relief. It may not prove to be sufficient—that is a point we can examine later—but I think our first step is to decide with the greatest possible expedition the means by which this shall be definitely carried into effect. I emphasize 'the greatest possible expedition.' Time is against us. Every day adds to the risks of a collapse which will be outside of human control.

I propose that we hear now a report of what has taken place at Paris, because at that point we must begin our work. The conferences which have taken place between the French and Germans ought to prove of infinite assistance to us, and we are all glad that they have been held. So I, in the name not only of the government, but of the whole country, welcome you all here as colleagues in a great undertaking and declare our conference open."

a showdown with the street car companies. If they ask an injunction to stop further inroads into the trolley and bus business, Mr. Lettow said, such an action normally would lead to a ruling on minimum taxicab rates and the establishment of uniform rates, thus putting an end to price wars.

More than 200 Protex-U cabs are on the streets, he said, making that company second in size only to the Diamond Cab Co.

Mr. Lettow said that District of Columbia laws regulate taxi fares only to the extent of setting a maximum rate of 70 cents for the first mile and 40 cents for each additional mile. His company's reduction makes it possible for two persons to ride at street car rates.

At the labor meeting two weeks ago Mr. Lettow said the Protex-U company would put a 10-cent rate into effect if Diamond consummated plans for a 20, 40 and 60 cent scale for the first, second and third zones, respectively. The Diamond firm is still operating on the 35-cent basis.

Under the new schedule, the Protex-U fare will be 40 cents to the second zone and 70 cents to the third zone, which takes in outlying and suburban territory. Sixty cents and 85 cents were the former rates for second and third zones, respectively.

The Protex-U Co. was formed last fall after the Independent Taxicab Owners Association declared it would terminate its policy of hiring only union men.

In the last few weeks, several of the city's 35-cent cab lines reduced their rates to 25 cents.

New York Bank Denies Bremen House Alliance

New York, July 20 (A.P.).—At the offices of J. Henry Schroeder Banking Corporation today it was stated that the firm has no connnection, either financial or personal, with the J. F. Schroeder Bank, in Bremen, Germany, which yesterday announced it had suspended payments for one week, nor has the Bremen bank any connection with the J. Henry Schroeder interests in New York and London.

Boy, 9, Drawn to Death Through Lake Pipe Line

Cleveland, July 20 (U.P.).—The powerful suction of an intake line jutting 1,000 feet from the shore and extending 30 feet below the surface of Lake Erie drew Michael Stojhovic, 9, to his death here today.

OPTIMISM IS FELT IN GERMAN CAPITAL

One Berlin Newspaper Says Way Is Paved for Friendly Cooperation.

Berlin, Tuesday, July 21 (A.P.).—The few papers that comment editorially this morning on the progress of the London conference reflect the generally more or less optimistic impression left by the copious news dispatches from the British capital.

The democratic Morgenpost, under the caption "Easier Situation," says, "So far one may be satisfied, as the principal requisite, good will, was manifested on all sides, thus paving the way for friendly cooperation."

Chancellor Bruening's organ, Germania, exhorts the German negotiators on "one danger they must sedulously avoid." "Plans for Germany's salvation," the paper says, "must be discussed and decided upon nothing but a strictly economic basis." The paper asserts it fears that "the Americans, who habitually link up reparations with disarmament, may inject the latter problem into the discussions."

It adds, however, that France has more to fear from this than Germany.

The industrial Deutsche Allgemeine Zeitung, in this connection, beseeches both the British and French representatives not to resort to "methods of extortion as at Versailles, which would only delay the return of mutual confidence."

The Boersen Courier and the Vossische Zeitung—the latter in an article by former Federal Finance Minister Dr. Peter Reingold—stresses the point that the fate of Germany, if she is left helpless, will sooner or later be the fate of the whole capitalistic world and that today it is less a question of localizing Germany's misfortunes than of saving all nations from catastrophe.

Hundreds of Germans lined up at the savings banks yesterday to withdraw from their accounts as much hard cash as they can get under the emergency decree. This decree limits withdrawals to $5 from savings balances, and $25 from checking accounts.

The crowds were not nearly so large as those which stormed the Darmstaedter und National Bank, which collapsed a week ago, and there was no disorder.

PLEA OF HINDENBURG TO HOOVER FOR AID

last days, the Reichsbank has been compelled to give up to foreign countries one third of its reserves of gold and foreign exchanges.

"The inevitable consequences of these events must be the further serious curtailment of our economic life and an increase in the number of unemployed, who already comprise more than one third of the labor engaged in industry.

"The ability, the will to work, and the discipline of the German people justify a confidence that Germany will live up to the heavy private obligations and meet the private loans which rest upon her and which can not be changed.

"In order to keep up her courage to face life and the confidence of the world in her ability to fulfill her obligations, Germany, however, is most urgently in need of relief. This relief must come immediately if disaster is not to befall us and others. Our people must be vouchsafed the possibility of working under conditions of life which are bearable.

"The relief which is necessary would, through its material and moral effects upon the general crisis, redound to the benefit of all countries. It would improve conditions in other countries and essentially reduce the danger to Germany of the internal and external tension and strain that have been created by our distress and lack of hope.

"You, Mr. President, as representative of the great American people, hold the possibility within your hands of taking the steps for the German people and for the world by which an immediate change in the situation, so fraught with danger, can be brought about.

"(Signed) VON HINDENBURG."

PRESIDENT PHONES DEBT SUGGESTIONS

Sends Proposals to Stimson to Present at Parley in London.

but the situation last night seemed to be that from this Government's viewpoint the best way would be to make the American proposals the basis of further negotiations.

Though utmost reserve was maintained regarding the exact nature of the American proposals, enough was said in advance to justify the assumption that they would envisage rigid German effort to stabilize her own finances. As it was said authoritatively that there could be no immediate bonded loan, there was left the possibility that this Government has decided to propose, if needed, short-term credits, renewable if necessary, to tide Germany over until a big bonded loan was possible or the need for one had passed.

Necessity of Good Feeling.

The United States proposals also, it was assumed, would take into account the necessity for good feeling, or the appearance of good feeling, between France and Germany. However, even if France refused to cooperate, it was indicated last night, this Government feels that Germany's situation might be solved without her. It is hoped this will not be necessary, particularly as it would isolate France and no doubt cause some sharp and damaging statements later by United States and British leaders.

Meanwhile, emphasis was placed by Morrow's arrival here on the vital importance to the world, particularly to the United States, of the London Conference, leading up as is expected to an even greater one that must some time consider the reparations plan.

With Morrow in, the conferees here for this Government number five—the former J. P. Morgan man, who was a helpful delegate at the London Naval Conference; Castle, Mills, Dawes and the President. At London, there are Stimson, Secretary of Treasury Andrew W. Mellon, Ambassador to Belgium Hugh Gibson and Counselor Theodore Marriner, of the Paris Embassy—besides experts and attaches. There have not been many times in recent years when so many political leaders were devoting their time to an international conference.

(Associated Press)

Granting of a request by Secretaries Stimson and Mellon for personal assistants at the London conference on relief to Germany was announced yesterday.

The Secretary of State asked that J. Theodore Marriner, counselor of the American Embassy in Paris, and George A. Gordon, counselor of the Berlin Embassy be asigned to him. Secretary Mellon asked that David Finley, special assisant to the Secretary of the Treasury be sent to London.

One Dead, Four Saved When Boat Capsizes

Watertown, N. Y., July 20 (U.P.).—C. G. Cree, 40, connected with the central station department of the General Electric Co., at Schenectady, drowned late today when the sailboat he and four other General Electric officials occupied capsized in a heavy storm on Lake Ontario near General Association Island, playground for General Electric employes.

J. G. Johanason, L. M. Hawkins, W. S. Clark and J. L. Buchanan were rescued after clinging to the overturned craft which was tossed about on the storm-whipped lake.

Germans Must Declare Foreign Funds Holdings

Berlin, July 20 (U.P.).—The government issued an executive order tonight demanding all owners of foreign currency exceeding 20,000 marks ($4,764) to make a declaration of their holdings with the Reichsbank by July 31.

World Financing Is Similar To Domestic Transactions

Intergovernmental Debts Paid in Same Manner as Private Obligations, Except That International Credits Take Place of Currency.

Below is the first of three articles prepared by Charles D. Watkins, who covers the United States Treasury at Washington for the Associated Press, dealing with various aspects of finance involved in the present international negotiation.

By CHARLES D. WATKINS.
(Associated Press.)

In these days of fast-moving international debate, of moratoriums and credit turnovers and economic crises, world finance has assumed almost a dominating place in the relationships of nations.

So involved are many of these discussions that they frequently take on an air of mystery for the average citizen, as a matter of fact, in their last analysis, intergovernmental financial transactions differ very little from what takes place every day between private individuals.

For instance, the huge war debts owed the United States by foreign nations are paid in much the same way that a person pays for an automobile purchased on installments, or repays money borrowed from a bank with an agreement to reduce the principal by a certain amount each month.

Securities Are Deposited.

In the case of the foreign debts, the amounts are stipulated in a debt-funding treaty. The debtor nations deposit with the United States their securities instead of notes. The securities, as with an individual's note, mature on stated dates. Upon payment they are canceled and returned, just as a bank returns a canceled note to the maker. If just one bond has been deposited, credit is given the debtor nation just as the finance company through which the automobile was purchased credits payments on it.

But in one respect there is a difference between international transactions and those between citizens of the same community. This difference exists in the machinery for carrying on international trade.

There is no international currency and gold is the only international money. But gold is too bulky and valuable to ship back and forth across the ocean every time a purchase of goods is made between nations. Besides there is not nearly enough gold in the world to cover the tremendous payments involved in international trade.

Credit Takes Gold's Place.

To escape shipping gold, a merchant in a foreign country buying merchandise in the United States must have credit in this country. If he can not obtain dollar credit in the United States or purchase it from his own bank, then gold must be sent to pay the bill.

But credit can be obtained generally. For instance a tourist from the United States goes to his bank in this country and purchases a letter of credit on a foreign bank for $1,000. He spends that credit abroad and those to whom he pays it deposit the credit with their banks.

Those banks then have a credit with the American bank for $1,000, which may be drawn upon to pay debts owed in the United States. The same system operates when firms here buy goods from foreign companies.

Gold Stock Limited.

When there is little demand for United States credit in a foreign country the merchant there can buy it at a reasonable premium from his bank, which has received it from its customers. But when the demand is great the premium goes up and finally reaches a point at which it is cheaper to ship gold to the United States than to buy dollar credit.

The total of world gold stocks is a little more than $11,000,000,000. Of this the United States holds $4,965,000,000, France approximately $2,000,000,000 and the remainder of the world about $4,000,000,000.

2 ARMY FLIERS DIE IN PLANE COLLISION

Two Others Leap to Safety as Formation Breaks to Avoid Oncoming Ship.

Newington, Conn., July 20 (A.P.).—Two United States Army planes were in collision over this town today and plunged to earth, carrying two men to their deaths, as a flight of six service planes maneuvered to avoid an oncoming civilian plane. Two other Army fliers leaped to safety with their parachutes.

The bodies of Second Lieut. Benjamin Lowery, of Hempstead, N. Y., reserve flier, and his observer, Corporal Harold Stronyder, of Wichita, Kans., Regular Army, were burned as their ship plunged, struck a corner of the laundry of the Cedarcrest Tuberculosis Sanitarium, crashed to earth and burst into flames.

Lieut. F. G. Kelly, also a reserve officer, pilot of the other plane, and Sergt. David Spicer leaped to safety with parachutes as their plane more slowly fluttered to earth out of control. While many patients at the sanitarium looked on, the fliers floated easily to earth, Lieut. Kelly landing in a tree and Sergt. Spicer becoming entangled in telegraph wires. Both escaped with scratches. The Army planes were en route to East Hartford from Mitchel Field, N. Y.

Civilian Is Casualty.

One civilian casualty developed from the accident. When Lieut. Lowery's plunging plane fell to earth, it struck Michael Petrucelli, 21, of Meriden. He suffered a fractured leg, cuts and bruises. Petrucelli had gone to the hospital to apply for work.

Tonight attention centered on the identity of the civilian plane, which, the Army flyers reported, dashed straight toward their formation, throwing them out of their line of flight and forcing them to maneuver in an attempt to avoid it.

Jack Lenox, deputy State aviation commissioner, witnessed the crash. He said he was flying some distance ahead of the formation, and, looking back, saw the collision, but could locate no other civilian plane in the near vicinity.

Lenox was flying a blue and silver plane. Ground witnesses reported his machine was some distance ahead of the others. Charles L. Morris, State aviation commissioner, late today said a gray civilian plane was seen in the neighborhood of the Army formation.

Only One Plane Nearby.

Surviving Army fliers said the plane which plunged toward them was painted blue and silver, and that no other machine was nearby. Maj. William Ryan, executive officer and operations officer of Mitchel Field, who flew here on receiving word of the accident, said he had an idea of the identity of the civilian pilot, but was prepared to make no charges.

Statements of witnesses, he said, indicated there was only one plane outside the flight in that vicinity just before the collision occurred.

Lieut. Kelly is of Brooklyn, N. Y., while Sergt. Spicer lives in Fairview, N. J.

KILLER, VICTIM AND SURVIVOR

huge animal sitting in front of the door when he arrived to open the place about 5:30 a. m.

I just tipped my hat to him and told him, "Mr. Bear, today you are manager, attendant and cashier of this place, as far as I'm concerned," Mr. McPherson said.

The filling station proprietor drove on past his place to spread the alarm that the animal was loose.

But the bear tired of being a filling station manager, and wandered up to the home of Clark Crossman, about 200 yards from the filling station. Mr. Crossman replied to the visit with a load from a shotgun, and the bear lumbered away and shortly afterward found his first victim.

The bear found Dr. J. T. D. Howard leading his cow to pasture near the Crossman residence. The bear made one swipe at the cow, slightly injuring it, and Dr. Howard stepped forward to protect bossy from further injury. The bear instantly transferred the attack to the physician, knocking him down and mauling him severely. Neighbors drove the animal away from the injured man with a shower or sticks and stones.

Goat Proves Bruin's Waterloo.

The bear lumbered away and met his first Waterloo a few hundred yards away. In a field he met a billy goat of uncertain temper, owned by William Taylor. Encouraged by his success with the cow, the bear growled and made for the goat.

The goat was not impressed, but rared back on his haunches and uncoiled himself into a devastating bolt, directly into the bear's side. The bear tumbled end over end into the dust, and when he recovered, decided to leave the goat to himself.

From this disaster the bear made his way to a swamp, where he was cornered about 9:30 o'clock by a posse of 50 citizens The animal turned to the attack, but a shot placed through his heart by Deputy Sheriff Paul Hermann ended the excitement as far as he was concerned.

While this bear was making things interesting in the residential part of the town, however, his mate was keeping things stirred up in the downtown section. Excited by the news of the bear hunt and the attack on Dr. Howard, about fifty persons gathered at Makeley's garage where the second bear was still in chains.

Second Bear Breaks Loose.

Bear No. 2 stood the talk and excitement for a short time, but soon, with a powerful lunge, she snapped the chain which bound her, and started after the crowd, which fled precipitately across the Lee Highway

Women and children fled into their homes and locked the doors. Strong men gathered sticks, stones and guns and organized a second posse.

The female bear was finally maneuvered to a shed in the rear of J. V. Turner's store, about 100 yards from the garage. There she turned on the men badgering her, and first mauling Emery Carter, telephone company employe, bit him through the leg.

Harry Lusby, construction foreman for the telephone company took Carter, who lives at 251 Twelfth street southeast, to the medical department of the company in Washington for first aid treatment. The man was later taken to Garfield Hospital where his condition was said to be good last night.

She then slashed George Brown and Homer Sumpter. Both the men were badly cut and bruised.

Dragged Away With Rope.

Finally the bear was forced into a wood shed, and Melvin Tinner, colored, followed with a coil of rope. The bear made a dash for him. Tinner leaped for a post which supported the roof and started climbing, and the bear climbed after him. However, Tinner managed to slip a noose over the animal's neck and strong hands pulled it away.

The animal was dragged back to its cage, and peace at last resumed its usual sway over East Falls Church.

The Agricultural Chemical Works, Inc., and Max Bittman and H. W. Lefkowitz, Newark, N. J.

George Bernstein, New York; Louis Fredella, Joseph Jenkins and Fred Sani, Bayonne, N. J.

The grand jury, which began hearing witnesses May 4, handed the indictments to Judge Morris A. Soper. Part of the delay in return of the bills was reported by officials to have been due to reluctance to indict large companies dealing in legal industrial alcohol More than 200 persons and corporations were gone over by the jury in its deliberations.

No date was set for arraignment of those indicted, but officials intimated that the trials would be held in October or November.

(Associated Press.)

Howard T. Jones, acting prohibition administrator, said yesterday Federal agents had been investigating for more than two years persons involved in the alcohol conversion ring, against whom indictments were returned in Baltimore.

Mr. Jones said much of the investigation had been under the direction of G. Aaron Youngquist, Assistant Attorney General in charge of prohibition. Mr. Youngquist was in Baltimore yesterday.

NAVY BAG OUTRIDES STORM TO WIN RACE

Settle Guides Balloon for 12 Hours; Goodyear-Zeppelin Second.

Akron, Ohio, July 20 (A.P.).—With an ominous storm at his back, Lieut. T. S. W. Settle bumped his big Navy bag into a fence near Marilla, N. Y., today to win his second national balloon championship, after a 12 hour game of hide and seek with thunderstorms.

Lieut. Settle and his aid, Lieut. Wilfred Bushnell, covered approximately 215 miles, 25 more than Frank Trotter and Roland Blair achieved with their Goodyear-Zeppelin No. 8 in an equally hazardous flight through electrical disturbances.

Lieut. Settle won in 1929, while Blair and Trotter, trying their hand at the national competition, won in 1930. The two crews qualified today to compete in International Gordon Bennett Cup Race along with Ward T. Van Orman, the veteran Akron balloonist, who won the international event last year. Van Orman's victory automatically qualified him without participation in the national elimination.

Detroit Entry Third.

The Navy balloon took off at 5:25 p. m., E. S. T., from the Municipal Airport yesterday and landed at 6 a. m., at Marilla, east of Buffalo. The Goodyear entrant started at 5:58 p. m., and came down at 3:30 a. m., near Stevensville, Ont., after crossing Lake Erie. Stevensville is about 3 miles from the shore of Lake Erie and about 18 miles from Lake Ontario.

Third place went to the entry of radio station WJR, Detroit, with Ed J. Hill, international winner in 1927, as pilot and Arthur Schlosser as aid. They landed at 1:05 a. m. between Wesleyville and Harbor Creek, near Erie, Pa., after covering 110 miles. Both Hill and Schlosser were bruised in landing.

None of the other entries came close nor lasted the night through. The United States Army No. 2 and Del-Mar-Va, of the Eastern Shore Association, failed to get outside of Ohio, while the United States Army No. 1 got only to Custard, near Meadville, Pa.

This year's race, the twenty-first, was probably one of the most turbulent in history, and the winning distance was less than half that made by Van Orman, who sailed 562 miles last year. Lightning and rain buffeted the bags from the very start and natural gas, which has less lifting power and reacts slower to "valving," was used instead of hydrogen.

Storms Menace Airmen.

Lieut. Settle and his aid twice despaired of beating the storms. "I never saw such a display of fireworks in my life," Lieut. Settle said. "Lightning flashed and thunder roared all night."

The Navy bag rose to an altitude of 5,000 feet at the start and found storms to the north, east and south. Its crew slipped down to the surface currents, around Ravenna, and waited for a storm to proceed ahead of them to the northeast. About 1 a. m., while coasting at 3,500 feet, a storm overtook them.

They lost considerable ballast and gas and it was 7:30 before they were in the clear. Near Marilla, with another storm rapidly overhauling them and ballast exhausted, even cans of soup and bars of chocolate having been dumped, they landed safely, although bumped against a farm fence.

Found Weather "Awful."

Trotter, pilot of the Goodyear balloon, found the weather "awful" and admitted he was "plenty frightened" when the skies were being split by lightning bolts over Lake Erie.

Once during the night he and Blair skipped along no more than 300 feet above the white caps. At 3 a. m. they were over land, but had only a bag and a half of sand ballast left. They left their drag rope trail along and bounced from tree to tree, hoping to add those needed extra miles.

The distances were scaled today by Van Orman as referee, but instruments will have to be sent to the National Aeronautical Association at Washington for calibration before the results are official. Besides winning the right to enter the international race, Lieut. Settle won the Paul W. Litchfield trophy. The time and starting place of the international has not yet been determined.

M'Lean Decision Appeal Is Noted

Permanent Injunction Is Signed to Bar Divorce Action in Mexico.

Counsel for Edward Beale McLean, publisher of The Washington Post, yesterday noted an appeal to the Court of Appeals from a permanent injunction signed by Justice James M. Proctor restraining him from prosecuting divorce proceedings against his wife in Mexico

The permanent injunction was signed in District Supreme Court yesterday by Justice Proctor, who first asked why signing of a formal order might not await the return of Justice Jesse C. Adkins from his vacation. It was before Justice Adkins that earlier hearings were held.

Attorneys Nelson T. Hartson and Albert W. Fox, representing Mrs. Evalyn Walsh McLean, voiced apprehension lest Mr. McLean, who is now in Europe, might go to Paris to institute divorce proceedings there. Although Justice Adkins has already signed a decree pro confesso against McLean, amounting to a temporary injunction, they insisted on the signing of a permanent order.

Peyser, on the other hand, contended that proof of the allegations in the injunction proceeding should be ordered before filing of the final order.

Balloon Hovers Over Lake As Storm Adds to Terror

Bag of Second-Place Winner Only 300 Feet Above Water at One Time; Lightning, Downpour and Unresponsive Gas Endanger Flight.

By FRANK TROTTER
(Pilot Goodyear Zeppelin Balloon).

Akron, Ohio, July 20 (A.P.).—Wherever the International Balloon Race starts from, I hope wind currents aren't such as to send us out over Lake Erie at night in the midst of one of those rip-roaring lightning storms.

I don't know how Blair, my aid, felt about it, but I'll frankly admit I was plenty frightened this morning when the balls were zipping through the sky and our bag was following its own inclinations in regard to where it wanted to take us. It was awful.

Although we naturally would have liked to repeat our 1930 victory, we were well satisfied to take down second place, which admits us to competition in the international marathon again.

And as long as we could not win, there's no one I would rather see annex the title than Tex Settle. He is a great balloonist and the flight he achieved with the handicaps of natural gas as lifting power and thunderstorms as an extra hazard certainly proves it.

Our bag started out over the big lake at about 12:30 this morning and we were tossed around over all that water until 3 a. m., when the down shores of Ontario loomed up like the promised land.

It was about 2 a. m. when the lightning staged its most hair-raising exhibition for us. Along with that came water pouring down like a Niagara from the sky. With all that shower bath bearing down on the balloon we were lucky to have a bag and a half of sand left when we sighted land.

Most of the time over the lake we were dodging the lightning to the accompaniment of thunderbolt music, at about 4,000 feet up.

Once we valved down to about 300 feet and slipped along, with the waves tossing and lashing so near that the appearance was not at all inviting.

We found it so hard to hold the bag there that we allowed it to "have its head," and it bounced right up to the 4,000-foot level again. One thing we found out about natural gas—it does not respond like the hydrogen.

In other races we'd valve out a little gas and drop instantly. Last night we'd valve the gas and then have to wait a minute or two to get the desired action. That waiting was, of course, not pleasant.

Over land again with our bag and a half of sand at 3 a. m. today, we naturally wanted to add as many more miles as we could. Accordingly, being down near the grass roots, we let the drag rope trail along the ground and hedge-hopped for a half hour, bouncing against trees and from treetop to ground while we added that little extra distance we figured might be needed.

It was 3:30 when we had to jerk the rip cord and give up. The spot where we tumbled out of the basket is near Stevensville, Ontario, which, in case you don't know, is about 3 miles from Lake Erie's short and about 18 miles from Lake Ontario's.

HIGHER RAIL RATES HELD CREDIT NEED

I. C. C. Told by Banker That Investors Would Regain Confidence in Roads.

(Associated Press.)

The Interstate Commerce Commission was told yesterday by an investment banker that approval of some increase in freight rates, if not the full 15 per cent raise asked by the lines, would bolster railroad credit.

Fairman R. Dick, of New York, made the statement in response to questions by J. F. Finerty, Washington attorney. He had been asked if he felt freight rates should be increased on all commodities, even though the commission found that in some instances an increase would drive traffic from the railroads to other methods of transportation.

Mr. Dick did not answer at the time, but at the opening of the afternoon session responded with his statement that a partial increase would help railroad credit.

Dick Faces Grilling.

Commissioner Eastman yesterday plied Mr. Dick with a long series of questions on the economic situation. He questioned the wisdom of raising freight rates while general commodity prices are dropping, asking if Mr. Dick thought such a procedure economically sound. Mr. Dick replied that railroads could not help the decline in commodity prices. Taxes and losing branch-line operations, he said, ate up much of the revenue from rates.

Mr. Eastman, at the outset of the session, asked whether the "propaganda" of railroads for increases would adversely affect investments. Mr. Dick replied he did not think so if the increase were granted.

The investment banker said the appeal of the railroads might have the effect of alarming some investors, but others would be encouraged through the belief something would be done. Some action is imperative, he said, adding that he felt the Government could find some way to aid the railroads.

"Won't it be impossible for us to deny the rate increase plea without hurting the credit of the railroads?" Mr. Eastman asked.

Sees Credit Affected.

Mr. Dick answered that a complete denial undoubtedly would affect credit. He said he thought a lack of confidence had much to do with the situation.

"I have never seen the banks so full of money," he said, "nor have I ever seen such a demand for sound investments. I think the rate increase would be a psychological factor in bringing a return of much needed confidence."

The commission called for testimony from the Short Line representatives, and Ben B. Cain, an attorney, announced they had been unable to complete exhibits to be presented because facilities of the American Railway Association had been taken up with the main case.

He told Commissioner Meyer, presiding, that he had filed appearances for 153 short lines supporting the petition. Forty-five lines, he said, opposed the increase and some have not yet replied.

Andrew H. Brown, speaking for the Cleveland (Ohio) Chamber of Commerce, supported the plea for increased rates. Members of his organization feel, he said, that the requested horizontal increase would meet the present railroad emergency.

Carl Loos, of a Chicago law firm, asked Dick several questions about the price of bonds and stocks now as compared to 1921 and 1922.

Hard to Sell Bonds Now.

Dick held there was a fundamental difference in the situation, adding it was much easier to sell railroad bonds in 1921 and 1922 than it is now.

"I don't think from a banking standpoint," he said, "that the Mobile & Ohio could sell bonds through normal channels now if they put a 10 per cent coupon on them."

Commissioner Lewis asked Dick about financing by the Pennsylvania Railroad in connection with their plans to electrify a part of their system, but the witness said he was unacquainted with the details.

Dick was followed on the stand by W. R. Evans, of Buffalo, comptroller of the Great Lakes Transit Corporation.

"If the rail carriers in this proceeding are accorded any advance in their all-rail rate," Evans said, "without a corresponding advance being granted in the rail-lake rates, the result thereof will be that the lake revenue of the Great Lakes Transit Corporation and other lake lines will be diminished to precisely the same extent as the advance granted to the rail carriers."

Tells of Hauling Autos.

He told the commission that some shippers had arranged with oil boats to carry automobiles across the Great Lakes on the decks of their boats at low rates.

Hugh H. White, of Alabama, asked Mr. Evans if he had much competition from boats having no regular sailings. Mr. Evans said his chief competition was from Shipping Board boats, which file only maximum rates. He added his company was required to adhere to its rates because they were proportional to the railroad rates.

As the taking of evidence for proponents of the increase neared an end, C. E. Widell, of Nashville, Tenn., the first shipper to appear in behalf of the railroads, urged "sympathetic consideration" for the higher rates plan.

Mr. Widell, official of the Tennessee Products Corporation, one of the largest shippers in that State, said he felt inadequate transportation would be more costly to shippers in the long run than the rate increase asked for.

He said there was no doubt in his mind that the increase would bring greater revenue, adding that his firm would not transfer to other means of transportation.

Mr. Widell's concern manufactures coke and iron and other related products.

Meanwhile, Senator Johnson, in a statement, said "the railroads are no more entitled to the preservation of the fictitious and inflated security prices of 1928 and 1929 than farmers are entitled to inflated land values of 1919 and 1920, or all industrial companies to the inflated security prices of 1928 and 1929."

Branded As Injustice.

"Everybody is suffering now," the California Republican said. "To add to the suffering of one class to increase the profits of another would be the grossest injustice and a travesty upon government."

During testimony on the short lines, C. J. Field, of Fredericksburg, Va., vice president of the Virginia Central, was permitted to introduce figures showing the financial condition of the road since 1926.

Mass Cut-Rate Travel Is Seen as Rail Solution

By JOHN J. DALY

IN THE olden days, each railroad president had his private car. It set him at once as a creature apart—a man of supreme distinction.

Nowadays, almost any traveler on a railroad may enjoy the same privilege—a private car. There have been instances, all too numerable, where the porter experienced the same glow of grandeur that the president reserved to himself in days of yore—riding alone in a Pullman.

This tremendous falling off in railroad travel has played havoc with dividends. Democracy has come into its own. A pilgrim purchasing his ticket from Pittsburgh to Pensacola, say, has thrust upon him the same aloofness that once belonged exclusively to the railroad president, royalist of the rails. Yet the private car for each traveler can not remain long in transit. Such a situation tends not only to put a dent in the president's salary, but to make of the common coach a museum piece.

Pretty soon these railroad presidents will lose their own private cars, if not their railroads. By the same virtue, the country at large would suffer a loss it may never regain. Something must be done immediately to restore the roads to popular favor. Railroad men, even, now, are in Washington pleading for an increase in rates, revenues of the roads having fallen by the wayside.

* * * *

EDMUND BURKE called his age the age of caculators and economics.

Not one-half the lightning calculators existed in England then as may be found in the offices of the Interstate Commerce Commission this very moment; and as for economics, it is the peope's daily diet. They eat, sleep and drink economics.

These experts at the commission need mark up only a few pages of paper to arrive at the exact status of the railroads. It will immediately dawn upon their consciousness that what the railroads need, most of all, is an increase in traffic. How are they going to get it? Bn an increase in freight rates, which they demand? No! That is working backward. A further lowering of passenger fares will turn the tide, as we shall see.

From time immemorial the human race has traveled; not always on railroads, true. The first great journey, recorded in Biblical lore, was that of Adam and Eve out of the Garden of Eden. That was the original romance, the early dash for adventure. All through youthful Christianity the pilgrims progressed—and so it came, after the Crusades, that Columbus crossed the ocean. This land of the free and easy was immediately made travel-conscious. There was plenty of space and the eager Americans moved about in it.

THEN came the railroad. After the opening service between Baltimore and Washington the impetus was given for extensive travel and the way to the West was paved, by rail. All went merrily along until Mr. Henry Ford answered the simplest dictate of nature and provided man with his own private means of fast transportation. From that day the land has been cluttered with jitneys going here, there and yon. They race pell-mell across country, over the hills, down the dells and dales, under the very depths of the sea by way of the Hudson tunnel.

The proposition now is to get the reckless drivers back in the day coaches controlled by safety devices. Otherwise, the Sunday loss of life will mount to such proportions that a Nation, eventually, will be annihilated. Before that, though, the railroads will drop to the depths of degradation.

Let the railroads go? The Nation would lose a precious heritage. They were the foundation of American romance and adventure, fired by the majestic works of Horatio Alger, jr., whose monumental tome, "From Section Hand to President," was the classic of native boyhood and one of the reasons why railroads prospered. Every boy wanted either to work on the railroads or to ride on them.

* * * *

THAT old prosperity can be brought back now and the private cars of the railroad presidents made distinctive to themselves by crowding the passenger coaches and the Pullmans with tourists. Going Places. Travel at low rates—rates so low that the gasoline buggy and the airplane can not compete with the Iron Horse. That is the answer. Think what it would do for the country at large!

Excursions to Niagara Falls. Bridal parties sent wholesale to the Fount of Matrimonial Bliss. Great hordes of travelers deserting their flivvers on the roadside to enjoy the cheaper and safer transportation facilities of the railroads.

After all, there is something in safety control. Trains running every hour on the hour, packed to capacity. More and merrier pilgrimages to the shrines of patriotism, philanthropy and poetry, the homes of Washington and Jefferson, of Carnegie and Guggenheim, the tomb of Lincoln, the graves of Poe, John Howard Payne, James Whitcomb Riley, Longfellow and Whittier, to Gettysburg and Bunker Hill, the Metropolitan Museum and the Corcoran Gallery of Art.

If it is not the dead we are interested in, then the living. The great stars of Hollywood—Greta Garbo, John Gilbert, Charlie Chaplin, Mary Pickford. The stars of Broadway—Ethel Barrymore, Jane Cowl, Helen Hayes, Walter Hampden. Rouse from their native plains the Nebraskans and the Iowans, the Kansans and the Indianians, and start them across country, on the railroads, at travel rates so cheap they can not afford to stay at home. See how fast, by the very magic of mass transportation, the coffers of the railroads fill to overflowing and the private cars of the presidents assume again their once sacred dignity. It is cheaper and more economical, in the long run, to carry 100 passengers rather than one to a car.

Millions Watching Battle For Freight Rate Boost

Holders of Life Insurance and Savings Banks Interested in Making Bonds Secure; Pennsylvania University Experts Explain Results of Increase.

(Sixty-five million American holders of life insurance policies and savings banks deposits are watching the fight of the railroads for a 15 per cent increase in freight rates to make secure their rail bonds, $4,700,000,000 of which the insurance companies and savings banks now hold. Dr. Edward S. Mead, professor of finnce of the University of Pennsylvania and authority on finance, has made a critical study of the problem, and his views are presented in this, the first of three interviews with J. R. Brackett, Associated Press business writer.)

By J. R. BRACKETT.

Philadelphia, July 20 (AP)—While doubting that a 15 per cent freight rate increase would pull the railroads out of their present situation, Dr. Edward S. Mead, of the University of Pensylvania, does not believe the increase, if granted, would materially affect the consumer.

The railroads, and representatives of the millions of rail bond holders, are now appearing before the Interstate Commerce Commission in Washington, requesting the freight rate advance to preserve the value of rail bonds, endangered because of reduced rail earnings.

The advance on farm products will be paid by the farmer, Dr. Mead finds, after a close examination of the situation.

"The farm rates," he said, "will be shifted by the middleman, who pays the freight, back to the farmer. The prices of farm products are determined by the play of supply and demand in primary markets. For example, grain in Chicago, and cotton in New Orleans. The farm price is the primary market price, less the cost of handling and freight. Obviously much of the opposition to the rate increase comes from farm organizations.

"Bituminous coal is mainly purchased by railroads, public utilities, manufacturing plants and domestic consumers. It is produced by operators, most of whom now are not making profits. Coal paid an average freigth rate of $2.24 per ton in 1929. Fifteen per cent of the $2.24 is 33.6 cents. Who will pay it?

"A coal using public utility, can, with the consent of the Public Service Commission, shift the advance to the consumer, provided the increased cost of coal reduce profits below the 7 or 8 per cent allowed by the Public Service Commission. But it is unlikely that the utilities will advance prices and rates, since they try constantly to reduce rates in order to get more business.

"The domestic consumer of either anthracite or bituminous coal, where other competing fuels, gas, oils or coke are available, is not likely to pay the increase. It will probably be divided between dealer and operator, or, if the domestic price is advanced, the shift to other fuels or to mechanical methods of burning low grades of coal will be increased.

"As for the manufacturing consumer of coal, he can not, under present vigorous conditions of vigorous competition within his own industry and between his product and other products—as between cement and steel—add the increase in coal to his selling price.

"He is more likely to evade the charge by changing to oil, natural gas, or central station generated electricity, just as many farmers will evade the advance by more use of the motor truck.

"In general, the consumer will not feel the burden of advanced freight rates. The amount of freight charge in the price of a pair of shoes, for example, is so small that the increase will be absorbed by the producer and dealer. The advance probably will be absorbde along the extended line between producer and consumer."

City Will Exhibit Men Who Shave Off Beards

Centralia, Wash., July 20 (A.P.).—A vigilance committee began rounding up today men who have failed to comply with a city ordinance requiring citizens to go unshaven until the annual Southwest Washington pioneers' picnic, August 11 and 12.

A stock has been erected in the business district, where "slackers" will be exposed to public view after being convicted in police court. An edict was issued by the committee that mustaches are not classified as beards.

Doctor Denies Slaying Of New Orleans Man

New Orleans, July 20 (U.P.).—Hinting that an attempt had been made to blackmail him, Dr. Frank L. Loria Monday denied connection with the slaying of Earl Miles, 26-year-old fight promoter, whose decapitated body was found near Baton Rouge recently.

The young doctor, once named corespondent in a divorce suit filed against Mrs. Miles by the slain man, was today questioned by Assistant District Attorney E. Culligan.

TRAVEL FACILITIES COMBINAION SEEN

Representative McFadden Predicts Coordination of Various Routes.

Savannah, Ga., July 20 (A.P.).—Consolidation of railroads and coordination of rail, air, highway and waterway transportation facilities within the next twenty years were predicted tonight by Representative Louis T. McFadden, chairman of the House committee on banking and currency.

He spoke at a dinner given by the Savannah Chamber of Commerce in honor of Henry D. Pollard, newly elected president of the Central of Georgia Railway, and E. R. Richardson, newly elected president of the Ocean Steamship Co.

Predicting three developments for transportation during the next twenty years, he said the first would be the carrying out of consolidation of the railroads as contemplated under the transportation act of 1920. Public interest "urgently requires that this be done," he asserted.

Enactment of Legislation.

The second, he said, would be coordination between the various forms of transportation with the enactment of legislation essential to permit this. In this connection he said removal of restrictions of the Pan-American Canal act and Dennison act would give the railroads freedom of the seas, the Great Lakes and the internal waterways.

The third, he said, would be internal reorganization of the railroads to equip them for properly performing the duties of general carriers. In this, he said, the staff of the division superintendent might include a train master to supervise operations of trains, a road master to supervise operation of buses and trucks, a shipmaster to supervise water transportation and an air master to supervise air transportation.

Discussing transportation, the members of Congress described the present plight of the railroads and explained how curtailment of their earnings has led them to petition for a 15 per cent freight rate increase now before the Interstate Commerce Commission.

"Perhaps the most important thing to bear in mind in connection with this application," he said, "is that it is an emergency revenue measure and not a rate measure."

Regulaton Is Urged.

Representative McFadden said it seemed desirable that passenger bus transportation should be "justly and properly regulated." This would not be for the purpose of trying to force traffic back to railroads, he said, but as a matter of reorganization of service and bus operators should be required to procure certificates of public convenience as railroads are required to do.

"It is pertinent also," he added, "to inquire to what extent the costs of highway construction and maintenance are increased to meet the needs of a relatively small number of very heavy commercial vehicles; whether the resulting burdens and diversion of the general purchasing power of the country from other channels into the building of unnecessarily expensive highways are really good things for the nation from the economic viewpoints; whether the burdens of highway building and upkeep are fairly apportioned between the ordinary passenger automobile and the heavy commercial truck."

As to inland waterways he said the most objectionable feature was operation by the government through the Inland Waterways Corporation of an important line of barges on the Mississippi and Warrior rivers at "rates so low as to constitute subsidies to industries using them."

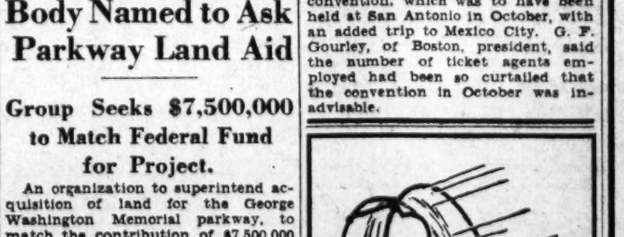
Body Named to Ask Parkway Land Aid

Group Seeks $7,500,000 to Match Federal Fund for Project.

An organization to superintend acquisition of land for the George Washington Memorial parkway, to match the contribution of $7,500,000 made by Congress, was formed yesterday at a luncheon meeting at the Cosmos Club.

George B. McClellan, of Princeton University, was named chairman of the board of trustees to manage funds and property. Dr. Cloyd Heck Marvin, president of George Washington University, general vice chairman, and Representative R. Walton Moore, of Virginia, vice chairman for his State. Other members appointed were J. Oliver Kuhn, vice chairman for Maryland; former Gov. Harry Byrd of Virginia; Attorney Gardner Booth, of Virginia; E. Brooke Lee and W. Bladen Lowndes, of Maryland. Charles W. Eliot, director of planning of the Bureau of Public Buildings and Parks, was named secretary.

By-laws were adopted and discussion was given the best methods of buying and acquiring land in Maryland and Virginia for the developments. Donations of property will be sought. The parkway will run on both sides of the Potomac from Great Falls to Mount Vernon. Under the Capper-Cramton act, Federal funds can not be spent unless a similar amount of $7,500,000 is provided by Maryland and Virginia.



G. H. Drown Is Honored In Aiding Woman Bather

(Associated Press.)

A man named Drown was officially commended yesterday by Secretary Adams of the Navy for helping to save a bather from drowning.

George Henry Drown, of San Diego, Calif., an aviation carpenter's mate, assisted in rescuing a woman off Tent City, Coronado, Calif., on March 22.

Others commended were Lieut. John A. Edwards, Edgefield, S. C., who rescued a ship's cook off Cuba January 17, and Albert J. Davis, aviation machinist's mate, and Woodie W. Smith, fireman, who together saved a seaman who fell overboard in Guantanamo Bay, Cuba, April 5. Davis lives in San Diego and Smith in the Bronx, New York City.

GRASSHOPPER HORDE ATTACKS MIDWEST

Wheat and Corn Fields Laid Bare by Pest; Appeals Beg Aid of U. S.

(Associated Press.)

One of the most serious outbreaks of grasshoppers in a decade has added to the troubles of the Western farmer.

A large increase in infestation as the result of last year's drought has been noted throughout the country, but the chief damage has been done in South Dakota, Nebraska, eastern Colorado, Idaho and western Kansas.

With an area of 11,000 square miles invaded in South Dakota, appeals have been made to the Agriculture Department for funds with which to combat the insect.

Extensive fields of wheat have been destroyed. Fears are now felt that corn may be attacked. Cutworms also have been unusually prevalent this year throughout the Middle West. Two serious outbreaks of Army worms have occurred in Posey County, Ind., and Shelby County, Ky.

Hessian Fly Inactive.

In the wheat belt, however, the Hessian fly is again inactive.

Past experience has shown a serious infestation may be expected every six or seven years, but none has been recorded in about twelve years.

The Agriculture Department has no funds available for control work. Drought loans can not be used for that purpose. It is dispatching field agents into the most seriously affected counties of South Dakota and Nebraska to assist in placing poison bait to kill the grasshoppers.

W. R. Walton, department entomologist, said yesterday the outbreak in those States probably would not be placed under control for at least two years. Ordinarily, he said, severe infestations last about three years. The grasshopper appeared this year in June, an unusually early date, due to the mild winter and warm spring. As a result of their early appearance they are expected to multiply before the summer is over.

Nebraska appropriated $25,000 for control work this year. Farmers have been urged to plow fields under in which large beds of grasshoppers have been located.

Corn Fields Stripped Bare.

Kennebec, S. D., July 20 (A.P.).—Cornfields stripped bare of all vegetation today showed the ravages of the voracious grasshoper horde in south central South Dakota.

In many fields, all living plants have been eaten by swarms of the insects. Drought has helped keep down weeds, and at first glance the stripped cornfields, which are not infrequent, resemble newly cultivated land in the spring.

While some cornfields in this region were barren, others still appeared green and little damaged by the grasshoppers. Small grains have been hard hit by the pest. Some have been harvested, but numerous fields have been abandoned, converted to pasture or mowed for hay because of curtailed yields.

The grasshopper devastation was most apparent in corn. In one extreme were fields which were entirely stripped. In others the hoppers have devoured most of the corn plants, leaving only jagged stalks and stubs of leaves.

Ticket Agents Defer Parley.

Chicago, July 20 (A.P.).—The executive committee of the American Railroad Ticket Agents Association decided today to defer its annual convention, which was to have been held at San Antonio in October, with an added trip to Mexico City. G. F. Gourley, of Boston, president, said the number of ticket agents employed had been so curtailed that the convention in October was inadvisable.

GERMAN OPENS CASE FOR CUSTOMS UNION

Arrow Aimed at France at First Session of Court at The Hague.

The Hague, July 20 (A.P.).—Like a school teacher lecturing a class, Dr. Victor Bruns, of Germany, today presented his country's side of the Austro-German customs treaty case before fifteen celebrated jurists of the Permanent Court fer International Justice.

Quietly, in a voice scarcely heard beyond the bench, he ranged from economics to political science, building up his case in favor of consummation of the projected treaty which has been brought before the World Court by the League of Nations for determination as to whether it violates either the Treaty of Versailles or the Treaty of St. Germain.

France, among other objectors, contends such an accord would compromise Austria's independence, and it was upon the definition of that independence that Dr. Bruns trained his address. He was still talking as night fell and he will continue tomorrow and probably Wednesday.

"In five memoranda filed with the court," he said, "there are three different interpretations of the word 'independence.' The more I see of these interpretations the more I think they are intended simply to obligate Austria further."

Then, after tracing the history of the various treaties which followed the World War he suddenly took another tack.

"Take this highly improbable case," he proposed, "suppose one power said to its banks: 'Withdraw your credits from that country.'

"That nation, in such an event, would be guilty of a grave violation of the independence of its neighboring state."

He mentioned no names but the majority of those who heard supposed this arrow was aimed at France.

At a preliminary session this morning the court decided against Czechoslovakia which had moved to add a Czech judge to the bench.

Heat Ends Search For Capital Miner

Deputy and Cattleman Fail to Find Traces in Desolate Range.

First Water Ranch, Ariz., July 20 (A.P.).—The furnace-like heat of the Superstition Mountains brought an end today to present efforts to solve the disappearance of Adolph Ruth, amateur prospector, of Washington, D. C.

The 66-year-old man entered the desolate range June 13 to hunt for the mythical "Lost Dutchman" Gold Mine. He has not been seen since. His camp was found unmolested.

Deputy Sheriff Jeff Adams and W. A. Barkley, cattleman, who went into the mountain fastnesses Saturday planning a week's search, sent up a smoke signal of distress and a pack train was sent in for them today. They were found almost exhausted and reported no traces of the prospector.

Dr. Erwin C. Ruth, the missing man's son, said he would abandon the search until next fall.

Millions Left to Son By Investment Broker

New York, July 20 (A.P.).—James H. Sheridan, an investment broker who died July 16 last, left his entire estate, whose value is undetermined at the present time, to his son, Donald H. Sheridan, with the exception of six bequests to charities totaling $7,500. The will, filed for probate today, is dated February 28, 1930.

Should his son die without issue, Sheridan directed that the first $1,000,000 of his estate be given to Yale University, the next $1,000,000 to Massachuetts Institute of Technology and the next $500,000 to Harvard University. Should there be any balance after these bequests are paid, it is to go to Yale.

NIGHT CLUB OWNERS WARNED BY POLICE

Operators of Notorious Spots of New York Not at Meeting, However.

New York, July 20 (A.P.).—Police Commissioner Mulrooney today told 300 night club and dance hall proprietors "what's what" in New York's night life of the future.

First of all, he said, all the owners, operators and managers hereafter must file with the police their correct names and addresses. In addition they must have their fingerprints and photographs taken for the police files and must give officials the correct names and addresses of all employes.

He ordered into the discard the "closed dance hall"—those in which male patrons only are admitted and obliged to dance with hostesses furnished by the management.

"The doors shall be open at all times and you will permit the public to enter, whether men or women," he said. "There will be no more exclusion of women escorted by male patrons and hostesses and entertainers will not be permitted to mingle with the patrons. There shall be no closed booths."

Licenses for dancing are to be refused establishments seating only 60 or 70 persons and the subterfuge of buying up old charters will not be countenanced.

The police will keep watchful eye on night clubs with the view to sighting any gangsters, racketeers or criminals who might enter.

"There will also be no more of this subsidizing of taxicab drivers to bring parties of maudlinly intoxicated persons to night clubs and there will be no ink eradicator on the premises to lift the $30 checks to $300," Mulrooney warned.

"And another thing," he emphasized, "3 o'clock is the closing hour."

None of the proprietors of the more notorious midtown night clubs was present. Those who attended the conference at police headquarters were mainly proprietors of small dance halls, cabarets, restaurants and soft drink emporiums. There were many Chinese and Negroes and a few women present.

Woman Will Testify At Gallinger Inquiry

Mrs. Ida Caplan, 5014 Eighth street northwest, the mother of a former Gallinger Hospital patient, will appear before the District grand jury today to tell of the treatment accorded her son while he was in the District institution.

She was subpenaed, together with two other witnesses, when she indicated her willingness to testify in the grand jury's investigation of Gallinger conditions. Assistant District Attorney Julian I. Richards, who is conducting the inquiry, also summoned Dr. James W. McManus, of the hospital staff, and Miss Edith Gist, a nurse.

Episcopal Laymen Of Nation to Meet

District Parishes to Send Delegates to Session in Tennessee.

Representatives of Episcopal parishes in the District are planning to attend the triennial national convention of the Brotherhood of St. Andrew, Episcopal laymen's organization, at the University of the South, Sewanee, Tenn., August 27 to September 3. S. H. Lawrence Choate, Washington, is national president.

The convention is expected to bring together leaders in adult and young men's work of the Nation. Topics to be discussed will include psychology of religious experience, intellectual difficulties and religion, problems of college students, opportunities for work in rural communities and international relations.

Those on the program include: The Most Rev. James DeWolf Perry, D. D., presiding Bishop of the Episcopal Church in the United States; Prof. Paul Rusch, St. Paul's University, Tokyo, Japan; the Right Rev. Bertrand Stevens, D. D., Bishop of Los Angeles; the Right Rev. Thomas Frank Gailor, D. D., Bishop of Tennessee and former president of the National Episcopal Council; the Right Rev. Herman Page, D. D., Bishop of Michigan, and the Right Rev. Frank A. Juhan, Bishop of Florida.

Work of Widening E Street Is Started

New Traffic Route Will Cut Plaza in Front of District Building.

Work on extension and widening of E street between Thirteenth and Fifteenth streets in front of the District Building began yesterday morning when a steam shovel started operations at Fifteenth street at the northern end of the new Department of Commerce Building.

E street will be extended across the District Building plaza, the street to be 56 feet wide along this part. This extension is being made to relieve traffic at Fourteenth and Fifteenth streets and Pennsylvania avenue when streets running east and west in the Mall development proper are closed while buildings are being constructed in that area.

Extension of the street across the plaza will not necessitate removal of the Sheppard Statue, but several large trees both in the plaza and along E street in front of the old Southern Railway Building will have to be moved. Construction of the new thoroughfare will be under direction of Capt. H. C. Whitehurst, chief engineer of the District.

Less Than Fourth File Personal Tax Returns

While only ten days remain for the filing of personal tax returns less than a fourth of the Washingtonians who are liable have made the report, Deputy Tax Assessor Charles A. Russell said yesterday. Only about 10,000 have filed the returns since July 1, whereas 42,000 are listed as coming within the tax scope.

Last year penalities totaling approximately $35,000 were assessed by the tax assessor because of failure to make the returns. No payments are necessary now. Bills for half of the tax will be sent out in September.

The GIRL About Town

I HAD my luncheon on the Willard roof yesterday, hemmed in by notables—foreign and domestic brands. Several tables away from me sat Senator-elect and Mrs. Ham Lewis—beg pardon, J. Ham Lewis. Whatever is done we must never forget the "J" in that name. The pink whiskers, girls, with a few silver threads here and there, are as glorious as ever, and the roving eye.

The official world awaits Mrs. J. Ham eagerly for as a fortune teller she has the professionals outdone, and can wrest the forbidden mysteries of the future from the stars, palms and cards alike. Democrat or no Democrat, she'll be called in at 1600 Pennsylvania avenue to tell about 1932. Why didn't Mrs. Lewis read Mrs. McCormick's hand early enough to save her that vain race against Papa and the pink whiskers?

Heard a great deal of discussion as we passed Memorial Continental Hall on our way to the Speedway. "Yorktown," "Sesquicentennial" and "Cornwallis" figured in the bits of conversation which floated out from the colonial windows of the building. Of course, it is a bit thick for the Virginia State commission to erect a tablet or statue to Cornwallis on the Field of Honor. The rather odd putting up monuments to persons who have been defeated. How strange it would be if Herbert Hoover put even a soap statue of Al Smith in the White House back yard.

Members of a local woman's club have never recovered, by the way, from the shock which Eleanor gave them as one of their guest speakers at a luncheon in honor of a veteran local cartoonist. When called upon to speak she demurred, and said she would answer questions about the guest of honor. Asked as to the outstanding feature of the cartoonist's personality she flashed back: "Sex appeal."

On the train from Buena Vista, where I spent the week end, in the next chair was the Argentine Ambassador, Senor Espil. As I puffed my cigarette on the platform the Ambassador puffed his pipe—underslung, like Ambassador Dawes' favorite. My, how the Ambassador could handle that pipe! It was a lesson in Castilian grace—and the interesting and romantic things we talked about!

Mate Jailed, Wife Gives Up Her Baby

Hands Infant to Judge, but Welfare Group Takes Charge of Family.

Camden, N. J., July 20 (A.P.).—A mother of eight children, indignant when her husband was fined and sent to jail for operating a still, handed her baby to Judge G. A. Pancoast today, declaring she could not care for it with her husband in jail. The husband is Felix Przygodo.

The woman went to the judge's office to obtain the husband's release and when this was refused, she plumped the baby in his arms and walked out. She was overtaken by court attendants, and was about to be charged with abandoning the child when Miss Louise Walsh, of the Society to Prevent Cruelty to Children, saved her from following her husband to jail.

THREE DEATHS, RIOT MARK MINE STRIKE

Fist Fighting Ends Meeting of Union at Scranton as Police Arrive.

day when a group of pickets attempted to halt three employes of the Gaylord mine near Martins Ferry as they started home after the day's work.

The slaying, first fatality arising from disturbances in the Ohio strike zone, occurred when Joe Peterlin, 43, and two other working miners tried to drive their auto through the picket line composed of forty men.

Peterlin told authorities he opened fire with a revolver when the pickets stoned the car after it had passed them. A brick sailed through the rear glass and struck the windshield, Peterlin said. The youth, standing near the car was shot through the chest.

Unaware he had shot anyone, Peterlin said, he drove to his home at Tiltonville, Jefferson County, a short distance from the Gaylord Mine in Belmont County. There he was arrested by Sheriff Howard Duff and placed in the Belmont County jail pending the coroner's verdict.

Peace in this strike area, which had reigned for ten days, was broken earlier in the day by a surprise march of 250 alleged strikers from Jefferson County upon several Belmont mines. Deputy Sheriffs broke up the march.

Riot Breaks Up Meeting.

Scranton, Pa., July 20 (U.P.).—Serious disorders in the entire tri-State coal district, including Pennsylvania, Ohio and West Virginia, reached a climax today when the biennial convention of District No. 1, United Mine Workers of America, broke up in a riot.

Delegates fought furiously with their fists until police arrived and restored sufficient order for President John Boylan, storm center of the convention's difficulties, to declare an adjournment.

Earlier in the day disorders were reported from various points in Pennsylvania, Ohio and West Virginia, following up the riot of yesterday at Canonsburg, Pa., in which more than 100 persons were injured.

Two men were shot and killed from ambush near Raymond City, W. Va., today and scores of minor battles were reported throughout the district.

Dissension among delegates to the union convention hinged on the election of Boyland to the presidency over Thomas Maloney's faction, throughout the two hours the convention was in session, repeatedly balked Boyland's attempt to control the convention.

The dissenters demanded a general strike and insisted upon the removal of some 40 delegates. The controversy reached a head when President Boyland announced that the report of the credentials committee, seating the disputed delegation, had been accepted.

President Is Attacked.

Immediately a group of Maloney men dashed to the platform and started raining blows on the president. Boylan, armed with a gavel, started hammering his assailants on the heads, whacking to right and left as his adherents came to the rescue.

The fighting grew intense and the convention hall was a scene of wild disorder until police arrived.

Boylan has restricted the proposed strike in District No. 1 to 15,000 miners employed by the Pittston Co., while Maloney's faction demands that 68,000 miners in the district walk out.

The thirteen local unions connected with the Pittston mines started voting on the proposal today and will continue through tomorrow.

The strike has spread as far West as Athens, in the central part of Ohio, where 190 workmen went on strike today.

Charleston, W. Va., July 20 (A.P.).—Two men who abandoned the cause of striking miners in the southern West Virginia coal fields were slain today by high powered rifle bullets as they were about to enter the Raymond City Coal Co. mine in Putnam County.

The killings were the first to occur since the strike was called by the West Virginia Mine Workers Union July 6, Company officials said there had been no previous trouble at the mine.

The men slain were Clarence Kyle, 29, and Cyrus Shelton Spaulding, 41. Spaulding was a motorman and Kyle his helper. Both had responded to the strike call, but later returned to work. They were about to enter the mine with Kyle's father and two brothers and another man. Kyle's brothers said they heard two metallic sounds and Kyle and Spaulding fell from their mine car.

Fired From Woods

Another train of cars carrying 95 miners was about to emerge from a tunnel into a clearing at the mouth of the mine. Kyle's brothers shut off the electric curent to prevent the train from continuing and exposing the other miners to the rifle fire.

The shots were fired from a wooded mountain across a creek, according to testimony given at an inquest this afternoon. A coroner's jury found that Kyle died of a bullet fired by a person or persons unknown. An inquest into Spaulding's death will be held later.

William Goff, 31, was arrested as a suspect in the shooting and John Holston and his 18-year-old son were held as material witnesses. All three denied any knowledge of the slaying.

State police said they had been employed by the Raymond City Co., but were on strike.

Otto Remmelin, general manager and vice president of the company, said the shooting was designed to intimidate the 100 men still working in the mine. Frank Genney, president of the West Virginia Mine Workers, said that organization had discouraged any attempts at violence.

Bob Considine, Tennis Star, Weds Miss Anderson Today

Ceremony to Be Performed in Annapolis Church; Plan Motor Trip.

A romance which blossomed amid the "thirty loves" of championship tennis and the raucous sounds in newspaper offices will culminate this this morning at 11 o'clock in the marriage of Miss Mildred Anderson, of the Park Central Apartments, and Robert Considine, 723 Second street northeast. The wedding will be held in St. Mary's Catholic Church at Annapolis, Md., with the Rev. James T. Clune officiating.

The bridegroom is the holder of many tennis titles and has added to his laurels through his ability to write of sport as well as to participate in it. He is now a member of the sports department of The Washington Post.

Miss Anderson is a native of Kansas City, Mo., the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jasper Jefferson Anderson. She attended public schools in Kansas City and in Oklahoma and later studied at the University of Kansas and at George Washington University. She came to Washington in 1928 to be employed at the Department of State. Miss Anderson has contributed to numerous magazines, both poetry and prose, and has reviewed the drama for The Post. She is 23 years old.

Mr. Considine is the son of Mrs. James W. Considine and was born in Washington 24 years ago, by his own admission. He attended Gonzaga School, Gonzaga High School and George Washington University, specializing in journalism. He began contributing to The Post in 1927, left the staff for a year, returning in September, 1930. His tennis contributions to The Post have been regular features since early in 1929.

The bridegroom's career in tennis began in 1924 and his success is attested by the fact that the public parks title went to him for five consecutive seasons, beginning in 1925. He was a national public parks doubles champion in 1929; Middle Atlantic doubles title holder in 1928 and 1930; won the District championship in 1930 and followed this up the same year with championships in the City of Washington; Wardman Park Hotel and Western Maryland matches. He represented Washington in the national public parks championship; the national singles at Forest Hills and the national doubles at Boston.

In addition to his writings in The Post, Mr. Considine is a contributor to Tennis, official organ of the United States Lawn Tennis Association, and other magazines. He has also done motion picture reviews for this paper.

Immediately following the wedding this morning, Mr. and Mrs. Considine will leave by motor for New York, then on to Montreal and other Canadian points for their honeymoon. Upon their return to the Capital they will reside at the Wardman Park Hotel.

PORCH OVER SPRING TO HONOR PIONEERS

D. A. R. Chapter to Build Structure at Charlotte Hall, Maryland.

Special to The Washington Post.

Leonardtown, Md., July 20.—The construction of a memorial porch at Ye Cool Springs, Charlotte Hall, Md., in honor of the faculty and founders of the Charlotte Hall School is to be begun within the next few months, it was said here today.

The memorial, which is to be erected by the Maj. William Thomas Chapter of the Daughters of the American Revolution of St. Marys County, will be in the form of a porch built around the springhouse.

The porch has been designed by H. S. Taylor White, jr., a Baltimore architect. The roof, ceiling, balustrade and floor will be devoted to memorials honoring the presidents of the board of trustees of the school and noted preachers who have been influential in the school and community, including the Right Rev. Thomas John Claggett, first Episcopal Bishop consecrated in America and first president of the board of trustees.

The nine pillars of the porch will honor eminent members of the school faculty since the institution was founded in 1774. The list includes Hatch Dent, the Rev. Neale H. Shaw, Philip Briscoe, N. F. D. Browne, William Thomas Briscoe, Edward T. Briscoe, Richard W. Silvester, George McK. Thomas, J. F. Coad and Col. B. F. Crowson.

The names of these men will be inscribed on a bronze tablet on the outside of the memorial.

It was said today that no definite date for starting the work has been decided upon. Plans have been formulated, however, and it is expected the preliminary work will be begun in the summer or late fall.

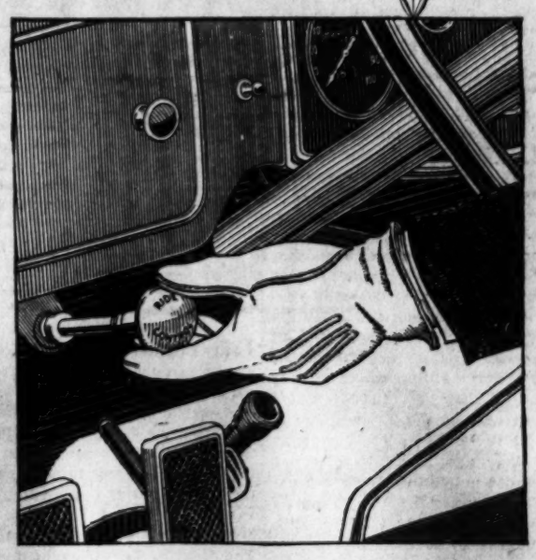
. . NOW Packard PROVIDES RIDE CONTROL AT A FINGER'S TOUCH



IN the luxurious new Packard Eight cars Packard provides its owners with riding comfort that has never before existed.

In the longer, lower, new Packards spring action and reaction are governed by hydraulic shock absorbers—and these shock absorbers are controlled from the dash. At a touch of the finger tips the Packard driver can now adjust the riding comfort of the car—"tune" the springs to compensate for the number of passengers carried and changes in speed; to counteract rough and uneven road conditions and temperature changes which affect oil flow. The new Packard cars are literally the easiest riding in all the world—due to the exclusive Packard Ride Control.

But this exclusive feature is only one of many important improvements offered by the distinguished new Packards. Bodies are refined and modernized in line—newly insulated against noise and temperature. Wheelbases are longer—tread is wider. Power is greater, smoother, quieter. The transmission is Packard-built, four-speed synchro-mesh.

Point by point Packard engineers have given attention to every detail, every feature of Packard design—and the result is a car so advanced, so modern, that it gives an entirely new conception of what distinguished and luxurious transportation really can be.

We cordially invite you to inspect the new Packard cars — drive them, ride in them. You will enjoy an entirely new motoring experience—for the new Packards are the cars of tomorrow, not of yesterday. Prices at the factory range from $2485 to $4550. When may we demonstrate the many Packard superiorities for you?

NAVAL DISPARITY.

A year ago today the London naval treaty was ratified by the Senate. American delegates at London had insisted that the United States Navy should be inferior to none other in the world, and the treaty was ratified by Great Britain and Japan on that basis. At the same time it was recognized that the American Navy was lagging behind in the construction of vessels for national defense.

The public is doubtless astonished to learn that Congress has not yet authorized a single ship of the types covered in the treaty. The Navy Department outlined a program calling for construction of one aircraft carrier, three submarines and two cruisers, but Congress was so busy passing the bonus loan act that it ignored the country's needs for defense. The United States Navy remains inferior, while other nations have built close up to the maximum allowed by the London treaty.

Congress did appropriate money for construction of eleven destroyers that were authorized more than fifteen years ago. At this rate the London treaty will expire long before Congress gets around to appropriating funds for the construction it contemplates. In the meantime Great Britain and Japan are building in spite of the fact that they are much nearer to their maximum quotas than is the United States. Great Britain has 30 naval vessels under construction, Japan 17, France 60 and Italy 19, compared with 11 pretreaty destroyers for the United States. The number appropriated for in each of those countries also exceeds by far the number authorized by Congress.

Between the time of the Washington naval treaty in 1922 and the London treaty in 1930 Great Britain laid down 22 destroyers, France 48, Italy 37, Japan 47 and the United States none. The record for construction of submarines is somewhat similar. These figures make ridiculous Premier Ramsay MacDonald's recent statement that Great Britain is the only nation that is disarming.

The only excuse that Congress has for its failure to initiate a building program that would bring the Navy up to its treaty strength is the status of the Treasury. But that did not deter Congress from reckless spending for other purposes. Deficits and enormous debts did not induce European nations to sacrifice their naval development.

This situation is especially impressive in view of the present pleas from Europe for American aid. President Hoover has repeatedly emphasized the need for reduction of expenditures for armaments in connection with the financial crisis. But European countries regard their naval defense programs as essential to their national welfare. Construction of cruisers and submarines goes on even though they are in straitened financial circumstances. When they can not meet their obligations and continue naval building, too, they petition the United States for relief.

Events since the ratification of the London treaty provide an effective illustration of the futility of trying to bring about disarmament by setting the world a good example. The United States has consistently remained below its treaty limitations. Yet Europe continues to build. The result of such a program is not to promote the cause of disarmament, but to leave the United States without adequate security.

If the American delegates at London had consented to anything less than parity with the strongest navy in the world the treaty could not have been ratified. Yet when parity has been recognized Congress is content to let the American Navy lag far behind. The anniversary of the London treaty is a reminder that victories won at council tables are worthless unless backed up by naval strength.

HARNESSING FUNDY'S TIDE.

Year after year attempts have been made to obtain the cooperation of Canada and the United States in harnessing the tides of the Bay of Fundy. Thus far all these efforts have failed because the fishermen of Maine and New Brunswick fear that any interference with the movement of those tides would seriously affect their interests. It has long been the dream of engineers familiar with the power of water in motion that the Fundy tides may and should be harnessed, and the power made available in the form of electrical energy.

It is understood that ample capital is available to test out the theory whenever the requisite authority can be secured, although it may be said, on the other hand, that other engineers are skeptical as to the economic value of the project. However, present indications are that within the next few months the question as to the possible damage to the fisheries will be solved, as an international commission has been chosen for the task of determining what damage, if any, is likely to follow the harnessing process. The United States will be represented on the commission by Director O'Malley and O. E. Sette, of the United States Bureau of Fisheries, while Canada has designated W. A. Found, deputy minister of fisheries, and Dr. A. G. Huntsman, director of the Dominion biological board, as its representatives. Mr. Found has been chosen as chairman and the work will begin in August. The commission will have associated with it in an honorary capacity a number of eminent scientists of Canada and the United States, and it is expected that the findings will become a guide in the framing of legislation.

The energy created by the ebb and flow of the tides has long attracted the attention of hydraulic engineers and many attempts have been made in the past to devise means for making that energy commercially available. There can be no question as to the willingness of men of means to risk their capital in the enterprise, and should the commission solve the fisheries problem it may be that the Bay of Fundy will become as important as a source of power as either Muscle Shoals or the St. Lawrence River.

METROPOLITAN AREAS.

American cities have acquired an unquenchable desire to be classed according to their metropolitan areas. Census figures showing how many people live within their political boundaries are quite unsatisfying. Atlanta, Ga., was so disgusted when the Census Bureau insisted on measuring the city according to the population living within its legal boundaries that it appealed to the courts. Ambitious cities with more foresight got busy and had their suburbs annexed before the 1930 count was made.

In response to an almost universal demand the Census Bureau is compiling figures to show the population of metropolitan areas. Figures for Greater Washington have already been released, showing a population of 621,059 compared with 486,869 residents within the District. Similar figures for other cities are being released to chambers of commerce, but are not being announced from Washington.

It is strange that the Census Bureau should adopt a backdoor method of making public this valuable information. The bureau seems to fear that it has capitulated to unreasonable civic pride. As a matter of fact, it is no mere puerile whim that prompts a city to seek classification according to its actual population instead of by arbitrary boundary lines. In the commercial world the question is not where do city limits run, but how many people are there drawing upon each metropolitan unit for employment and sustenance. Population figures for metropolitan areas are infinitely more useful in the business world than are those restricted to political divisions.

Los Angeles, for example, has become the largest city in the world—in area. By including all the suburbs for miles around the southern California metropolis makes a remarkable showing. Modest Boston, on the other hand, has been content to let its suburbs take care of themselves, and although Boston is the center of an enormous metropolitan area, it does not bulk large in the official census. Some other cities, including Cincinnati, Kansas City and Philadelphia are divided by rivers that form State boundary lines. It is needless to say that official census figures in such cases give no basis on which centers of population can be compared.

Instead of being a concession to municipal vanity this new population study tends to put all cities on an equal footing. Those cities which, in their pride, have extended boundary lines beyond all their surrounding towns will no longer be able to vaunt their bigness before unassuming metropolises that have allowed their suburbs to manage their own affairs. In view of the phenomenal growth of suburbs in recent years the "metropolitan area" figures become still more significant. The Census Bureau ought to make this information available to the public through its regular channels instead of sheepishly scattering it through local chambers of commerce.

AUSTRALIA'S DILEMMA.

The much vaunted "white Australian policy" is beginning to be critically questioned by its erstwhile sponsors. For many years Australia has thought that by keeping out all but Caucasian immigrants it could maintain a high standard of living as well as a pure race. Present day conditions, however, indicate that the unadulterated white population has not been sufficient to continue and sustain needed development.

Since 1926 the national debt has been increased more than 50 per cent and taxes have risen at an alarming rate. More than half of the gold reserve has been used and the national budget faces a large deficit. Australia has been able to borrow on the strength of her rich natural resources, yet this wealth has failed to produce the expected returns. Australians are wondering, therefore, why it is that this small population of approximately 6,000,000 has not produced more out of the vast possibilities of that continent.

The answer may lie in the "white Australia policy." Labor has achieved a position of considerable influence in Australia and imposes its demands on the nation. Union men will do only certain kinds of work and at certain wages. They accept work only if conditions are entirely to their liking, and flatly refuse to go to northeastern Australia where it is hot, dry and uncomfortable. Of course labor organizations permit no one else to do what they won't do. This policy has not created high living standards for the Australian labor class and the constantly rising taxes due to the national depression have further lowered incomes.

What difference might there be today, it is being asked, had Orientals been admitted to the vast stretches of the northeast? The opening up of approximately 100,000 square miles, now unproductive, by comparatively cheap labor might have helped to enrich Australia. Acute conditions in the cities might have been relieved had more of the country been available to development by outside interests. On the other hand, Australia, like Argentina and the United States, is confronted by a large agricultural surplus. Will Australia find it profitable to extend its crop areas while agricultural prices remain depressed? It will be interesting to see how the government meets this dilemma.

PRESERVING WILD SPOTS.

The constantly increasing congestion in American cities enhances proportionately the value of the great natural parks. Many of the most beautiful sections of the Nation have been made into public places of recreation by the State and Federal governments. The rapid decrease in wild lands has stimulated a desire to preserve specimens of primeval beauty. The difficulties of keeping the parks unspoiled, however, are little appreciated by the casual visitor.

Great numbers of tourists who visit the woodlands can not be relied upon to select proper camping sites, build safe fires and after a pleasant sojourn clean up the place before they depart. Were the campers allowed to use the parks undirected they would not only be unsightly after a short time but would be insanitary as well. It is necessary, therefore, to establish service areas with hotels, restaurants, lunch stands, garages, incinerators, pure water and other necessities and conveniences for visitors.

By passing an unavoidable road through the service area it is possible to direct large crowds to places where their wants can be supplied. Given instruction and warnings campers are able to enjoy the advantages of the parks without destroying their usefulness and beauty. The discrimination of park commissions in most of the States is shown by the provision of sanitary conveniences and camping facilities without spoiling the natural beauties of the woods.

Efforts are being made by park commissions to make each park self-supporting so far as possible. By having visitors contribute small fees toward maintenance, a more equitable method of support is achieved than by having taxpayers from all parts of the State share in the upkeep of vacation spots which many of them are unable to enjoy. The number of new parks that are yearly being opened have greatly augmented the territory which will be perpetually retained in its rugged grandeur.

A GERMAN'S DIARY

By Prof. Dr. ERNST JACKH,
In the Christian Science Monitor.

My American friends know my optimistic nature. But I must admit that recently I felt, for the first time since 1918, apprehensive for the continuation of German democracy and of the new Germany. Neither the breakdown in 1918, nor the Treaty of Versailles of 1919, nor the Nationalist and the Communist revolts in 1920 and 1921, nor the inflation in 1922 and the deflation in 1923 (what a road of suffering traversed by the new Germany is expressed in these figures!), none of the many different crises which have occurred until now, have menaced the foundations of the state and the foundations of order as seriously as the dangers of recent days.

The overthrow of the Chancellor of the Reich, Dr. Heinrich Bruening, the best leader since Bismarck, at this time would have meant nothing more or less than civil war, would have unchained, in the world's most literal meaning, the open fight of the Fascists and Communists against the democratic state. It would have destroyed international confidence and international cooperation, which have been built up, despite all that has happened, in twelve long years filled with labor and sacrifice.

Does Germany really want peace? This is a question many visitors, who daily come to see me, ask. And then they point to such incidents as the Steel Helmet convention in Breslau, with its 60,000 Nationalist participants, demonstrating for revenge. When I point to the fact that on the same day the Labor party staged a demonstration of 160,000 men in favor of peace, very few know of it, because most of the American newspapers underline the sensation of the Steel Helmet day. Nevertheless, Leipzig is much more important and decisive than Breslau. In Breslau: a now disappearing class, consisting of former officers and princes, who cultivate the memory of the past, but who have no influence on the future of Germany.

In Leipzig: a well-organized group of bourgeoisie and workmen, who are building up the future in a peaceful way and who have only just now once more defended the state against and saved it from the Nationalists. The former Conservatives are revolutionary today, and the former revolutionaries are Conservative today.

The living synthesis of the old and new Germany, Reich's President von Hindenburg, strengthens them by his authority. You have read that Germany, too, has now received its "war memorial." But this "war memorial" has become a "peace memorial"—thanks to the old Field Marshal von Hindenburg, "first in war and first in peace." My foreign friends were skeptical when I explained in my lectures at American universities five years ago that when the erection of a national monument in honor of those who were victims of the war came under consideration in Germany, Von Hindenburg would suggest not a war monument for warriors, but the changing of a military guardhouse in Berlin into a chapel dedicated to the memory of our lost and loved and to faith and peace.

And which military guardhouse do you suppose? That on Unter den Linden, between the "Zeughaus" (armory) and the university, opposite the castle of the Emperor William I. "On the most Prussian spot of all Prussia, the most noble edifice of the famous master of the old Prussian art of building (Schinkel)." Premier Otto Braun underlined this symbolical coincidence when he said: "For a whole century the guards of the old army have kept watch on this spot in the heart of the capital; may the hearts of the coming generations hold watch here for a thousand years, that the course of history may never again demand so overwhelming a sacrifice of blood as the World War did." Do these German words not remind one of the words spoken by Lincoln at Gettysburg, "That these dead shall not have died in vain."

HORSE MEAT FOR FRANCE.

A shipment of 256 Canadian horses, destined for the horse meat trade in France, was landed recently at La Havre, says the Wall Street Journal. This is the first of weekly shipments to be made this summer.

Apart from its cheapness, the advantage of horse meat is its freedom from the danger of tuberculosis, it is declared, and for this reason it is used extensively in several continental hospitals. The Canadian horses in the first shipment are nearly all from the ranges of Alberta.

When a Hound Dog Sucks One Egg, No Hen Nest Is Safe.

By ROBERT QUILLEN

THIS generation affords an excellent example of the truth that pride goes before a fall.

It boasts of its worldly wisdom and affects a hard-boiled sophistication, yet its gullibility surpasses anything the world has seen since sharpers sold gold bricks and lightning rods.

Observe, for example, the multitude's pathetic faith in the honor of bootleggers.

Despite the grim evidence afforded by the blind, the lame and the poisoned dead, the liquor buyer clings to his child-like faith in labels and regards his own bootlegger as the one incorruptible exception in a vast company of rogues.

Consider, also, the daily report of victims fleeced by plausible strangers who offered them a share in some money-making enterprise not sanctioned by law.

In every such case the sharper is a confessed rogue, for his get-rich-quick scheme is based on some form of trickery, yet the victim's lust for easy money blinds him to the truth that men who live outside the law have no rules or standards that interfere with taking a profit.

Is further evidence needed to prove this a generation of suckers?

If men in legitimate business, supported in virtue by fear of the law and public opinion, shame our civilization by their frequent dishonesties, who but a low-grade moron can put his trust in men who are avowed enemies of the law and protected in rascality by the assurance that their victims dare not make complaint?

This generation is easily tricked because it no longer understands the significance of honor.

Years ago I heard a man boast that he regularly cheated a railroad by purchasing a ticket for a point many miles short of his destination. Fifteen years later I heard without surprise that he had robbed the institution that trusted him with its funds.

A man's honor is like a woman's virtue. He is wholly honorable or he is without honor.

If he is dishonorable in one particular nothing but fear of punishment keeps him from being dishonorable in all. If he cheats a stranger, assurance of safety and a sufficient prize will induce him to cheat his brother.

Honor is a state of mind, not a knack of keeping out of jail.

Press Comment Upon Acts and Actors in the Great American Show, "Politics."

The Rolling Snowball.
Battle Creek Enquirer-News.

The charity snowball that Detroit started rolling with easy welfare spending has begun to grow in size and increase in momentum, and the city administration does not know how to stop it.

With $20,000,000 already spent and the city forced to negotiate with Mr. Ford for a $5,000,000 loan, the demand is now made by a group of the beneficiaries of the $20,000,000 for a welfare fund of $100,000,000.

Whatever political plums may have been growing on the welfare tree, if political plums were sought, seem to have been shaken off by the vigor of the new demands. Those who now want one hundred millions are the same ones who have been receiving part of the $20,000,000 dole and have also been getting free lodging from the city. They have turned on their benefactors with disconcerting suddenness.

It's an old story. Politically controlled charity, coupled with indiscriminate spending, has devoured every community that has tried it. The snowball grows and grows, rushing down the hill to bankruptcy. The more that is given, the more is demanded. The appetite increases and never finds satisfaction.

Detroit has forsaken the principles of democracy and is learning the consequences. Both the treasury and the electorate are being undermined, morally as well as financially.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR.

Antipropagandist Laments the Confusion of Religion With Reform in American Churches.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: Dr. Robert E. Corradini, of the alcohol information committee, speaking before the convention of Baptist societies in Washington, admits the naivete of Christian groups in accepting the blandishments of Wheeler-Bryan et al., and believing that the country would become dry immediately by the passing of sumptuary prohibitory legislation.

It doesn't require any deep or profound thought to come to the conclusion that religious bodies because of their emotional and sentimental background of idealism are ever the prey of reformers, fanatics and zealots. The more idealistic and impractical the scheme may be the more fervent its appeal. We might list a few of the panaceas being agitated at the present time: The Lord's Day Alliance, with a "blue law" background; the antitobacco campaign, "A denicotinized America!" the League of Nations, "The world supergovernment;" the National Council for the Prevention of War, misguided, well-meaning seekers for world peace who have listened too well to Frederick Libby, and who may not know that their program is sympathetically received in Moscow.

One might go on ad infinitum, ad nauseam! The point made here is that the harm done by these leaders of various agitating groups goes a way beyond the evil of their program. One sees behind it all the most dangerous and inimical influence—that of the church meddling in statecraft—a condition which history has time and time again proven to be injurious to both the state and the church—to the state because reform measures are destroyers of human liberty and eventually wreck the fabric of the government when carried to the extreme; to the church because it shows a willingness to come down from its high calling of spiritual comfort and ministration and play around in the muck of politics.

Speaking as one who has a personal acquaintance with the leaders of "reform groups" and knowing something of their intolerant bigotry, I realize how almost impossible it is for a minister to dare to stand out against their appeal. The result is that the pulpits of the National Capital are constantly being forced to lend themselves to propagandists of fanciful remedies for real or imagined ills. It is so easy to call your program or mine "Christian" and get away with it, and by the same token call any one who opposes it "unchristian" and doomed to perdition. It is that very intolerance and lack of human understanding that gives the reformer the key to the church ear.

Cleveland Girl Suggests a Six-Hour Day to End Unemployment.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: To build up all lines of industry the managers will have to stop unemployment and get the consumers and buyers back into the market buying their goods. If you take away from a large portion of these millions of people their income from wages, industry suffers, and until these people who are deprived of their income can regain it through wages, industry will not improve. Put 100 per cent of the working people of America back to work, and industry will gain 100 per cent of the buying power of the country. This can be done by reducing working hours to six hours a day. GIFT FROM HEAVEN.

A husband is a gift from heaven to woman, says a prominent sociologist.—News Item.
Does your gift from heaven give you all the money that you need?
Does he bring men home for dinner when but two you'd planned to feed?
Does your gift from heaven always do exactly as he should?
Does he hang up his pajamas or just leave them where he stood?
As a husband have you thought him in his manners rather slack?
Well, he's now your gift from heaven!
Would you like to send him back?

Does your gift from heaven, lady, stay our rather late at night?
Does he grumble in the morning if the coffee isn't right?
Does he whistle while he's shaving?
Does he toss his things about?
When you make a bid at contract does he always take you out?
Does he frequently annoy you by the silly things he'll do?
Then remember, little lady, he was heaven's gift to you.

A scientist has told us that he thoroughly believes
A husband is a present which from heaven the wife receives,
And I know the men will hail him as a friend, but I shall fear
To quote my heavenly rating, for I know she'll say: "My dear,
You may be a gift from somewhere,
but you can't be heaven sent,
The professor made an error—'twas the other place he meant."

WHEAT PRICE SLUMP LAID TO HUGE CROPS

Chairman Stone, in Speech Over Radio, Backs Farm Board's Policy.

(Associated Press.)

Chairman Stone of the Farm Board last night made a radio speech to tell, as he put it, the truth about the wheat situation to farmers who are receiving the lowest prices in generations.

Mr. Stone said the "main trouble with wheat prices is that for several years the world has been producing more wheat than it has been consuming."

The charges that the board is to blame are untrue, he said, "but unfortunately," he added, "some persons who are friendly to the farmers' interests are being taken in by this propaganda, and are misled into asking for changes in the board's policies that would work against the farmers' interests."

"The board," Mr. Stone said, "has repeatedly assured the public that the Grain Stabilization Corporation's holdings will not be dumped on the market, but will be handled in such a way as to impose the minimum burden on domestic and world prices. Complete withholdings of these supplies, if it were practical, would not create a shortage of wheat, either here or in world markets, or materially improve prices, while it would pile up more trouble for the future.

"We can not afford," the chairman said, "to rely on luck or magic to clear up the world wheat situation. Luck may be with us or against us. But substantial and sustained improvement in world's wheat prices, and of wheat prices here, calls for a material reduction in world production and increases in consumption where that is possible."

U. S. Narcotic Pact Hits Soviet Regime

Geneva Treaty Signed With Reservation Regarding Recognition.

(Associated Press.)

The United States Government, in signing the Geneva narcotic treaty, took precautions to prevent its adherence from being construed as a recognition of the Soviet government in Russia.

The State Department announced yesterday that the American delegation to the Geneva narcotic conference had signed the treaty to limit the manufacture and distribution of drugs and made public six reservations attached to the treaty by the United States.

One of them provided that the signing of the treaty on the part of the United States "is not to be construed to mean that the Government of the United States of America recognizes a regime or entity which signs or accedes to the convention as the government of a country when that regime or entity is not recognized by the Government of the United States of America as the government of that country."

In another reservation the United States provided that its signature would not involve any "contractual obligation" to any country which was not recognized by this country.

Living Costs Drop 2 Per Cent in Month

Housewives Find Dollar Buys Fourth More Than 5 Years Ago.

(Associated Press.)

The city housewife seems to be "getting the breaks" from the low prices which are accompanying the depression. While the dollar in the family budget is still below its pre-war purchasing power, it now buys over 25 per cent more than five years ago.

The Department of Labor averaged retail prices in 51 cities and found that when housewives went shopping for the dinner table on June 15 they found prices 2 per cent less than a month previous, and 20 per cent less than a year before.

Such a staple as potatoes was 14 per cent cheaper on June 15 than on May 15. Plate beef dropped 6 per cent, chuck roast, 4 per cent; rib roast, 3 per cent, while sirloin steak, bacon, butter, cornmeal, cabbage and hens were 2 per cent less.

Former Grid Star Tackles Man Seeking Bride's Photo

Mrs. Paul Phipps, Sister of Lady Astor, and Maurice (Lefty) Flynn, Bridegroom for Fourth Time, Are Wedded in London.

London, July 20 (U.P.).—Maurice (Lefty) Flynn, four times a bridegroom, reverted to his Yale football technique here today and knocked down a press photographer attempting to photograph him after his marriage to Mrs. Paul Phipps, sister of Lady Astor.

Flynn made a flying tackle and downed Edward Smith, the photographer, damaging his camera. Smith, still on the ground, recovered in time to snap the bride, who arrived, smoking a cigarette, in the next automobile.

The flying tackle took place outside the residence of the Baroness Ravensdale, where the bridal couple and their guests attended a reception after the ceremony at the Prince's Row register office, near Buckingham Palace. The witnesses were Flynn's father, Joseph Flynn, and the bride's son-in-law, Reginald Grenfell. Guests included Lady Astor's son Billie, Lady Cynthia Mosley, and the Baroness Ravensdale.

The couple sought to avoid reporters and photographers and left the register office by different doors.

London, July 20 (A.P.).—The youngest of the Gibson girls, Mrs. Nora Langhorne Phipps, sister of Lady Aster and Mrs. Charles Dana Gibson, today became the bride of Maurice Bennett (Lefty) Flynn, former Yale football player.

The wedding took pace at the Princes Row register office and was attended by a number of friends of the couple. The register was signed by the bridegroom's father, Joseph August Flynn, and his brother-in-law, Reginald G. Harvey.

Mrs. Phipps and her first husband, Paul Phipps, an Englishman, were divorced last month. Mr. Flynn has been married and divorced three times.

When Charles Dana Gibson made the five famed Langhorne sisters of Virginia known throughout the world as the "Gibson Girls," he started Nora, the youngest, on a path of publicity which she has since been at pains to avoid.

She has been one of London's most popular hostesses and a well known figure in English society, although her widest fame, as far as the public is concerned, comes from the fact that she is a sister of Lady Astor.

Today's ceremony, in keeping with her own desire, was attended only by the closest friends of the couple.

Recently Mrs. Phipps has been living with Lady Ravensdale in Mayfair. Her name rarely appears in the society columns and only once or twice in the past decade has she figured in the news. Once was when her daughter Joyce married Reginald Grenfell two years ago at an elaborate wedding in St. Margaret's Church.

STEP TAKEN TO HALT NEW CHINA REVOLT

Manchurian Authorities Aid Nationalist Government by Seizing Supplies.

Peiping, China, July 20 (A.P.).—Manchurian authorities came to the aid of the Nationalist government today by seizing military supplies to crush a new rebellion in Honan Proving supposedly in league with the insurgent government at Canton.

Martial law was declared in Peiping and Tientsin and censorship was invoked to suppress news of operations which began Thursday against 40,000 troops of Gen. Shih Yu-san north of the Yellow River.

Manchurians hoped Nanking would rush forces northward to catch Shih's rebels in a vise between Nationalist troops and Manchurian armored trucks, which were rolling southward on the Peiping-Hankow Railway.

Will Aid Insurgents.

This Manchurian aid, however, was offset by Canton reports asserting that Gen Ho Chien, Governor of Honan, would throw his strength to the Cantonese insurgents.

Moreover, an emissary of Canton was reported in Peiping endeavoring to buy the aid of Gens. Feng Yu-Hsiang and Yen Hsi-Shan to renew their northern revolt of last year against the Nationalist government.

Still another war lord was said to have joined the coalition against the Nationalist regime. Canton claimed Gen. Chen Ming-Shu, ousted Nationalist governor of Canton, had decided to turn his Nineteenth Nationalist army over to Canton and lead it against Chiang Kai-Shek, head of the government at Nanking.

Dissension Breaks Out.

In Kwangsi Province, dissension broke out among insurgents, their leaders complaining their troops were kept out of Kwangtung Province by edict from the rebel capital at Canton. Suddenly recovered from "diplomatic illness," Gen. Chang Fat-Kwai hurried from Hongknog to Wuchow to confer with fellow Kwanxsi chieftains. His purpose was uncertain.

Meanwhile, said Canton reports, Chiang Kai-Shek, Nationalist president, was attempting to bolster his military campaign against Reds and bandits in Kiangsi Province with payment of $2,000,000 (about $400,000 gold) to cease their depredations. Chiang, fully occupied with warfare against outlaw armies was unable to campaign effectively against rebellion.

G. O. P. PARLEY NEED IN QUAKER CITY SEEN

Mayor Mackey Tells Fess Convention May Aid in Holding State.

(Associated Press.)

The statement that Philadelphia and Pennsylvania "might need" the Republican national convention next year to remain in the Republican column was made yesterday by Mayor Mackey of Philadelphia.

Mayor Mackey, a Republican, acted as spokesman for a delegation of Philadelphia business and political leaders in presenting his city's bid for the 1932 convention to Chairman Fess of the Republican national committee. The mayor offered use of the city's new convention hall and promised adequate hotel facilities and a sufficient financial guarantee for the session. Senator Fess assured the group it had made a strong bid, but said the question must be settled by the committee at its December meeting.

Questioning the theory that national conventions help to carry a "politically weak" section, Mayor Mackey told Senator Fess, "Even at that we ought to have some help in Philadelphia and Pennsylvania this year."

"The time has come to help the city and State in 1932," he continued. "Pennsylvania has been regarded as unfortunate in being steadfastly Republican." He reminded Senator Fess Philadelphia had not had a Republican convention for 30 years.

Mayor Mackey's expressions were echoed by Hubert J. Horan, of the Ocean Traffic Bureau, a wholesale grain dealer, who said holding the convention in Philadelphia or some other Eastern city might have a "good psychological effect on Western farmers."

Senator Fess said Philadelphia was the first city to be granted a formal hearing on its offer, although a number of other cities have made bids, including Cleveland, Chicago, Detroit, San Francisco and Atlantic City.

Work Contracts Past Two Billion

Total Reported for Last Week $129,616,304, Roads Included.

(Associated Press.)

Public and semipublic work contracts awarded since December 1, 1930 have passed the $2,000,000,000 mark.

Figures issued yesterday by the emergency committee for employment gave the total as $2,008,420,999.

The total reported for last week was $129,616,304, including more than $79,800,000 of Federal aid and State highway contracts in 37 States. This covered all contracts for the month of June and repfesented 6,831 miles of road work.

Forty-five States and the District of Columbia were included in the total new construction of all types reported.

Wheat at 25 Cents Serves As Money, Feed and Fuel

Southwestern Farmers Find It Accepted as Legal Tender, While Some Plan to Burn It Instead of Coal This Winter.

Kansas City, July 20 (A.P.).—Not all the bumper wheat crop of the Southwest will reach market through the regular channels.

With wheat down as low as 25 cents a bushel, farmers are not only using it as a medium of exchange in many instances, but they are finding numerous means of consumption heretofore unknown.

In the Texas Panhandle theaters are admitting farmers and their families for a specific amount of wheat; dentists exchange dental work for it; mills accept it in exchange for flour, and almost every newspaper in the section is paying above market price for the wheat for subscriptions.

So far, however, grocers, clothing merchants, machinery dealers and others who do any considerable amount of business with farmers have not adopted the plan.

Old mills all over the Texas wheat country have been repaired and put into operation, and are exchanging flour for the raw grain. Some of them produce only the whole wheat product, but their business is heavy, nevertheless.

Many farmers are feeding their wheat to poultry, dairy cows and hogs, and there are few row crop farmers in the Texas territory who have not bought from 25 bushels to several hundred bushels of the cheap wheat to feed to poultry and live stock.

Outlying districts of the north plains have announced that some farmers will burn wheat for fue' this winter, rather than haul in coal.

At Dodge City, Kans., Richard W. Evans, Ford County probate judge, has offered to marry couples for ten bushels of wheat. The regular fee is $5. The Gum Motor Co., in the same wheat belt town, is offering 50 cents a bushel for wheat in exchange for used automobiles.

At Elkhart, Kans., the Bradford Auto Co. is offering 50 cents a bushel for wheat, to be applied on purchases or accounts. A 5,000-bushel storeroom built by the company is nearly filled.

A general merchandising store and a restaurant at Enid, Okla., both frequented by farmers, today offered to accept wheat in trade, but none had been received.

In some instances garage men and others in rural towns of northern Oklahoma have accepted wheat in payment of outstanding bills, but there was no general barter move, grain men said.

PORTO RICAN DRIVE ON LIQUOR PLANNED

After Survey, Woodcock to Send 10 More Agents to Dry Island.

New York, July 20 (A.P.).—Amos W. Woodcock, Commissioner of Prohibition, returned today on the liner Coamo from a survey of conditions in Porto Rico, with the conclusion that efforts to enforce prohibition there "have not been satisfactory."

"There is a great deal of smuggling of liquor into Porto Rico," he said. "It is situated so bootleggers from other countries, especially San Domingo and Martinique, have comparatively easy access. This condition was complicated by the withdrawal last March of the United States customs patrol.

"There are also many small stills in operation. There are a million and a half people in Porto Rico, living in congested quarters, and our problems there are very different from those in the States. We depend chiefly upon the insular police to handle the local distillers, and concentrate upon the big cases."

More Agents to Be Sent.

Enforcement has been handicapped by the lack of agents, Woodcock said, but he thinks it will improve. The department has decided to put ten more men in Porto Rico. There are only three regular agents there at the present time.

"The most encouraging thing about the situation" Woodcock said, "is the attitude of the insular police. We may draw upon them to increase our force of agents, if we can find ten who can meet the Civil Service requirements. The acting Governor of Porto Rico was also very helpful and I am very glad that I made the trip down there."

He said that there were, on an average, only three Federal cases of prohibition violations each month, but the insular police had many more than that. The poor enforcement conditions in Porto Rico, he said, are not so bad as to meet the eye of the ordinary tourist. There is no drunkenness seen on the streets, he added.

The commissioner left New York on July 9. He was accompanied by E. E. Glover, chief of the division of accounts and supplies. He said he was going to Providence to give a hearing to a suspended agent tomorrow and would leave there tomorrow night for Washington.

(Associated Press.)

Withdrawal of the United States customs patrol from Porto Rico, blamed by Prohibition Director Woodcock for causing an increase in liquor smuggling into the islands, was ordered by the Treasury at the insistence of Gov. Theodore Roosevelt after the plan had been submitted to Woodcock.

Treasury files showed that Gov. Roosevelt insisted upon the withdrawal of the customs force, paid out of the island's customs revenues, to save $100,000 a year to the insular government.

Smuggling Held Small.

The withdrawal became effective last March 15 after Gov. Roosevelt had agreed that the work of the Customs Patrol would be taken over by the Insular Police Force. Before the plan was put into effect, it was submitted to Howard Jones, assistant prohibition director, and to Woodcock.

Assistant Secretary Lowman disagreed with Woodcock as to the seriousness of the Porto Rican liquor situation.

"There are but few people on the Island of Porto Rico who have financial means to purchase imported liquor," Lowman said.

"The natives use cheap distillations made from sugars and the like and are little interested in imported liquor, so that smuggling has never been a problem there."

Dry Rule Held Success.

Norfolk, Va., July 20 (A.P.).—Prohibition conditions in the Virgin Islands were termed satisfactory today by Maj. Charles J. Guggenheim, prohibition director for the last five years, who arrived here today on the U. S. S. Kittery. Maj. Guggenheim declined to make comparisons with conditions in the States.

The legalized bay rum industry in the Virgin Islands, Maj. Guggenheim said, is progressing as well as could be expected under world economic conditions. He explained that the industry is not dependent upon prohibition, as he said was generally understood in the United States.

Bootlegging, he said, is carried on in the islands and Federal prohibition agents are doing all possible to prevent it. Under the change in administration of the island, civilian government now takes charge instead of naval and Marine officers.

Intelligence Unit On Torrio's Trail

Predecessor of Capone Is Suspected of Evading Tax Payments.

(Associated Press.)

The Intelligence Unit of the Internal Revenue Bureau, whose agents brought about the downfall of Al Capone and his associates, are following the trail of Capone's predecessor, Johnny Torrio, to see whether he has evaded his income taxes.

An agent of the bureau has just completed an investigation in Hawaii of Torrio's affairs there and his report is on the way to Washington. Torrio was described as Capone's predecessor, but he left Chicago several years ago and has not returned. Since that time he is believed to have made his headquarters in New York.

Capone is to be sentenced late this month. Meanwhile the Government has been investigating to learn whether the former gang lord has sufficient property with which to satisfy civil penalties for evading his income tax.

Gravens Hosts At Bilger Place For Week-End

Phsychoanalyst and Wife Continue Delightful Gatherings.

At the invitation of Dr. and Mrs. Philip S. Graven, of 2007 Massachusetts avenue, an interesting little group of Washingtonians passed the week-end at lovely Greenfield Farm, the Gen. Bilger place near Front Royal, which is one of the show places of that part of Virginia. Noted in town for their hospitality, which is of the spontaneous sort found to a delightful degree on old Viennese estates, the Gravens presided over Sunday at the interesting house which occasionly is turned over by its owner to groups from the Capital or Richmond. Among the group were Mrs. E. M. Hood and her daughter, Miss Dorothy Hood; Mrs. La Cour Olsen and several others who motored down for the gay week-end.

A Viennese of the sparkling type, with a penchant for assembling interesting folk about her drawing rooms, Mrs. Graven has, during her seven years' residence here, mingled the dignity and brilliance of Old World entertaining with the zest characteristic of modern America. Married to Dr. Graven about seven years ago during the physician's residence in Vienna, Mrs. Graven has completely adopted America "as her very own" and has become one of its most ardent admirers.

The house on Massachusetts avenue, which by the way, is adjacent to the home of Mrs. Nicholas Longworth, is the scene during most of the winter of delightful gatherings of the intellectuals—of people who "do" things with their minds. Dr. Graven, himself, lives in a realm somewhat detached from ordinary "clay" as he is a psychoanalyst of wide recognition and is now attached to the staff at St. Elizabeths while his vivacious wife is a writer of ability and has a flair for things musical, being gifted with an excellent voice.

Recently Dr. Graven, by way of relaxation, has undertaken the study of the lute, instrument old as the Elgin marbles, and doubtless will become as proficient as in other channels in which he has directed his talents.

Transplanting their hospitality from the town house, which is a mecca for intellectuals of the foreign colony through the winter, Dr. and Mrs. Graven have given numerous little suppers in Rock Creek Park during the summer season and seem quite content to remain in town. Last year they were abroad, Mrs. Graven returning with added loyalty to her adopted America.

Ambassador Dawes White House Guest.

The President and Mrs. Hoover have as their guest at the White House the United States Ambassador to the Court of St. James, Mr. Charles G. Dawes, who arrived yesterday from his home in Chicago, where he has enjoyed a short vacation. Mrs. Dawes arrived in this country from England last week and is now at her home in Evanston, Ill.

The ambassador will sail from New York shortly and will go to Scotland on August 27 to open the new gymnasium presented to the Kirkcudbright Academy by Mr. Thomas Cochran, New York banker.

After the ceremony, which will also be attended by Mr. Cochran and Mr. William Adamson, secretary for Scotland, the freedom of the burgh will be presented to both Mr. Dawes and Mr. Cochran.

The Minister of Greece and Mme. Simopoulos entertained at dinner last evening at their villa in Newport, where they are passing the summer. On Saturday afternoon they entertained at a bridge party followed by tea, when their guests were asked to meet M. Paul May, Belgian Ambassador, who has returned to Washington after passing the week-end in Newport as the guest of the Roumanian Minister, Mr. Charles A. Davila.

Former Senator and Mrs. Guy D. Goff, who are now in London, staying at Grosvenor House, entertained recently at tea and had as guests Lord and Lady Howard of Penrith, the Marquis and Marchioness of Huntly, Sir Charles Frederick, Dr. Nicholas Murray Butler, the Minister of China and Mme. Sze, the Minister of Peru and Mme. Gonzales Prado, Mr. and Mrs. Ormond Lawson-Johnston, Mrs. George Mesta, Mrs. Robert Adams, Mrs. Emerson Howe, Gen. William E. Horton, Mr. Ray Atherton, Mr. Benjamin Thaw, Mr. and Mrs. Rodney Prizer, Mr. Arthur Campbell.

Mrs. A. J. M. Lucas will entertain a group at the dinner dance on the Shoreham Terrace this evening.

Heir Born to Vice Consul Who Was Drowned.

Mrs. John Tillotson Wainwright is receiving congratulations on the birth of a son, John Tillotson Wainwright 4th, on July 10, at Newport, R. I. Mrs. Wainwright is the widow of the young American vice consul in Havana who was drowned last spring near Havana. She was formerly Miss Alice Cutts, daughter of Col. Richard M. Cutts, U. S. M. C., and Mrs. Cutts, who are passing the summer at Newport. The child is also the grandson of Mrs. Clement Biddle, of Philadelphia.

Mrs. Wainwright made her home in Washington several years ago when Col. Cutts was stationed here, and was among the popular members of the younger set. She made her debut in the Capital, and being an ardent horsewoman was frequently seen in local horse shows and always took a prominent part in the Fort Myer Society Circus.

Cabot Stevens Is Mending in Lake Retreat

With Wife Has Built Attractive Lodge in New York.

Mr. and Mrs. Cabot Stevens are established at their summer home, Camp Willola, on Eagle Lake, near Ticonderoga, N. Y. They own a small island in the lake, and there, on a high and rocky hill among tall pines and young birch trees, they have built a most attractive lodge, thoroughly in keeping with the surroundings. The house is of rough-hewn logs, and from season to season Mr. and Mrs. Stevens have added to the building until it is now a low, rambling structure. From the wide porches, steps lead down to the moss-covered slopes about the house, and narrow, rustic paths run down to the lake. There is a small boathouse for motorboats and canoes, and though the candle light has given way to more modern lighting, the island still retains its native charm.

About half a dozen other families have built similar camps on neighboring islands, but the place is still delightfully conservative and simple, with no hotels and no holiday crowds.

En route to Lake Eagle, Mr. and Mrs. Etevens stopped at their farm near Cornwell, N. Y., for a few days and then motored North. Mr. Stevens has recently recovered from a long illness and is recuperating in the peaceful atmosphere of the camp.

Before returning to Washington in the early fall, Mr. and Mrs. Stevens will visit in Boston, the former's old home, and on the North Shore.

Capt. and Mrs. Percy Lawson-Johnston, of London, are receiving congratulation on the birth of a daughter early this month. Mrs. Lawson-Johnston was formerly Miss Alice Kenny, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William F. Kenny, of New York, and sister-in-law of Mrs. William Kenny, jr., the former Miss Adelaide Bride, of Washington, who is at present visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Bride at their home in Chevy Chase, with her young son.

Capt. Lawson-Johnston is the youngest brother of Lord Luke of Pavenham and a brother of Mr. John Ormond Lawson-Johnston, who was married a few years ago to the former Mrs. Lyman B. Kendall, of Washington, who now also make their home in London.

Capt. James P. McGovern, of the District of Columbia and New York bars, sailed from New York on Saturday on the S. S. Minnetonka for a three months' holiday. He went with Senator and Mrs. Ashurst, of Arizona. Capt. McGovern formerly made his home in Arizona.

Roeblings Back After Voyaging To Far Places

Former Capital Couple Had Thrilling Fishing Adventures.

The Black Douglas is back. The splended yacht of the schooner type belonging to Mr. Robert C. Roebling, grandson of the late Washington A. Roebling, who designed and built the Brooklyn Bridge, is home again after a 20,000-mile fishing voyage. The young "Bob" Roeblings lived in the Capital three or four years ago, their house on Tracy place being the center of much social activity during their residence here. Occasional visitors here, Mr. and Mrs. Roebling are sometimes the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Alec Hagner, the latter having been Carolyn Roebling before her marriage a year or two ago.

With Capt. L. M. Larsen, of Brooklyn, in command, and Mr. and Mrs. Roebling and two guests, Dr. Edward Hanson, of Perth Amboy, and Mr. Walter Kuse, of Trenton, N. J., aboard, the trim yacht sailed last October from New York. Bound for the Straits of Magellan, the yacht cruised down the West Indies and proceeded through the Panama Canal to the Cocos Islands in the Pacific.

Anglers all, the party spent a lot of time idly fishing in islands of the Pacific, stopping at Galapagos where they fished by electric lights and once experienced the terror of having two giant octopi attack their boat. They finally hacked the monsters to pieces. Stops were made in Patagonia, where the party was greeted by Indians scantily clad, although it was in the dead of winter.

Coming up the east coast of South America the Black Douglas went through a few storms and at Rio de Janeiro Mr. and Mrs. Roebling and their guests left the yacht and went on an exploring trip in the Andes, later taking a steamship for New York. They arrived there last week. Capt. Larsen and his crew continued yesterday on up the coast and the boat will be taken to Erie Basin for overhauling.

Sir Adrian Baille, former secretary of the British Embassy in Washington, has gone from London to Paris for a short vacation. Sir Adrian left Washington about two and a half years ago, when he resigned from the foreign service to go into the constituency.

New York Man Wins Princess For His Bride

Laura Murat, Daughter of Prince Michael, Betrothed.

An interesting engagement recently announced in Paris is that of Princess Laura Murat, daughter of Prince Michael and Princess Helena, to Mr. Paul Frank, of New York and Paris. The engagement was announced by Princess Murat's aunt, Princess Rospigliosi, well known in Washington, through the Cuban Ambassador and Senora de Ferrara, whom she and Prince Rospigliosi frequently visit here.

Princess Laura made her debut in New York last November at a ball given for her by Princess Rospigliosi at the Embassy Club, and later in the winter came to the Capital to visit at the Cuban Embassy. She is a descendant of Gen. Murat, who became king of Naples and married Caroline Bonaparte, sister of Napoleon. Mr. Frank is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Maurice Frank, of St. Germaine-en-Laye and Paris. He has been living in New York for the last three years.

Mrs. Sol Bloom and Miss Vera Bloom will receive the members of the Women's National Press Club on Sunday at Hemlock Hedge, Edgemoor, Md., which is their home for the summer. Representative and Mrs. Bloom have leased the lovely country house of Mr. and Mrs. Harry S. New and will do a good deal of entertaining through the remainder of the hot season.

Mrs. J. Thompson Wailes has gone to Paris, where she has joined Mrs. Henry Alvah Strong at the Litre for several weeks.

Mr. and Mrs. New are at Turtle Lake, in Michigan, where the former spends his days at his favorite sport, fishing. They will not return to Washington until late in the fall. Meantime Representative and Mrs. Bloom and Miss Bloom are making of Hemlock Hedge a mecca for city friends seeking delightful respite on warm evenings. This is the first summer that the New York legislator and his family have elected to stay in Washington, the family generally spending several months abroad.

Mrs. William Kearney Carr is now at Ocean House, Swampscott, Mass. She is accompanied by Mrs. Edward E. Robbins and Mrs. Josephine Twigg, also of Washington.

Col. and Mrs. Howard L. Lambers have as their guests their son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. James H. Lambers, of San Antonio, Tex., who will be with them about two weeks. Mrs. Lambers was, before her marriage, Miss Christine Larsen, daughter of Representative William W. Larsen, of Georgia.

Mr. and Mrs. Woodson Will Go to Canada.

Mr. and Mrs. Eugene R. Woodson will leave some time next week to spend the remainder of the summer in Canada. They have been giving a series of delightful parties recently at the Arts Club. Their daughter, Miss Jean Woodson, who is visiting friends in Colorado Springs, will not return East until September.

Mr. and Mrs. Isaac Gans have returned from a week-end motor trip to Ashland and Richmond. In the latter place they visited their brother and his family.

Wives of Tomorrow

FRANCES M'DONALD

The End of Marriage.

EXTRA! Extra! The end of marriage is at hand! Or so at least the men say. "In another 10 years the whole farce will be at an end and woman will soon be trying to work her way back to the position of safety she now scorns" brr-brr-brr! How scared that makes us feel! No more marriage! What in the world will we have to talk about? With our troubles practically over for all time life will be dull indeed. No more worrying over laundry a day late, pet shirts delayed in transit, neckties hiding out, or shaving cream stolen for shampoo! What a life! And yet a bit dull. One gets accustomed even to trouble. One misses even sour looks across the breakfast table if one has grown used to sour looks. Something seems left out of the picture. Life without marriage. Not so good. Summer without sunburn. Spring without new clothes. Who ordered this?

Let Tom tell it:

Dear Frances McDonald: Does woman realize that she is riding for a fall? As she rasps out her diatribes against man and marriage does she know that another 10 years and the whole farce will be over and she will be striving to work her way back to the position of safety she now scorns? What quarrel has woman with marriage any way? At every angle she has the best of the thing. Rulings made by man himself to protect growing children are turned against him and used to safeguard the ease of self-seeking females who see in marriage the greatest racket on earth, and fool-proof at that. Childless women cooking up sob stories to be delivered in court before some senile judge to the end that some bewildered man shall support in comfort the rest of her days a perfectly strange woman who married him to defraud him, made his days a nightmare for a few months, ordered him out, and sent for a lawyer. That is marriage in its present status. And woman is quarreling with it. She wants to be free. In what state could she be more free to work out her schemes than in marriage? If she tried the same act outside of marriage she would be apprehended for extortion. As it is everything is hers. The man's future is mortgaged, his life spoiled but who cares about him? The poor fish should have known better. That is as much sympathy as he receives. And the woman sails for Europe, usually picking a second victim on the trip across.

Woman has over-reached herself in her abuse of marriage. And the worm is about to turn. Men, taking advantage of woman's own clamor for freedom, are taking her at her words. There is not a city or town in the land that is not ridden with all sorts of make-shift unions that are in no wise an improvement upon marriage—but which are not marriage and are the death knell of marriage. Left to himself, man would not choose such substitutes. Man is inherently conservative. He craves the inviolate for his home. He may envy the occasional gay dog. But can not emulate him. He wants a wife who will be exclusively his and forever. I care not what erotic females may scream from the house tops. I state the fact that man wants marriage. He wants it to continue as the one defense against annihilation of the sanctities of life. But marriage is not going to continue, for woman is against it. Flat-footed thinkers, turned out of female colleges by the thousand are every year succeeding in spreading their poisonous propaganda of so-called freedom. What they lack in attraction they make up for in sound and volubility. Younger women listen to them, looking up to them, and never discern the aroma of sour grapes. These females, aided on by the gold diggers, are the ones who are sending marriage to the ash heap. And it will take a hundred years to bring it back. By which time the human race will have slid back to the barbarisms that distinguished pre-matrimonial society.

OBSERVANT TOM.

Now I ask you! No one can doubt that Tom is sincere—nay, even vastly excited. But we have been doing a bit of observing ourself, and we have noticed that the girls with dimples are still strong for marriage. And we refuse to worry until they begin accepting make-shift arrangements. Which they never will, Tom, never! So cheer up!

Interprets the Mode

Molyneux's beach pyjamas are tailored and nautical, of white rodier cloth, with a blue and white printed jersey.

New York, July 20.

THERE are two of the Paris couturiers who have similar, very definite ideas on the subject of active sport wear for women. And they are two of the so-called five large couturiers, too.

One of them is Molyneux. 'Tis said that Molyneux created the vogue for the trousered sports costume which was so universally popular last year, which consisted of white flannel trousers and a navy or cobalt blue reefer with brass buttons, such as the invariably handsome navy officers of passenger boats always wear.

If you like this kind of outfit, you may be sure that you are the last word in chic. Molyneux has an idea that the greater difference there is between the lady aboard the yacht or walking on the boardwalk in the daytime and the same lovely lady dancing at the Casino that same night, the greater her charm and the more truly modern she is * * * I agree! He also seems to think that only a modern woman has the aplomb necessary to the wearing of a very practical and consequently somewhat masculine ensemble.

And it is true that the wildest stretch of the imagination can not picture grandmother or even mother looking like anything except Rosa Bonheur or Doctor Mary Walker in an outfit like the one I sketched for you today! Yet Miladi Moderne is certainly far more modern, far more elegant and sophisticated, and at the same time far more practically dressed in it than in any other kind of an outfit for the same time and place.

The time and place for the Molyneux outfit illustrated is all day, any day, aboard any yacht or motor boat, on any beach or boardwalk, except for actual lounging on the sand, and for daytime wear in general at a summer resort. The trousers are of white Rodier "linelac," which is a sort of a flannel, but a modernized and beautifully soft one. The jacket is cobalt blue, the belt is the same color and made of the same material as the jacket, and the tucked-in sweater is of blue and white printed "linelac," and the buttons this time are steel instead of brass.

And that, my darlings, is exactly the way to be the most sophisticated, the most elegant, the most practical, and the most everything else that a kindly Dame Fashion gives you a chance to be on a summer's day, the while she gives you that same night a most priceless opportunity to outfeminine any female woman who ever walked the pages of history or mythology.

* * * *

Yet, to show you that no matter how masculine or seaworthy we are, we're still feminine, here's a piece of beach jewelry to wear on sand or sea! This necklace is of square plaques of cork, tinted bright red, and strung on a piece of knotted, ordinary wire.

* * * *

How would you like a French maid for a stamped, self-addressed envelope, sent to the Dare department of The Washington Post? Yes sir, that's exactly what I'll send you back in leaflet form—an honest-to-goodness French maid, or anyway a lot of the tricks that an honest-to-goodness French maid would do for you—tricks known heretofore to French maids alone, and jealously guarded by them in the interests of their profession. Tricks which you can either use yourself or teach your maid, tricks which will save you money, prolong the life of your clothes, and what's really more important, keep you looking always as fresh and as lovely and as well groomed as a good Dah-ray fan ought to look.

Au revoir!

ANSWERS TO INQUIRIES.

PLEASE tell me the best way to secure winter-blooming geraniums. SARA B.

The best way to secure winter-blooming geraniums is to start the slips or cuttings in early summer and grow the plants in pots, shifting them into larger pots as they develop.

I have a rosebush and I notice that the leaves are turning brown. What do you suggest? Also please tell me when and where to sow tulip and hyacinth seed. D. J. D.

Keep your rose well watered and dust it with Massey dust, which is a powder composed of nine parts dusting sulphur and one part lead arsenate. It is unwise to attempt to grow either tulips or hyacinths from seeds. It takes time and the flowers when the bulbs finally reach the blooming stage are never true in color and are usually small and indifferent.

We have Bechtel's flowering crabapple and would like to know how long it will be before it is completely covered with bloom. We planted it last year and it had a few blooms this year. RITA H.

Keep the tree watered this season. If you planted it last fall, this is its first season. Next spring it should bloom better. A young tree never sets any buds until it is rather well established.

We have moved into a new home and find the garden overrun with poison ivy, which we uprooted last fall. Now we find that evidently some roots were left because here and there is evidence of growth. Is there any reliable solution we can use to kill the remaining roots?

MRS. A. B.

Gasoline will kill the roots of poison ivy, but it will also kill other vegetation. The best way to apply it is to wear gloves and inject with a small oil can, a few drops of the gasoline down into the center of the roots.

Please tell me how and when to prune a forsythia. MRS. E. S.

Prune your forsythia as soon as possible after it has finished flowering. Remove all very old canes and cut back the new canes one-third. Forsythia stands severe pruning. You see, it flowers on wood made the previous season and should therefore be given as much time as possible to develop long, graceful canes which will bear flowers next spring.

Please tell me if larkspur is a perennial and if it must be planted every year? A READER.

There is an annual and perennial variety of larkspur. The annual kind must be planted each year. The perennial will live from year to year in your garden.

Please tell me how to grow hibiscus from seed. Must I plant it in any kind of specially prepared soil or in any special location? MRS. ELLA P.

Hibiscus prefer a moist soil, although it will do equally well in dry soil, sun or partial shade. A light mulching of the plants is good in winter. Seed sown early enough will produce flowers the first year. Keep seedlings shaded during the hottest hours of the day until you are sure they can take care of themselves.

British Government Wins Vote.

London, July 20 (A.P.).—A conservative vote of censure of the government on account of its agricultural policy was defeated in the House of Commons tonight, 278 to 230. The government's defeat on the question would have meant its immediate resignation.

Schooner That Hit Rock Will Be Total Loss

Sydney, N. S., July 20 (A.P.).—The four-masted American schooner Mary Bradford Pearce, which struck on the edges of Cape Snoky, 60 miles North of here, in a dense fog Tuesday night, will be a total loss, according to a report received here today.

The captain and crew of twenty men made shore safely. The ship was bound in ballast from Boston to Campbellton, N. B., to load lumber.

Publisher Licensed to Fly.

New York, July 20 (A.P.).—Bernarr MacFadden, 61-year-old publisher, receives his private pilot's license tomorrow, and today he announced he had bought a fast plane which he expects will break speed records both here and abroad.

What Today Means to You

By MARY BLAKE

"CANCER."

IF July 21 is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 10:15 a. m. to 1:05 p. m., and from 5 p. m. to 8 p. m. The danger hours are from 2 p. m to 3:30 p. m. and from 8:10 p. m. to 10:30 p. m.

The planet Neptune, always mystical and doubtful, is active on July 21, and unless great resolution is brought to bear, everything will be adversely affected, and a state of chaos will prevail. No obligations on behalf of others, especially of near relatives, should be shouldered.

A child born on this July 21 will pass through a tempestuous youth, emerging as a person of variable character and of changing moods. It will lack decision and definiteness, and will be a victim of the whims and fancies of others. Its disposition will alternate between keen affection and callous indifference.

Born on July 21, you possess an innate natural understanding and remarkable intuition. You overlook much that others would condemn, because you are quick to realize the motives that prompt actions. You absorb knowledge easily, and you are especially well posted on all matters relating to adventure, exploration and research. If circumstances permit, you will, as a thing of choice, travel, not on the high road but on the beaten track.

You are rather disposed, at times, to forget your ambitions and seek luxury and self-indulgence. These lapses from the "straight and narrow" will, as the years advance, be of less and less frequency, as you will soon learn that they are inimical to that steady progress which you desire, and which you undoubtedly will achieve. By force of character you are able to throw off any form of weakness and rise to any height of self-denial.

Although by nature very generous, you have at heart a curious dread of poverty, and for this reason you never give full expression to your unique idea of charitableness, unless under the influence of one you love, when the expression "with all my worldly goods I thee endow" is liable to become a statement of fact, rather than a much-abused vocal symbol of affection.

John M. Read, jurist.
Theron Baldwin, missionary and educator.
Blanche W Howard von Teuffel, author.
Chauncey Olcott, actor.
John R. Brooke, soldier.

Engineers' Unit Opens 312 Bids During Year

A total of 312 bids for construction work were opened during the last fiscal year by Roland M. Brennan, chief clerk of the District Engineer Department, he stated yesterday in his formal report to the Engineer Commissioner.

The work done by the office last year showed a substantial increase over the preceding year, the report stated. In the handling of guaranty deposits amounting to $400,000, there was not at a loss or miscarriage of a single check.

'Employ for Prosperity' Prize Slogan in Drive

The District committee on employment was on the lookout yesterday for one H. C. Martin to make him a present of $20 gold coin as winner of the slogan contest for the midsummer job campaign. The winning slogan is, "Employ for Prosperity."

Because of the failure of Mr. Martin to include his address in his letter, George J. Adams, jr., executive secretary of the committee, who donated the $20, had not located him last night.

Unemployment Crisis Called Great Tragedy

The unemployment situation is the "Great American Tragedy," the Rev. Dr. John O'Grady, secretary of the National Conference of Catholic Charities, told the Particular Council of the Society of St. Vincent de Paul Sunday at its quarterly meeting. Dr. O'Grady has just returned after completing a survey of living conditions in Pennsylvania.

The meeting followed a mass, which was celebrated by the Rev. George Rankin, and 22 parish conferences were represented by 110 delegates. Frank J. Weber, director of the employment bureau, reported during the last three months 122 applicants were given employment.

River Bulletin.

Harpers Ferry, W. Va., July 20.—Potomac and Shenandoah rivers both muddy.

"Somebody has a Secretary who knows her lunches"

"When you see as much food as I do during the day you get to know the best and most healthful things to eat. Notice that girl's tray whose lunch I just checked—a box of Shredded Wheat and a pitcher of half and half."

"Tasty, light, easy to digest, yet very nourishing, that's my idea of a well balanced meal. My job depends upon my keeping cool and wide awake all day long. That's why I too eat Shredded Wheat for lunch."

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By DR. W. A. EVANS

To the limit of space questions pertaining to hygiene and prevention of disease will be answered in this column. Personal replies will be made to inquiries, under proper limitations, when return stamped envelope is inclosed. Dr. Evans will not make diagnosis or prescribe for individual disease.

AGRANULOCYTOSIS.

D. T. M. asks for an article about agranulocytosis, the strange new disease that seems to be occurring lately, here and there, with increasing persistence.

As is stated, the disease is new, at least, in the sense that it has not been known long. The first report of it was made nine years ago. It may have been in existence long before that, however, for there are several other diseases which it greatly resembles, and the blood test by which it is diagnosed has not been in general use many years. On the other hand, at least some of the cases that go by the name "agranulocytosis" have been caused by trade practices and the use of chemicals that are less than a quarter of a century old.

The symptoms of it are necrotic ulcerations in the mouth, extreme prostration, fever, and an extremely low white blood cell count. Normally, what is called the polynuclear leucocyte makes up more than 75 per cent of the 8,000 white blood cells in a unit of blood. This type of white blood cell practically disappears in this disease. Of all the white cells this one is the most useful.

Necrotic ulcers of the mouth are present in trench mouth and several other diseases. It is easy to confuse agranulocytosis with these. Nor is fever destructive. The only certain sign of the disease is the one revealed by microscopic examination of the blood. Without that it might be called trench mouth, noma, or something else.

In some cases there is an eruption which greatly resembles that of chicken pox and pemphigus. Again, blood examination is necessary for diagnosis. The cause is not known. The man who first wrote of it thought it was caused by a microbe, but no one has proved that it is. There is reason for thinking it is caused by poisons. Certain cases have followed poisoning by arsenobenzyl and other benzol bodies. Other cases have followed chronic trinitrotoluene poisoning. Both of these chemicals are new. Industries based on them are of recent origin. Some cases seem to have followed bismuth poisoning. This drug has been used for new purposes and in new ways in the last quarter of a century. However, it has not been proved that agranulocytosis is caused by these or any poisons. Eighty per cent of the cases are in women, which would not be if these chemicals caused it. Most of the people who have had it have not been exposed to any poison.

Until we know more about it nothing can be said as to how it can be prevented, and there is no treatment except such as may be used to relieve symptoms.

NO HARM IS DONE.

B. M. writes: I drink three glasses of water about an hour after breakfast, followed by a daily dozen, and repeat the same thing before going to bed at night. I feel fine after it and seem to have more pep, but my mother claims drinking three glasses of water in succession is not good for me. What harm is there connected with it?

REPLY.

None.

SLEEPINESS.

M. E. H. writes:

1. I am greatly troubled with sleepiness during the day. I have many hours of good sleep at night. Is this torturing drowsiness caused by some poison in the system?

2. Would Raynaud's disease cause it?

REPLY.

1. It may be the result of lack of exercise, work, and purpose in life. It may be due to deficiency in thyroid secretion.

2. No.

RIGHT TO JOBS SEEN FOR CIVIL SERVANTS

Arlington Official Denies Rumor of Opposition to Government Group.

ARLINGTON COUNTY BUREAU OF THE POST.
Tel. Cla. 509. Clarendon, Va.

Rumors current in the county to the effect that concerted opposition will be offered any Federal Government employes seeking election to any county offices are being met with disfavor from many county leaders.

Discussing the reports, Hugh J. McGrath, chairman of the special committee studying the report from the Arlington County Civic Federation, said:

"The executive order extending to civil service employes residing in Arlington County the right to participate in local politics, including the right to become candidates for public office, was signed by the President upon the recommendation of the Civil Service Commission, after representation had been made by representative organizations and citizens that such participation would be beneficial.

"No power in Arlington County can prevent any civil service employe, who is qualified under the laws of the State, from becoming a candidate for county office. I am satisfied that those persons who are attempting to create sentiment against Government employes holding county offices do not have the best interests of Arlington County at heart, but are actuated by purely selfish motives in the interest of some candidate."

Having completed the first aid course sponsored by the Arlington County Chapter, American Red Cross, the following members of the Clarendon Volunteer Fire Department were presented with certificates last night at a special meeting in the Lyon Park Community House, by Mrs. Bertha A. Kelley, chairman of the local chapter: Chief Herbert F. Smith, Frederick P. Dewey, Joseph Bailey, Melvin Wunder, Milton Moriorty, Winnard Caton, James W. Tucker, Willard Clements, Amstead Neal, Charles Jones, Charles B. Austin, John Ruckert and John Gary, jr., the latter a member of the Alexandria Fire Department.

Mrs. Kelley was presented by Walter U. Varney, president of the department.

The Arlington-Fairfax Counties Volunteer Firemen's Association will hold its monthly meeting tonight with the Arlington Fire Department, at its new firehouse. Chief A. C. Scheffel is the chairman of the committee on arrangements. Members of the women's auxiliary will serve refreshments.

Hearing of the suit of Loule Etta Cheyney, of Livingstone Heights, Arlington County, against the Washington-Virginia-Maryland Coach Co. for $20,000 damages opened before Judge Walter T. McCarty in the Circuit Court of Arlington County yesterday morning.

Action is based on injuries claimed to have been suffered on December 29, 1930, when an Army truck is said to have crashed into the side of the bus at the intersection of K street and Twenty-first street northwest in Washington.

Replying to reports that a petition is to be filed by residents of Gloth avenue to have the name changed in order to secure improvements, Supervisor B. M. Hedrick, of Arlington District, in which the avenue is located, said last night that this is not necessary. Plans are already completed to have it improved, he said, as soon as it is possible to reach that section.

The committee in charge of the arrangements for a carnival to be given under the auspices of the Arlington County Social Club has announced that the affair will be staged in the field at Wilson boulevard and Clements avenue in Ballston.

Merritt Set Free In Woman's Death

Witnesses Say Autoist Could Not Avoid Hitting Victim.

John W. Merritt, 24 years old, son of Dr. Edwin A. Merritt, of North Chevy Chase, Md., was freed yesterday in Rockville Police Court on a charge of manslaughter arising out of the death of Mrs. Charlotte Powers, of 14 Hesketh street, Chevy Chase.

A number of witnesses testified that it was impossible for Merritt to prevent his car striking the woman, who ran in front of his machine. They agreed that he had stopped promptly and taken the woman to the hospital, where she died about two weeks later. Testimony showed that Mrs. Powers ran from a triangle near Chevy Chase Circle directly into the path of the auto.

At the time of the accident, when Mrs. Powers' injuries did not seem serious, Merritt was charged with reckless driving. When the woman died, however, the charge was changed to one of manslaughter. After hearing the testimony, State's Attorney Stedman Prescott asked the dismissal of charges, as there was not sufficient evidence to hold Merritt.

Child Slightly Injured When Struck by Auto

After being struck and knocked down by an automobile as she attempted to cross the Lee Highway at "Death Curve," in Falls Church, Va., yesterday afternoon, Shirley Irene Clapp, 6-year-old daughter of Frank Clapp, of Falls Church, was taken to the office of Dr. C. A. Ransom nearby and treated for slight lacerations to her head and face.

Police said the machine which struck the child was operated by E. L. McNarr, of Maple avenue, Falls Church. The accident was termed unavoidable.

Prince Georges Liquor Net Takes Two Women

The week-end drive on liquor law violations in Prince Georges county netted two women, Ann Miller and Mary L. Crowley, who were charged with possession of five gallons of alleged liquor, while Mrs. Miller was also charged with speeding.

The pair was arrested by Sgt. H. G. Machen on the Baltimore boulevard near Muirkirk, and released on bond. Mrs. Miller's bail was set at $3,000, while Mrs. Crowley was released for $1,000.

Falls Church Officer Hurt As Motorcycle Hits Truck

Sergt. Walter Mitchell Has Leg Crushed; Goes to Hospital.

WALTER MITCHELL.

Town Sergt. Walter Mitchell, of Falls Church, Va., was badly injured yesterday afternoon when the motorcycle he was riding struck the front of a truck driven by W. J. Good.

The accident occurred in front of the Town Hall on Washington street, in Falls Church. Witnesses stated that Mitchell was traveling east and the truck, owned by R. N. Hagman, jr., of Vienna, was turning left to go to the rear of the hall, where employes of Mr. Hagman are drilling a well for the town water system. Sergt. Mitchell, they stated, was apparently looking at the operations in the rear of the hall, and did not see the truck until he was upon it. As he attempted to swerve out of the way he struck the front bumper with his left leg, crushing it just below the knee.

Mitchell was rushed to the hospital by a passing motorist and two Arlington County policemen, Vernon Wilts and James Scott. Marcus Lee Garner, 8 years old, the only eyewitness close to the scene stated that the truck stopped and then started ahead when Mitchell hit it.

Sheriff E. P. Kirby investigated the accident and later arrested Good for having faulty brakes on the truck. He was placed under bond by Justice of the Peace John T. Moling, of Falls Church, while advice as to the extent of Mitchell's injuries is being awaited.

Alderman Seated Despite Opposition

Newly Elected Council at Annapolis Takes Up Duties.

Special to The Washington Post.

Annapolis, Md., July 20.—The city council, presided over by Mayor Walter E. Quenstedt, met tonight for the first time since the elections last week. At a late hour its members were debating the water supply issue and other municipal problems.

The Democratic aldermen withdrew their opposition to the seating of Roscoe C. Rowe, Republican, whose membership they had fought on the ground that he is a lieutenant in the U. S. Medical Corps.

Three new members were sworn in by Mayor Quenstedt, giving the council a make-up of six Democrats and four Republicans. All the Democrats are aldermen. Besides the Republican mayor, there are two aldermen and a counselor of the same party.

The Tunney suit, filed at New Haven, Conn., was dismissed.

The contemplated estimates were figured by the board at about $18,000. It was decided to revise the plans and ask for new bids in about ten days.

Bids were also opened for the drilling of a deep well on the proposed Franconia school site, but they were rejected, as most of them did not meet specifications.

During the afternoon session the board inspected several school bus bodies exhibited by different companies. Bids were taken and the contract was awarded to the Oxford Bus Body Co., of Oxford, S. C. A new truck chassis was purchased from the Horn Motor Co., of Herndon, which submitted the lowest bid.

The Marlboro branch of the Eastern Shore Trust Co. had more than $645,000, while the Southern Maryland Trust Co. had more than $464,000.

Deposits of $1,126,469.28 were reported at the Citizens Bank of Laurel, one of the three which had more than $1,000,000. The Bank of Brandywine had $276,505; the Bank of Clinton, $272,004, and the Bank of Bowie, $265,412. The statement showed deposits of $235,604.14 in the Citizen's Bank of Riverdale, which is only 3 years old.

The totals show a per capita deposit of about $165, approximately $100 less than the same average in Montgomery County. Deposits have steadily increased, according to the County Bankers Association, although the rate of increase has been lowered in agricultural areas, due to the current depression.

Bank officials have not noticed any reaction to the recent reduction of interest rates by some banks, they say. It was feared that deposits might be moved from the banks which cut their rate from 4 to 3½ per cent.

CANADIAN SENATOR DENIES AIDING DEAL

Says His Influence Not Used to Get Authority for Stock Purchase.

Ottawa, Ont., July 20 (A.P.).—Senator W. L. McDougald, chairman of the Beauharnois power interests, tonight denied he used his influence in obtaining an order-in-council which enabled the power company to purchase 2,000 part-interests in the $2,500 Sterling Industrial Co., valued subsequently at $150 each.

Senator McDougald, testifying before a House of Commons committee investigating activities of the Beauharnois Co., also said he knew nothing whatever of contributions to political campaign funds by the company.

"Not until contracts were made with the Ontario hydroelectric power commission and the Montreal Light & Power Co. did these part-interests have any value," Mr. McDougald testified.

"Prior to that, the thing was a gamble," he added.

Called "A Gift."

"It wasn't a gamble, it was a gift," interjected W. A. Gordon, minister of immigration and chairman of the investigating committee.

Earlier today Sir John Aird, president of the Bank of Commerce, denied before the committee that his bank was involved in any but "ordinary banking transactions" with Beauharnois.

He also declared he knew nothing about the details of his son's connection with the project.

Last week R. O. Sweezey, Beauharnois president, testified he had paid $125,000 in Victory bonds to John Aird, jr., which was to have been turned over to the Federal Conservative party as a contribution. Even larger sums were paid to other parties, Mr. Sweezey testified.

Work Not Stopped.

Sir John told the committee he was abroad when his son entered into a transaction with Mr. Sweezy and upon his return his son merely mentioned he had "made some money out of Beauharnois."

When the younger Aird was told he would be a witness before the committee, Sir John testified, "I said, like any father would, that I hoped his skirts were clean and told him to conceal nothing before the committee."

Concerning the bank's transactions with the power project, the witness testified advances were made to Beauharnois and "in due time the bank repaid, but it received no direct nor indirect bonuses, either bond, cash or stock."

At the end of the day's hearing Mr. Sweezey denied that construction work on the Beauharnois project would be stopped.

Soviet Lumbermen Are Declared Free

British Investigators Say They Failed to Find Any Convict Laborers.

Moscow, July 20 (A.P.).—British investigators of the Russian lumber industry said today they had failed to find evidence of the use of forced labor.

Returning to Moscow from a three weeks' tour of northern Russia for the British lumber trade, E. P. Tetsall, chairman of the group, said they had found nothing in the nature of convict labor.

"We found the entire industry conducted under the best conditions of the Russian trade unions," he said. "The workers as a whole were contented and energetic, seemingly satisfied and happy."

The investigators, three representatives of the Timber Trades Federation of the United Kingdom, visited the ports of Leningrad, Kem, Soroka, Onega, Keret and Archangel, they said, using their own interpreters and selecting their own itinerary.

Georgia Representative Is Reported Unchanged

Macon, Ga., July 20 (A.P.).—The condition of Representative Samuel Rutherford, of the Sixth Georgia Congressional District, who underwent an operation for appendicitis here last night, was reported today as virtually unchanged.

Doctors said he is critically ill but expressed the opinion he has a good chance to recover.

Texans Bidden to Boston.

Boston, July 20 (A.P.).—Mayor James M. Curley today extended invitations to Gov. Ross D. Sterling and former Gov. Dan Moody and 27 mayors and a city manager, all of Texas, to be his guests at a luncheon October 24, before the football game between University of Texas and Harvard. The mayor said Boston would welcome as much of Texas as could come North on that date.

COMMANDER REVIEWS CITIZEN-SOLDIERS

Harris & Ewing.

President Hoover and his military and naval aids reviewing citizen-soldiers at the White House yesterday. The men are from nearby districts and are attending the citizens military training camp at Fort Myer.

ABOUT THE SHOWSHOPS

With NELSON B. BELL.

WHAT with the economic depression, intense heat, completion of production schedules and one thing and another, things are not so active in some of the West Coast studios and the screen stars, as a result, have begun feeling around for a convenient and remunerative means to while away the interim and fatten the old bank account—if any. Several of them have not done so badly for themselves.

Within the past ten days, handsome vaudeville contracts have been secured by such celluloid celebrities as Edward G. Robinson, Victor McLaglen, Alice White, Bessie Love and Noah Beery. And at such salaries!

Just to prove that vaudeville is on the way back and not to be snubbed by any farsighted player, Mr. Robinson, the "Smart Money" man himself, has signed a ten-week contract with Radio-Keith-Orpheum that will net him $5,000 per week. If he nets that, the contract must call for more, since he has to pay Harry Weber a 10 per cent agent's commission.

Noah Beery, it is said, will drag down a weekly $4,750 as his bit, for five vaudeville weeks, with Alice White, not so potent a figure in the cinema as once she was, having to content herself with a meager $2,500 per week for four weeks of Balaban & Katz houses in Chicago, where she will make personal appearances.

McLaglen, currently on view in "Annabelle's Affairs," at the Fox, and doing a corking good job of a part just a little out of his usual line, will try to stagger along on $4,500 per week for a "vacation" month, and Bessie Love, one of the best troupers of them all, will endeavor to keep the wolf from running clear down the hall on six weeks' booking at $3,000 net, per week.

There was a time not so long ago when the movement of talent was in the opposite direction—all of the noted vaudevillians were accepting fat contracts to appear in the movie houses. Now that the noted screen stars are seeking engagements in the three-a-day—or worse—it might be a wholesome trend and a good sign for all concerned.

Manager Harry Crull, of the Fox, tells me that the promise is bright for a smashingly successful local revue to be staged in his cathedral the week of August 21.

The response to yesterday's call for applicants for auditions was far in excess of expectations. All who apply between now and August 7 will be registered. On that date the final auditions, designed to determine who will be accepted for principal or chorus roles in the revue, will be begun and rehearsals started.

This innovation is to be in true revue form, with no lines, business or continuity for the native artists to learn. Specialties, yes; intricate stage business, entrances and exits, no.

If you think such things never amount to anything in the way of launching careers, it might be well to remember that both Kate Smith and Ann Suter, to name only two, gained their first professional recognition in precisely this manner.

And now look at 'em!

Speaking of revues, and granting that Rome & Gaut, the long-and-short-of-it, in the "Revue Moderne," at the Palace, are widely popular comedians in this man's town; they have a bit of business with the conductor's baton—or did have on Saturday—that should be eliminated, if it hasn't been already.

They are funny enough without becoming quite so Rabelaisian. Or do I mean Chic Salesian?

Reverting momentarily to those vaudeville bookings, Jim Londos, "the Greek Adonis," whose necking party with Mr. Dusek, out at Griffith Stadium last Friday night, so enraged the simple villagers who took it all seriously, is embarking upon a brief tour of the two-or-more-per-day in a week or two. It is not made wholly clear whether he is to do a little playful bone-crushing at every performance or merely go through the customary routine of the stage strong man.

Both, maybe—and if they call for volunteers that will be I—me, to you—running up the aisle and out into the night in nothing, flat!

Since the world-wide success of his $4,000,000 epicac of the air, "Hell's Angels," Howard Hughes has found it difficult to get away from high-sounding titles, if you know what I mean.

"Cock of the Air," an original air comedy, will be Billie Dove's second starring vehicle for Caddo, and Eddie Sutherland has been signed to direct "Sky Devils" for the same concern.

Personally, I never heard of a dove being cock of the air, but I only moved here lately.

And that reminds me. Inquiry yesterday afternoon as to what might have become of it, developed the information that "Dirigible," Columbia's thrilling melodrama of the gas bags, featuring Jack Holt, Ralph Graves and Fay Wray, is to be shown for the first time at popular prices at the RKO-Keith Theater the week of August 7.

It will be recalled that this sensational subject was presented as a roadshow attraction, under the partial sponsorship of the U. S. Navy Department, at the Metropolitan Theater several months ago in the face of strong headwinds.

That army of C. M. T. C., boys that visited the White House yesterday incidentally, was split up into two theater parties. In addition to the group from Fort Myer that attended the Fox, 850 of the lads from Fort Washington were guests of Manager Hardie Meakin at RKO-Keith's, where Helen Twelvetrees is occupying the screen as "A Woman of Experience."

With Johnny Weissmuller, world's greatest swimmer, adding his name to the list of athletic champions parading through the Capital this summer, it is probable that all of Washington will be out at Glen Echo Park tonight to watch him flip his fins.

Sort of pooling their interests, as you might say!

Sanitary Risk

in carelessly-made substitutes for Kotex

SAFETY should be your first concern in sanitary protection. Health safety. The kind of safety you are certain of in Kotex, the pad that is used in leading hospitals.

But how about those nameless substitutes, of whose makers you know nothing? What assurance have you of their sanitary safety? Who made them? Where? How? Are you sure you'd use them, if you knew their origin?

There's one certain way of avoiding risk. Ask for Kotex. Genuine Kotex. It's immaculately clean—made by wonderful, patented machines from start to finish, in surroundings of hospital cleanliness.

Kotex is splendidly comfortable. It may be worn with perfect safety on either side. Soft, filmy layers make adjustment easy. Treated to deodorize. Readily disposable.

Burial of Unknown Man Will Be Today

Body Found on Highway Will Be Interred in Cedar Hill.

Unidentified remains of a middle-aged victim of a hit-and-run auto, found fatally injured near Laurel, Md., a week ago, will be buried this morning at 11 o'clock by the W. W. Chambers Co., funeral directors, on a lot purchased by them in Cedar Hill Cemetery.

The body was first claimed by Mrs. Geraldine Walter, 2109 Eighteenth street northwest, who believed it to be her husband, John, who had been missing from home for three months. Mrs. Walter sent the remains to Chambers' to be prepared for burial but later her husband was found sitting on a bench in Judiciary Park.

With the body again unclaimed it was hoped some one would identify it in the hope it might be saved from potter's field. But when no one claimed it the funeral directors purchased a sight themselves.

Police Seek Missing Man.

Police have been asked to look out for Charles Chagnon, 39 years old, of Seat Pleasant, Md., who disappeared on July 16, and has not been heard from since. He was an attendant at St. Elizabeths Hospital. The request was made by his landlady, Mary Cox, of Seat Pleasant.

NEW COTTAGES ADD TO BEACH'S APPEAL

Attractive Summer Homes Give Good Appearance to Post Colony.

Opportunity, they say, knocks but once. There is however one opportunity which has been knocking at the doors of Washingtonians all summer and which will continue to knock for a few more weeks. It is the opportunity to join many other happy Capital residents at Woodland Beach, The Washington Post's summer home development on South river in Maryland.

Opportunity too, is excellent, for despite the early rush for lots at this rapidly growing summer resort, there are still available a number of fine locations on which to build a cottage to spend the warm months in comfort.

Few such opportunities are offered at the reasonable price placed on lots at Woodland Beach. Each lot is listed at $93, no more, no less. Better still, that amount need not be paid in cash, for a down payment of $9 plus the cost of a subscription to The Washington Post will enable you to start your plans for a summer home and then begin building. The remainder of the property's cost may be paid in monthly installments of $3.50.

Woodland Beach is located on South River, just 32 miles from Washington, over excellent roads. It is reached via the Defense highway as far as Camp Parole, turning right there on Maryland State highway No. 2 across the river, and then left to Mayo road, which leads directly to the community clubhouse.

The beach has many attractions of interest to those who want a place in which to seek recreation and rest during the summer. Its 4½ miles of waterfront appeal to every one, and it also has shallow nooks in which children may wade and splash in safety. It offers boating, bathing and fishing.

The cottages which are springing up all over the beach are well-built, attractive homes, which are rapidly developing into a splendid appearing summer colony. Get in on Woodland Beach now and grow with the community.

$20 Stolen as Patrons Chat at Gasoline Stand

Two friendly patrons flim-flammed Frank R. Smith, a gasoline station attendant of $20 while they engaged him in conversation yesterday at the Standard Oil Company station at Twenty-third street and New Hampshire avenue northwest.

Smith, who lives at 3453 Fourteenth street northwest, told police the strangers talked about the ball game while making a gasoline purchase. When they left he missed the $20.

BANDITS GET $5,000, WOUND THREE, FLEE

Club Bank Teller and Others; Escape Amid Shots; Planes Aid Chase.

Green Bay, Wis., July 20 (A.P.).—A band of robbers, carrying machine guns, held up the Southside State Bank today, obtained $5,000 in loot and escaped in two automobiles after wounding three police officers and slugging several bank employes and customers.

Their escape was made after a gun fight with the police in business streets and in spite of pursuit by two airplanes, mounted with machine guns, which took off quickly to pick up the robbers' trail from the air.

While only three men entered the bank, authorities believed two or more were waiting in automobiles.

Police Arrive During Holdup.

The police were called while the holdup was in progress. As the police car pulled up in front of the bank it was sprayed with bullets from a machine gun fired from a sedan. Detective Martin Burke and Chief Hawley returned the fire, wounding one man who had jumped from the sedan. Mrs. Harold Malchow witnessed the shooting from her automobile.

When the men entered the bank, Frank V Slupinski, assistant cashier, four employes and three customers were present. They were ordered to lie on the floor, but were clubbed severely in spite of their willingness to obey. Mr. Slupinski was struck over the head when he said that all the money available was in the cages. Earl Cayer, a teller, likewise was clubbed. They were taken to a hospital.

Chief Hawley, Detectives Burke and De Love, and Officer Elmer Denamur were the police who engaged in the gun fight.

Chief Hawley was cut by flying glass when bullets punctured the car. A piece of the glass was driven into his back just above the hips.

Detective Seriously Wounded.

De Love was shot in the left eye and in the left arm. Physicians said efforts were being made to remove bullets from his head at St. Mary's Hospital. His condition was reported serious. Burke was cut about the head by flying glass, but continued the investigation before he went to a hospital.

Shortly after the robbery, Officer Denamur took off in a plane to search for the cars. Later another plane, piloted by Raymond Hegy, with Fire Chief Ralph Drum, an artillery officer in the World War, aboard, left to join the search. At 1 o'clock the planes landed at Shawano, 40 miles northwest. As soon as they refueled they were to resume the search.

ASSISTANT PASTOR OF CALVARY DEAD

The Rev. Homer J. Councilor Was Stricken at High School Last Year.

After an emergency operation for appendicitis, the Rev. Homer J. Councilor, assistant pastor of Calvary Baptist Church, died yesterday at Sibley Hospital. He had been seriously ill since last Wednesday. He was 44 years old.

Mr. Councilor came to Washington in 1909 from Oklahoma, where he had lived since 1904. He was secretary to Representative Mondell, of Wyoming, and later became secretary of the Army Medical Museum, where he also served as assistant librarian He left that position seven years ago to enter the ministry.

Widely Known as Orator.

At the invitation of the Rev. William S. Abernethy, pastor of Calvary Baptist Church, he became his assistant in 1926. He was ordained into the ministry in 1926 by special council.

During his service in the ministry in that church and in affiliated work, he became known as one of the most outstanding orators in the ranks of Washington ministers. He was widely known throughout Baptist circles, and had made lecture trips to other cities and churches where he was much in demand.

Y. M. C. A. work was of special interest to him. For some time before he entered the ministry he had served as dean of the School of Religious Education of the local association, and he was the author of several magazine articles and a book, "The Junior Church," that became widely known in church circles.

Persevered Despite Illness.

Mr. Councilor first became ill when making a commencement address at a junior high school here in June, 1930, and he never fully recovered. However, his illness did not prevent his being active in his work.

He is survived by his wife; one son, Harry A. Councilor, who was married last month, and two brothers, Pheron G., of Pittsburgh, and James A. Councilor, of this city.

Funeral services will be held at the Calvary Baptist Church at noon today, with Dr. Abernathy officiating. The place of interment had not been determined last night.

Reckless Driving Charged in Crash

Fort Myer Sergeant Is Accused After Death of Corporal.

Sergt. Charles Lawson, of Fort Myer, was charged with reckless driving in a warrant issued in Fairfax County, Va., yesterday as the outcome of an accident Sunday in which Corpl. Abraham G. Rauch was fatally injured. Sergt. Lawson was said to have been driving the car. The mishap occurred on the Annandale-Ravensworth road near Annandale.

The warrant was obtained by Fairfax police from John B. Bowden, justice of the peace, of Baileys Crossroads.

When the machine skidded from the highway, Sergt. Lawson and Corpl. J. Kapral, also of Fort Myer, were thrown clear but Rauch was pinned beneath the wreckage and his skull crushed. Fort Myer authorities stated last night that Lawson, who is in charge of the post polo stables, was confined to the hospital and they had not received the warrant. Rauch's body has been sent to his home in Lebanon, Pa.

World Traveler Visits Hoover for Autograph

An earnest traveler is Mate Sumonovich, 29-year-old Jugoslavian, who is in Washington for a three-day visit. He has traveled something like 35,000 miles in the last four years through Europe, Central and South America, Africa and now the United States.

Sumonovich is writing of his trip for three home newspapers. Yesterday morning he hastened to the White House, where he was given an autograph of the President. He carried a book with him that contains the signatures of potentates and princes, governors and mayors, and an imposing array of State and municipal seals. From this country he will go to Alaska and Japan, making his way home by way of China and India.

$50,000 Action Is Filed As Result of Cab Crash

Suit to recover $50,000 damages for injuries alleged to have been suffered in an automobile accident on April 27, was filed in circuit court today by William W. CAR INJURIES FATAL TO MINISTER'S WIFE

Mrs. Effie Ford Succumbs in Hospital; Was Hurt in Maryland Crash.

Mrs. Effie Ford, wife of the Rev. E. L. Ford, of Foundry Methodist Church, died at Sibley Memorial Hospital last night as a result of injuries received when a car driven by the clergyman skidded and partially overturned near Frederick, Md., last Friday.

An operation had been performed by Dr. Daniel Borden Sunday night to stave off infection, but this effort proved futile in the fight for Mrs. Ford's life. Mrs. Ford was brought to the hospital late Friday night by Dr. Ford after the car had been righted with the help of passing motorists.

A son, James L. C. Ford, who is connected with the United Press in New York, hurried here to his mother's bedside and was present when she died. Besides the husband and son, a daughter, Miss Alice Ford, a student at George Washington University, survives. A sister and brother live in Racine, Wis.

No arrangements had been made for the funeral of the clergyman's wife last night, but it was said services would probably be held at the Foundry Church, where Mr. Ford is director of religious education. The Fords have lived here for several years.

Miss Earle came to Washington from Philadelphia when the Pension Bureau was organized as a central unit here. She had been an active member of the Keller Memorial Lutheran Church.

Survivors include two sisters, Miss Susanne R. Earle, of Washington, with whom she lived, and Mrs. Elizabeth Cooper, of New York. Funeral services will be conducted at the residence tomorrow night at 7 o'clock, with the Rev. Ivan Motter, pastor of the Keller Memorial Church, officiating. Interment will take place Thursday at Philadelphia.

Service will be at St. Paul's Catholic Church at 9 o'clock, followed by interment at Mount Olivet Cemetery.

Mr. Phelan came to Washington in 1912 to represent the Indian Territory Illuminating Oil Co., and later the Henry L. Doherty Co. He had been ill two years previous to his death.

CROWDS PAY HONOR TO MRS. HENDERSON

Few See Rites, Streets Are Lined for Glimpse of "Grande Dame."

While hundreds of persons lined streets near the famous Boundary Castle trying to catch a glimpse of the funeral ceremony of Mrs. John B. Henderson, mistress of the castle and social leader here for several decades, the simple service in the ballroom of the castle was conducted by the Rev. Maurice White, assistant pastor of All Souls' Unitarian Church.

The casket was banked with flowers, but although her life had been spent, for the most part, in scenes of splendor decorated with much diplomatic gold braid, pomp was noticeably absent as the last rites were said.

Frances Arnold and her brother, Henry, of New York, only surviving blood relatives of the "grande dame," and Mrs. Trixie Wholean, adopted daughter, were there, and delegates from the Anti-Smokers League and the Association of Oldest Inhabitants also attended.

Following a short service, the body was taken to Rock Creek Cemetery for temporary interment in a vault to await removal to Brooklyn, N. Y., for permanent interment by the side of her late Senator husband.

Addition Will Be Built By Geographic Society

Application for a permit to erect a four-story brick and stone addition to the National Geographic Society's building at Sixteenth and M streets northwest has been filed with the office of District Building Inspector Oehmann, it was announced yesterday.

Plans filed with the application call for erection of the addition on the south side of the existing structure and alterations to the latter, permitting its junction with the addition. The total estimated cost of the work is $418,000. George A. Fuller Co. is the builder and Arthur B. Heaton the architect.

Part Time Traffic Lights Suggested

Maj. Davison in Favor of Using Them Only in Rush Hours.

One District official at least sides with the majority of motorists who desire to minimize the operation of traffic signal lights. Maj. D. A. Davison, first assistant engineer commissioner, now acting in the absence of Maj. John C. Gotwals, Engineer Commissioner, is the man.

Yesterday Maj. Davison said that he intended to suggest to William A. Van Duzer, Traffic Director, that the lights be turned on only from 8 to 10 o'clock in the morning and from 4 to 6 o'clock in the afternoon.

Traffic Director Van Duzer declined to comment on the proposal other than to say he would give it thought when some more immediate matters are disposed of.

free wheelingly speaking by don herold

I'D pay several cents a mile extra for that Free Wheeling sensation in my Studebaker—if I had to.

But the joke is, it doesn't cost me money—it saves me money.

A Studebaker is swell when running along with the motor engaged, but it is those moments of momentum—those miles of Free Wheeling—which give me my grandest thrills . . . and these don't cost—they PAY.

I sail along, manufacturing miles and money!

About one mile in seven or six or five is free—because you save from a seventh to a fifth of your gas and oil.

Seems to me ridick to buy a car without Free Wheeling—when you can get a real Free Wheeling Studebaker for $845!

Canadian Action Is Asked In Rum Boat's Use of Gas

(Associated Press.)

The American Government yesterday instructed its legation at Ottawa to call to the attention of the Canadian government the use of obnoxious gas by an alleged Canadian rum runner in escaping from a Coast Guard boat.

American Minister MacNider was directed to inform the Canadian government of the incident, in order that it could take such action as it "may find it possible to take."

The instructions to MacNider were based on a complaint by Coast Guard officers to the State Department that obnoxious gas was used by the alleged rum runner Cadet, of Weymouth, Nova Scotia, on the night of June 18 off Nantucket.

The Coast Guard said obnoxious gas was introduced into the engine exhaust of the Cadet with the result that the crew of the Coast Guard 149 were rendered violently ill.

STOCKS STILL WAIT ON DEBT PLAN NEWS

Prices Better at Close With Lightest Day's Sales Since May 6, 1926.

New York, July 20 (A.P.).—Except that the focal point of interest was London instead of Paris, today's security markets were only a repetition of the drab sessions late last week.

Neither stocks nor bonds manifested a particular desire to go anywhere until the international sign posts provided clearer directions. However, closing prices were generally better, although the contraction in stock volume to 718,440 shares, the lowest total since May 6, 1926, made the rise of little moment.

Oil stocks were strong, led by Standard of New York. Although production in East Texas and California are believed to have increased last week, it is expected that the voluntary shutdowns in other fields will result in a net decline. The price situation still hangs closely on what is done in East Texas.

Copper Looks Firmer.

Copper issues looked firmer. Foreign inquiry, which had fallen off materially last week, revived, especially from France. Quotations held stubbornly at 8 and 8¼ cents a pound for domestic and foreign, respectively, although home buyers did not want to pay more than 7¾. Further curtailment of production by two companies will help the statistical position.

Individual stocks affected by news developments included Bethlehem Steel, which rallied more than a point after Cyrus Eaton's retirement from Youngstown Sheet had been announced. Wall street immediately interpreted this as meaning that the Bethlehem-Youngstown merger would be revived, and that possibly a few smaller manufacturers might, as has been reported, be brought in.

Prominent industrials up 1 to 1½ net included U. S. Steel, American Can, Westinghouse, Union Carbide, Anaconda, Kennecott, Texas Corporation, Standard Oil of New York, Du Pont and Case. Utilities were rather quiet, but American Telephone rose 1¾ and American Water Works 2½. Rails were inactive, but appeared to be hopeful as to the result of their rate plea. Some of the amusements and specialties closed one to two points higher. The average advance was 1.5.

Outlook in Trade.

Although the National Industrial Conference Board reported that the June decrease in general business was larger than seasonal, some lines are distinctly improved, which suggests that the pent-up consumer demand is spilling over. Gains in textiles, rubber, and shoes have been particularly encouraging; another barometer of trade, the periodic sales reports of a large mail order house, disclosed a decrease of only one per cent for the four weeks ended July 18 as compared with a year ago. Taking into account the intervening reduction in prices, the actual turnover of goods was considerably larger in the recent period.

Many of the second quarter earnings reports are not as unfavorable as had been predicted, for some have represented small gains over 1931 and in many others the declines have been moderate. Just at present, of course, the stock market is interested solely in the foreign news.

A large gain in the visible supply kept wheat quotations in a narrow range and final prices were unchanged to a quarter cent lower. Corn broke 1 5-8 to 2 1-4 on southwestern gains and large country offerings in Illinois. Cotton rallied toward the close, which was $1.65 to $1.75 a bale higher.

Sterling exchange was firmer, advancing to $4.85 for cables, a rise of 1-8 from Saturday, but still under the gold point. Dealers quoted the mark at an advance of about three-fifths of a cent, the French franc was steady.

BOND MARKET DULL WITH LOWER TREND

German Issues Lose at Close After Gaining; Turnover Is Only $6,324,000.

New York, July 20 (A.P.).—The bond market hung up a new record for dullness today, when sales on the Stock Exchange aggregated $6,324,000 at par values, the smallest total for a full session since August 11, 1930, when the turnover amounted to $5,923,900.

Average prices for ten representative issues each of the railroad, industrial and public utility groups indicated a declining trend among the two former groups, but the significant feature of the trading was the dullness. Such activity as occurred was concentrated pretty much among a few leading issues.

Closing sales of foreign obligations left no doubt as to their trend, although they were not all consistently strong. German 7s of 1949 and the 5½s of 1965 started the day higher, but ended it lower. Other German loans rose irregularly. Wall Street bankers are disposed now to watch intently the progress of the international conference at London. Some agreement will have to be reached there, it is felt, before any financial assistance can be extended by American bankers, but an agreement will not make such aid inevitable, according to the opinion of important bankers. Some sharp gains appeared in such Latin American issues as those of Chile, Brazil and Colombia. Argentine obligations usually were lower.

Loans of the United States Government were unusually dull within a narrow range.

Trading in domestic corporate bonds was so dull that no sales of any sort were reported in a large number of them and the turnover of many others consisted of a single minimum gain.

Net changes in the more active issues were mixed with the declines slightly more numerous than the gains. Alleghany 5s, American I. G. Chemical 5½s, Canadian National 4½s of 1957, Interborough Stamped 5s; Pittsburgh, Cincinnati, Chicago & St. Louis Series C 4½s and Southern Pacific 4½s of 1981 eased off. Pennsylvania Power & Light 4½s, Humble Oil 5½s, Consolidated Gas of New York 4½s and Armour 5½s closed with varying gains.

NATS DEFEAT TIGERS, 7-3, FOR FIFTH STRAIGHT

Marberry Holds Detroit As Mates Stage Six-Run Attack in Second Inning

Hargrave Gets Timely Single; Hogsett Is Pounded.

By FRANK H. YOUNG.

WITH Pitcher Fred Marberry at top form, yesterday's third game of this series with the Tigers was just a romp for the Nationals, the scoreboard reading "Washington, 7; Detroit, 3," at the finish. Despite the fact that the home team went into a six-run lead in the second session, the cash customers were considerably worried, but it was because of threats made by the weather man rather than by the Tigers, and there were audible sighs of relief when the alien fifth was completed, thus making it a legal game. Yes, the Mackmen won, too, so the Nats gained nothing in the pennant race while winning their fifth straight.

Marberry bore down in the first inning. Then his mates gave him a big lead under which to work and he got by on "dink" stuff over the balance of the route, merely lobbing the ball much of the time, but occasionally cutting loose with a fast one just to keep the Tiger swatsmiths on their toes. In two innings the Jungle Cats managed to bunch hits but, as a general proposition, they were helpless before the big Texan.

Sullivan Grants But One Safety.

Elon Hogsett, the Cherokee Indian, shunted to Toronto and then recalled, drew the Harrisian mound assignment. His southpaw slants kept him out of trouble in the first, but they seemed to be "just what the doctor ordered" for the Nats in the second and third. He finally was eased out to make way for a pinch-hitter in the fifth and Charley Sullivan finished out and granted but one hit in the last four frames.

Because he has been in a batting slump, Heinie Manush was benched in favor of Sam Rice and the veteran celebrated his return to the line-up by batting at a 1.000 clip, making three clean singles and walking his four times up. Jack Hayes shared sticking honors with him, having a lusty triple and two one-basers to show for his day's work. Of the eleven hits granted by Marberry, Mark Koenig made four of them, singling every time he went to the tee to became the hitting hero of the game.

The game, to all intents and purposes, was decided in the second round, when six hits, two stolen bases and three allen errors gave the Nats six juicy runs. Kuhel led off with a single to right-center and watched Bluege fly out. He went to third and Hayes continued on to second on the latter's single and Johnson's error on it.

Five Hits in Row for Nats In Second.

Then Hargrave cleared the bases with a liner single to center and Marberry. West and Rice made it five hits in a row by cracking out safeties. These bingles, with an error by Walker, netted five runs and the sixth counted while McManus was tossing out Cronin. Later, Gehringer made an error and Kuhel walked,

BURKE FACES DETROIT TODAY

Bridges or Sorrell to Hurl for Foes in Series Final.

By FRANK H. YOUNG.

BUCKY HARRIS and his Tigers will bid adieu to Washington after today's game, with the St. Louis Browns next to appear here. Games with the Browns are scheduled tomorrow, Thursday, Saturday and Sunday, with Friday an open date. Bob Burke, young southpaw, likely will do the hurling for the Nationals this afternoon, while Harris is undecided whether to turn over his mound duties to Tom Bridges or Vic Sorrell, both of whom are ready.

Victory today will give the Nationals a series sweep, will give them six in a row, and will be the eighth straight loss for the Tigers.

Old "Joe Slump" has practically gotten Heinie Manush "knocked out" at the tee, the result being that Manager Walter Johnson yesterday decided to bench the outfielder for a few days. "I'm going to even excuse him from batting practice for a couple of days," the Nat leader said yesterday, "as I believe that a short rest, with him doing no hitting at all, will tune up his batting eye quicker than anything else."

Sam Rice To Serve In Left Field

Sam Rice went to left in Heinie's place yesterday and will stay there as long as he goes well; otherwise, Harry Rice will get the call until Manush returns. When right-handers oppose the Nats, both Rices probably will play, with Dave Harris doing bench duty.

Pitcher Warren (Lefty) Carey, newest National, took a long warm-up before yesterday's game with Manager Walter Johnson looking on. "The kid has lots of stuff and good action," Walter remarked after the drill, "but he is as green as grass, inclined to be wild, and needs considerable seasoning before he can help us any. We'll probably farm him out where he can get the steady work he needs."

Owen saved the Tigers a fourth error in the second round when he made a nice stop of McManus' bad peg on Cronin's roller. The first sacker managed to touch the runner while laying almost flat on the ground after his stop.

Harris' return peg following Walker's single was a perfect one to Cronin, who intercepted the ball and shot it to first in time to nail the runner, who had rounded the bag too far.

Hayes' triple in the third, his consecutive hit, was a looper far over

Hack Wilson Benched Third Time This Year

Chicago, July 20 (U.P.).—For the third time this season Manager Rogers Hornsby has been forced to bench Hack Wilson, major league home run leader last year, because of his weak hitting.

Brown Checks Red Sox As Indians Score, 9-2

Boston, July 20 (A.P.).—Clint Brown, Indian hurler, held Boston to four hits today, enabling Cleveland to win, 9 to 2.

The Indians made fourteen hits, Sewell being the only man who failed to connect. The Red Sox were able to make but two hits after the first inning.

New Golf Ball Stays, Says Official

U. S. G. A. President Avers No Change Contemplated.

Protests Have Simmered; Converts Being Added.

BY ALAN GOULD.

NEW YORK, July 20 (A.P.).—The days of the "balloon" golf ball may be numbered, as many close observers believe, but it is due for quite a few more flights before anything is done about the protests that have piled up since its adoption this year by the United States Golf Association.

Speculation was revived today by the publication of reports that the association was about ready to consign the oversized sphere to the scrapheap, but the fact is that no official action has yet been taken, nor is any decision immediately in sight.

U. S. G. A. Authority For Statement.

This much can be said on the authority of Herbert M. Ramsay, president of the U. S. G. A. and the dominating figure in its councils. As to what the future may hold, or what conclusions may be reached after more complete analysis of reports from all parts of the country, Mr. Ramsay is diplomatically silent.

The best guess right along has been that the balloon ball will continue to be official for the rest of the 1931 big tournament season. It still holds good. At the same time, it will cause no great surprise if the powers that be in American golf decide to alter the golf ball specifications for 1932.

Protests against the larger, lighter ball have mounted, since it became official last January 1, but they have not been consistent or clear-cut enough for definite conclusions to be based on. Some of the most fiery opponents have cooled off under the influence of more thorough tests. Others apparently feel convinced there is a happy medium, between the old and new balls, retaining the best features of each—namely, the new size and the old weight.

The new ball is 1.68 inches in diameter, 1.55 ounces in weight. The old ball weighed 1.62 ounces and measured 1.62 inches in diameter.

The chief objections to the "balloon" ball have been that it is difficult to control in the wind, especially for the average player, and that it is less reliable on the greens. Its most favorable feature is that it affords generally better "lies" through the fairways.

Cubs Bunch 3 Hits To Beat Robins, 1 to 0

Chicago, July 20 (A.P.).—Watson Clark, trying for his eighth straight victory, held the Chicago Cubs to three hits, but the Brooklyn Robins lost their first game of the series today. The score was 1 to 0.

The Cubs bunched two of their three hits—Dan Taylor's triple and Hemsley's single—in the seventh to score the only run of the game. The Robins got to Charley Root for seven safe blows, but the Cubs' ace was unhittable when hits meant runs. Hack Wilson was again benched by Manager Hornsby for not hitting. Cuyler shifting to center field and Vince Barton going into right.

MRS. MOODY WINNER IN SINGLES

Scores Double Victory to Gain 3d Round in Essex Play.

MANCHESTER, Mass., July 20 (A.P.).—Mrs. Helen Wills Moody today launched her Eastern singles tennis campaign with the same old skill. She played only 49 minutes to defeat two seasoned tournament players and gain the third round of the Essex County Club's invitation play, which this year attracted twenty of the Nation's 32 best players.

The former champion had an easy first round match with Mrs. Robert Morris, Boston, overwhelming her, 6—0, 6—1, by forcing errors with a consistent attack to the back hand. Mrs. Moody's second match with Margaret Blake, of Lenox, was more keenly contested than is indicated by the 6—3, 6—1, score.

The Lenox girl, a slam-bang hitter and a tireless getter, broke through Mrs. Moody's service twice in the opening set and scored in several of the long driving duels that thrilled the fair-sized gallery of North Shore society. At no time, however, was Mrs. Moody seriously threatened by her tournament-wise rival.

Mrs. Moody's Service Erratic.

The long absence from competition showed in Mrs. Moody's play. Her service was erratic at times and often she had trouble placing her first ball. The other part of her game that appeared below form was her backhand, especially during her second match, when she made 18 nets and 10 outs with this stroke.

Mrs. Moody, a bracket behind all but two of the survivors, will oppose Mrs. Amy Laame, New York, in the third round and, barring accident, will then meet Charlotte Miller, of New York.

Blake, who joined the Cubs in 1924, will report to Manager Shotton, of the Phillies, in St. Louis on Wednesday.

WESTBROOK PEGLER Says

By WESTBROOK PEGLER.

NEW YORK, July 20—Deeming it only fair that praise for my many fine qualities should not be withheld until it is too late for me to enjoy the sound of the same, and knowing nobody else as well qualified by sympathy and information to write upon the subject, I have decided to compose an article on the topic of myself—the man. This will be a friendly article, as I am sensitive on the subject of my faults, which are quite few and trivial. Moreover, I do not believe in destructive criticism.

I am a person of absolutely no importance, married, two children, a member of one lodge, residing at 332-B North Elm street, city.

Up to the present time my name has apepared in print only in the notices of births and marriages, and I do not anticipate that it will ever appear in print again until it bobs up in the death notices. I have never played on a regular baseball or football team, I cannot box, I have played only a few rounds of golf, and those on a public course and, although I find my recreation at sport events when I can afford to, the fact that I have never been a prominen athlete, have never had more than $300 in my life and have never been arrested excludes me from mention in the newspapers as being among those present.

In reading the newspaper stories of sports events which I have attended in the cheap and remote seats, I have often wished that the reporters had thought to write that Joseph Doakes, which is my name, a sorter at the Elite Laundry, came into the arena at such and such a time, went straight to his seat in the fourth row of the bleachers and whiled away the time until the contest began reading the signs on the walls.

But the reporters confine their mention to such people as Bobby Jones, Babe Ruth, Mickey Cochrane, Gene Tunney, Ruth Elder, Jimmy Johnston, Anthony J. Drexel Biddle, jr. and other millionaires, and one or two well-known public enemies. I realize that these are all very interesting people, but I keep thinking that, if people only knew me in a large way, I would be fairly interesting, too. I am really a great fan, possibly more enthusiastic than some of the people who are invariably mentioned and, in my own sphere, as successful as some of these people are in theirs.

What I figure is that, as long as laundry has to be sorted, and as long as I am one of the best sorters in the U. S. A., it is undemocratic that I should be consistently ignored. I come pretty close to being the Babe Ruth of sorters, and what I would like to see in the papers some time would be an article telling the public all about me, in the same way that articles have told about him and Schmeling and Sarazen.

CHISOX BOW TO MACKS' RALLY

A's Win Out, 12-7, After Trailing by 6-Run Margin.

PHILADELPHIA July 20 (A.P.).—The Athletics overcame a 6-to-0 lead today to clinch the season's series with the Chicago White Sox, winning, 12 to 7. The champions thus won their twelfth game in fourteen clashes with Chicago.

Chicago's lead of six runs, made in the first inning, was wiped out when the Mackmen scored one run in their half and five more in the second inning. In the fourth inning Mule Haas and Jimmy Foxx each hit for the circuit, sending the Athletics ahead for the balance of the game. Foxx's homer, inside the park, was his nineteenth of the season.

The White Sox completed a triple steal with the bases full to score their fourth run. Fonseca, Watwood and Grube executed the theft while McDonald was winding up, Fonseca scoring standing up before the young hurler released the ball.

Grove Downs Smallwood At Fort

Mohawk Club Fighter Gains Decision in Feature Bout.

Irving Stops Dick in Second; McKenna Beats Kelly.

By JACK ESPEY.

HARRY "KID" GROVE, popular Mohawk Club welterweight, came back to the fistic firing line last night with light but effective artillery. The boy whom many fans thought "through" because of his prolonged absence from the ring, won a unanimous decision over a harder puncher, Joe Smallwood, in the eight-round feature bout of the card at Fort Washington. Victory carried with it the somewhat doubtful title of welterweight champion of this, the fightless District of Columbia.

It was a comparatively tame bout that failed to satisfy those who feast on slugging, which has been served up in most previous scrambles at the fort, but what it lacked in this respect it made up in skillful boxing, the largest share of which was contributed by Grove.

Grove Proves Ability As Boxer.

Grove placed his chances solely on his boxing ability. He never gave Smallwood the chance the latter sought for a knockout. From start to finish the Mohawk battler kept his left hand in Joe's face, the result being two eye gashes for the favored Smallwood that bothered him plenty toward the last.

Smallwood, surprised at Harry's success with the left hand early in the fight, was never able to get going. After absorbing countless hooks and jabs, Joe began gunning for a kayo in the fifth round, but then too he found the Southeast lad springing the unexpected. When Joe opened up, Harry whipped home a series of vicious overhead rights.

Smallwood Takes One Round.

Smallwood, who conceded his rival two pounds—147 to 149—took only one round, the third. In this session he shot home a right cross to the head that shook Harry from head to toe. In the fourth Smallwood drew blood from the nose, which flowed freely until the final gong. The kid cut Joe's left eye in the sixth and opened his right in the eighth.

Grove was credited with winning the second, sixth and eighth rounds. This reporter scored the first, fourth, fifth and seventh even.

In the most exciting clash of the night, Sailor McKenna avenged an earlier defeat at the hands of Andy Kelly by trimming the Baltimore lightweight with a speedy attack over an eight-round route. The Sailor took full power of Kelly's overhand right without showing it, meanwhile cuffing the Baltimorean all over the ring. Kelly spent much of the time with his back on the ropes under McKenna's skillful maneuvering, the Sailor in this position pumping both hands to head and body effectively.

Henry Irving, former District amateur middleweight champion, scored his second successive knockout by stopping Fighting Dick, Charlotte, N. C., in the second round of a scheduled four-rounder. Irving's haymaking right connected for one broken rib before Dick was saved by the referee's intervention.

Frankie Vance, whom Irving knocked out last week, thoroughly defeated game Billy Tucker in another four-rounder. In other bouts of the same class, Soldier Clark, of the fort, stopped Jack Quigley, Washington, in the fourth, while Billy Hoe, Mohawk Club, drew with Roddy Davis.

Success Seen For Charity Fight

Sharkey - Walker at Top Form; Big Gate Assured.

Sailor 2-1 Favorite; Should Be 50-1, Say Experts.

BY EDWARD J. NEIL

NEW YORK, July 20 (A.P.).—With $85,000 in the till, weather fine, and the athletes in fine trim and growling at each other, the fifteen round duel of Jack Sharkey and Mickey Walker, the good big man and the good little one, seemed headed tonight toward financial as well as artistic success.

Big Jack and Little Mickey meet Wednesday night at Ebbets Field over the fifteen round championship route for the left-wing heavyweight crown as opposed to the right wing, which Max Schmeling rules. Schmeling, named champion by the New York State Athletic Commission after he defeated Sharkey on a foul, has since been deposed by the Solemn Solons and the Boston Sailorman set up in his place.

Sharkey On Razor-Edge For Fight

Sharkey, with only the four rounds he toyed with Schmeling before planking one low as a fighting record for almost two years, seems to be razor-edge fit for his match with the retired king of the middleweights. He wound up his training today at Pompton Lakes, N. J., slightly under 200 pounds in heft, trim in body, his boxing skill Sharkey-tuned, his hitting touch deft and sure.

Sharkey has been in training since March 19, the early work being devoted to preparation for a bout with Primo Carnera that was ruled out by the Federal court.

At Orangeburg, N. Y., Walker wound up his training work in probably the best condition he has attained in recent years. He will weigh around 170 pounds, almost 30 less than Sharkey, but he has the chest and shoulders of a heavyweight, sturdy, chunky legs, and he hits hard enough to bother any man. In age and experience both warriors should be at their peaks. Both are close to the 30-year-old mark and their ring careers date back over 10-year periods.

Experts Rate Sharkey Choice By Long Odds

While what little betting there was featured Sharkey at 2 to 1—and most of the experts think it should be 50 to 1—the apparent lopsidedness of the match has failed to dampen the interest of the faithful. With continued fine weather, a gate between $150,000 and $200,000 is in prospect, large money for any match at this time.

The Hearst Milk Fund, promoting the match with Jimmy Johnston, has decreed that there shall be no broadcast.

Confidence Key Word At Walker Camp.

Orangeburg, N. Y., July 20 (UP)—Regardless of logic which indicates that Mickey Walker has no chance of victory in his 15-round bout with Jack Sharkey at Brooklyn, Wednesday night, there is something hypnotic about the Walker camp which sends visitors away feeling that the rugged little Irishman may overcome his physical disadvantage and win.

Walker himself believes that he is destined not only to beat Sharkey, but to go on and win the World's Heavyweight Championship. His manager, Jack Kearns—probably the craftiest manager in boxing history—has surrounded Walker with men sharing Mickey's confidence and the victory belief is so strong that it is transmitted to all who visit the camp.

Apparently no one here gives a thought to the possibility that Walker might be beaten. Fight experts arrive firmly convinced that Walker should be no better that a 1 to 20 snot against Sharkey but after listening to Kearns' dissertations on Jack the Giant Killer, David and Goliath and similar legendary triumphs of little men against large foes, they stumble away convinced that Walker is a good bet at the slim 9-to-5 odds now offered on the bout.

Kearns, a master psychologist and ballyhoo artist, deserves full credit for the success of the bout. Kearns

SWEET SCENT WINS FEATURE AT ARLINGTON BY 2 LENGTHS

Place Money To Sunny Lassie

Rocket Glare Third in Tryout for $10,000 Race.

Earl Pool Shines in Saddle With Latonia Victories.

CHICAGO, Ill., July 20 (A.P.).—Lasting well through the stretch to win by a half length, the Coldstream Stud Stable's 3-year-old filly, Sweet Scent, today qualified as a contender for Wednesday's $10,000 added Matron Handicap by leading a field of six home in the Vicksburg Purse at Arlington Park.

Sunny Lassie, the Middleburg Stable's eligible for the Matron, was second, two lengths in front of Sylvester Labrot's Rocket Glare. Sweet Scent did 1:24 4-5 for the seven furlongs.

Sweet Scent was always close to the early leader, Martha Jones, and when the latter began to tire in the stretch, Sweet Scent came on to take a lead which she held to the finish.

Earl Pool Stars
In Saddle.

Latonia, July 20 (A.P.).—The racing card here this afternoon was a typical "wash day" offering with the cheapest of platers holding sway in the majority events. The strip was slow and cuppy as the result of Sunday's showers and scratches were numerous. The originally fourth race was declared off entirely, necessitating a split of the second to supply a substitute.

In the absence of a feature, chief interest centered in the dazzling saddle work of the veteran rider, Earl Pool. Starting off the day auspiciously with a victory astride the Valley Lake Stable's Beauty Bride in the opening dash, Pool came back to score with Zean, from the same establishment, in the third, and W. G. Sparks' Running Water in the fourth, and then climaxed an afternoon of sensational riding by driving home with Sir Percival, a 17-to-1 shot, in the fifth.

Sir Percival's success was a distinct shock to the talent, who conceded the maiden son of Sir Galahad III but scant chance against Betty Derr, Stock Market and Prose and Poetry. Pool kept the R. S. Clark colt far off the early pace, as Betty Derr and Stock Market blazed the way, but turning for home his mount responded gamely to overtake the tiring Betty Derr and outgame Tracey and Straus' Witch Way. Betty Derr saved the show.

—Arlington Park Selections—

By J. B. SNODGRASS

ARLINGTON PARK, Chicago, July 20.—The Palestine Purse, an overnight event which is fashioned for 3-year-olds and upward, a test over the Hertz mile route, will be offered as the main attraction on the highly interesting program carded for tomorrow at Arlington Park. In the secondary number, ten juveniles will be dispatched over the 5½ furlong distance to contest the $1,600 purse.

In the mile of the feature, fifth on the card, a select field of six steady milers will match strides. This event carries a purse value of $1,800. DARK SEA, consistent speedster from the H. M. Woolf string, raced Knight Commander to a nose over this distance and was timed at 1:36 4-5. If the son of Traumer repeats that effort he will be difficult to beat. MORSEL has shown vast improvement in previous races and looms as the probable contender. SATIN SPAR scored easily in his last attempt and the White Satin gelding is dropping 2 pounds off that effort, which stamps the Bill Be Stable star a a serious threat.

Of the ten 2-year-olds named to start in the 5½ furlongs of the fourth event, supporting feature, DESERT SUN, from the Four Oaks string, appears well suited by the conditions. The Easter Belle colt faltered in his last after assuming command. With that race as a conditioner he should hold his opposition safe. TOMMIE KIRNAN turned in a splendid effort in his last victory to graduate from the maiden ranks and figures to force the pace. SOPHIST, a promising juvenile in the C. C. Van Meter Stable, is favored for the minor share of the purse.

FIRST RACE—Twenty juvenile platers will face the barrier in the opening 5½-furlong dash. I SAY, which finished second to Desert Sun last outing, is far down on the list and may not start. However, if the A. Sabath youngster is eligible, he is given the preference over this large field. SUNNY WORLD ran far below his best form in his previous outing, but is capable of a better showing and rates the place call. LINGUIST, from the W. R. Coe string, is a consistent juvenile and should offer stern opposition.

SECOND RACE—BAG SMASHER appears best of the twenty 3-year-old and up platers, which have been entered in the 6-furlong sprint of the second offering. The C. Davison colt gained an impressive victory in his recent outing and off that effort is given the call. COPPERFIELD has been training briskly after a brief rest and the Muldoon color bearer should finish in the runner-up position. KULAMAN finished behind BAG SMASHER in their last meeting and figures to go as well here.

THIRD RACE—Another limit field of 3-year-old maiden platers will contest the one mile gallop of the third, with BUGS LEARY selected to show the way to this mediocre group of nonwinners. The A. Sabath racer finished third to Suneros and Thunwin in his recent start, and that effort repeated here would make him eligible for graduation. Chief opposition should be furnished by BLACK BULL. This L. Decarlo maiden weakened last start after forcing the pace throughout and figures to show improvement. BASILICA has run some fair races and should finish in the money.

SIXTH RACE—DEVON, a useful plater from the J. J. Greely stable, appears best of his opponents in the 1 mile of the sixth, which brings together twenty 3-year-olds and upwards. HOMEWARD has turned in some fair performances over a longer route, but figures to gain the place, with CLEMENCE favored over the others for the minor award.

SEVENTH RACE—Only seven have been entered in the mile and an eighth of the concluding number for 3-year olds and upwards. MONTANARO, a recent winner at this track, has the speed of this field and should annex the purse. GALAHAD would appreciate a slow track for his best effort, but, nevertheless, in this class appears the runner-up. Dr. PARRISH, another mud runner, figures to gain the show award.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—BRAVE AND BOLD, $6.42, $4.52, $2.02; STRATHCONA, $9.48, $4.84; KENNY BOY, $3.50.

BRAVE AND BOLD, easily best, followed STRATHCONA to the stretch and, taking command when ready, was in hand at the finish. STRATHCONA acted badly at the barrier, but displayed the most early speed and was eased up slightly near the end when beaten by the winner. KENNY BOY made up ground gradually and was best of others. CHILHOMA was shuffled back early and showed a good effort. CHEPERA met with some early interference.

SECOND RACE—About two miles (short course). Purse, $2,000. Southdown Steeplechase Handicap. For 4-year-olds and upward. Start good. Won easily; place, driving. Went to post at 2:47. Off at 2:47. Winner, J. F. Adams' ch. m. (8), by Foreground—Lasula. Trained by owner. Value to winner, $1,400; second, $350; third, $175; fourth, $75. Time, 3:56 3-5 (new track record, 13 jumps).

Two-dollar mutuels paid—GRACIE, $7.58, $5.18, $3.20; DRAPEAU, $10.90, $6.06; CANTERBURY, $2.94.

GRACIE made a bad landing at the seventh jump, but continued to show speed at the flat and, after coming up on even terms with CANTERBURY approaching the eleventh obstacle, made another bobble and lost enough ground again to take command over the final jump and led to the finish to win easily. DRAPEAU, showing a good effort, made up ground in the last half mile and outfinished CANTERBURY. Latter weakened after making most of the pace and pulled up very lame. SARDANEZA never threatened the leaders. QUEEN'S PAL was prominent for over one mile, then made a bad landing at the tenth fence and was never dangerous thereafter.

THIRD RACE—Five and one-half furlongs. Purse, $1,500; allowances. For 2-year-old colts and geldings. Start good. Won handily; place, driving. Went to post at 3:17. Off at 3:18½. Winner, H. T. Archibald's br. c. (2), by Westy Rosan—Candy May. Trained by W. R. Seamster. Value to winner, $1,100; second, $225; third, $125; fourth, $50. Time, 0:23, 0:47 1-5, 0:59 4-5, 1:06 4-5.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—WESTY JUNIOR, $4.72, $4.08, $3.62; PORTDEN, $3.88, $3.48; CHAZZAN, $18.42.

WESTY JUNIOR broke well and, quickly going to the front, opened up a handy lead and was under slight restraint approaching the finish. PORTDEN met with interference in the first half mile, then came strongly to be a fast-going second. CHAZZAN displayed good early speed and held on fairly well. PRINCE FARTHING went fairly well. PRINCE FOX tired. CATHOP broke slowly.

FOURTH RACE—Six furlongs. Purse, $1,500; claiming. For 3-year-olds and upward. Start good. Won easily; place, driving. Went to post at 3:45½. Off at 3:45½. Winner, W. S. Kilmer's b. c. Two-dollar mutuels paid—SUN MEMORY, $12.18, $6.42, $4.58; FRENCH LASS, $3.36, $2.60; OUTBOUND, $3.58.

SUN MEMORY, running gamely and saving ground throughout, headed FRENCH LASS approaching the stretch, turn and opening up a long lead in the stretch, won easily. FRENCH LASS was used up trying to draw away from the winner in the early stages and tired in the last furlong. OUTBOUND went fairly well and was gaining at the finish. LADY CAPULET showed a fair effort.

FIFTH RACE—Seven furlongs (out of chute). Purse, $1,500; allowances. For 3-year-olds and upward. Fillies and mares. Start good. Won driving; place, same. Went to post at 4:17. Off at 4:17½. Winner, Cold Stream Stud's b. f. (3), by Buntiny—Bird Call. Trained by J. Lowe. Value to winner, $1,150; second, $250; third, $150; fourth, $50. Time, 0:23, 0:46 1-5, 1:12, 1:24 4-5.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—SWEET SCENT, $24.24, $11.06, $4.44; SUNNY LASSIE, $6.40, $3.62; ROCKET GLARE, $3.06.

SWEET SCENT, always within striking distance of the leaders, responded gamely to hard urging in the stretch and, getting to the front, held SUNNY LASSIE. Latter came from far back in the last quarter to save ground and finish fastest of all. ROCKET GLARE was a forward factor throughout and outfinished MARTHA JONES. Latter took a long lead in the early stages, but tired in the run home. SISTER ZOE was outrun for a half mile, then moved up strongly approaching the last turn, but was all over the track and did not respond to punishment in her usual fashion. ST. PRISCA appeared to be outclassed and was eased up when badly beaten.

ELCIDIO came around the outside at stretch turn to finish well. FLAGG PORTER weakened in the run home.

SUN MISSION VICTOR AT EMPIRE

Workman Rides to Victory in Feature; Tailspin Second.

EMPIRE CITY RACE TRACK, July 20 (A.P.).—Favorite players continued to enjoy unusual success at the Yonkers course as another week of sport began. The first four choices crashed into the winning column, with Sun Mission, that honest campaigner from the stable of Dr. Irving Jacobs, accounting for the Bronxville Handicap, mile and a sixteenth feature. Sonny Workman completed a double by guiding the son of Sun Briar home in handy fashion.

Mrs. Sadie Bennett's improving Tailspin finished second, beaten a length and a half and two lengths before M. L. Schwartz's Black Forest. Erin Queen, the only other starter, was beaten off. Sun Mission paid 4 to 5 and his time was 1:48 flat.

Black Forest looked all over a winner for 7 furlongs. Little Callahan, who had the mount, sent him out into a wide early lead, while Workman wisely rated Sun Mission in second place. Around the bend Workman gave Sun Mission a rap of the whip and the steady 5-year-old, under 126 pounds, began to make up ground fast. He came around Black Forest entering the stretch and made the latter stop badly. Tailspin closed powerfully, but Sun Mission had the race won and was nicely in hand at the end.

DOWNEY'S 78 TOPS FIELD IN PUBLIC PARKS GOLF TOURNEY

Burrows and Brooks in 2d Place

Six Players Tied at 81 Strokes in Play at E. Potomac.

Final 18 Holes Will Determine Champion Today.

By HENRY LITCHFIELD WEST.

BENEATH a blazing July sun, with the intense heat only partially tempered by mild breezes that came across the muddy water of the Potomac, some 30-odd golfers yesterday began the competition for the public links championship of the District of Columbia. The first round of eighteen holes, medal play, was played yesterday, to be followed by another similar round today.

The final round of 36 holes will be played tomorrow and the contestant with the lowest score will receive the title of champion and the S. G. Leoffler gold medal. A silver medal will be awarded to the runner-up.

Burrows and Brooks Trail By Stroke.

The scoring yesterday was not sensational. John M. Downey led the field with 78, followed by Bradley H. Burrows and Duncan H. Brooks, each with 79. At the end of the first nine, when only five players broke 40, Burrows led with 37, while Downey seemed hopelessly behind with 43. However, on the second nine, played on C course, Downey negotiated a fine 35, two strokes under par and finishing with three 3s, an eagle on the seventh, a par on the eighth and a birdie on the ninth.

With remarkable reversals of form possible during the remainder of the tournament, it is impossible to predict the outcome, especially as there are six players with 81, only three strokes behind the leader. The cards of the three leaders:

Out—
Downey.....	4	4	5	6	4	6	5	4	5	—43
Burrows.....	4	3	4	5	3	5	4	5	4	—37
Brooks.....	4	3	4	5	3	4	6	5	4	—38
In—
Downey.....	4	5	5	3	5	4	3	3	3	—35	—78
Burrows.....	5	6	4	4	5	4	6	4	4	—42	—79
Brooks.....	6	5	6	4	4	4	4	4	4	—41	—79

Everett Johnson, who is among the half-dozen players with a card of 81, should have been among the leaders, but had the misfortune, when playing the fifth hole of the C course, to find his ball, after his tee shot, lodged in a tree and was compelled to suffer a penalty of two strokes for an unplayable lie. Among the interested spectators of the event was Ganson H. Depew, of Buffalo, chairman of the public links committee of the United States Golf Association.

The scores:

78—John M. Downey.
79—Bradley H. Burrows, Duncan H. Brooks.
81—George Molloy, Herbert G. Dorsey, G. C. Bannerman, Ralph T. Bennie, John J. Connelly, Everett R. Johnson.
82—Astor H. Clark, W. K. Wimsatt, Jr., Joseph Micker.
84—Robert H. Brown.
85—H. L. Maddison, R. R. Hair.
86—Arthur H. Carroll, E. M. Knibiehly, Harlan Will.
88—T. Marrow.
89—Leonard Berman, Robert Michelet, John C. Norwood, Harry E. Thompson, Maynard Hampa.
90—Martin Garber, James Thornton.
94—Artin Brown, L. W. Brunelle.
95—Thomas J. Meany, John L. Madden.
96—Charles E. Coulen.

Dr. Councilor, Father of Star Athlete, Dies

The death of Dr. Homer J. Councilor, assistant pastor of Calvary Baptist Church, has forced the Calvary Drakes to postpone their two games scheduled in the Georgetown Church League this week. The Drakes were to play the West Washington Baptist nine today and the First Baptist team tomorrow.

Dr. Councilor took an active interest in sports and was instrumental in organizing teams among the boys and young men of the Calvary Church. The Calvary teams, especially the basket ball aggregations, have gained a wide reputation for their proficiency.

Harry A. ("Chalky") Councilor, son of the Rev. Mr. Councilor, gained fame at Tech High School, this city, and Duke University as a basket ball and baseball player. "Chalky" made local court history when, together with Bill Warber and Joe Croson, he led the Manual Trainers to two consecutive championships. Young Councilor had been serving as an instructor at a summer camp in Connecticut until his father's illness forced him to return home.

STERLINGS IN STREAK.

The Sterling A. C. downed Galesville on the latter's diamond yesterday by a 9-3 score. It was the winner's seventh straight victory. Biggs held the losers to five hits and fanned eleven to coast into an easy win. He also led the attack, garnering two hits in four attempts.

STAHL FACES POJELLO ON MAT

Bout Features Card at Auditorium Thursday.

So that his distinguished clientele shall not go through more than seven days of local and nearby weather without the balm of watching two great big men manufacturing transpiration in wholesale lots in a wrestling ring, Matchmaker Joe Turner, the reformed wrestler, will offer another card of mat matches Thusday night, this time at the Washington Auditorium, rassling's winter quarters.

To keep matters going until he entices his billowing boys out to Mr. Griffith's ball yard again, Mr. Turner Thursday ordered Karl Pojello crated and shipped to Washington. Mr. Pojello is generally conceded to be one of the "First Ten" in wrestling, and there are insidious rumors circulating about Vessey street that he is really better than Jim Londos, but does not amount to many shakes as a gate drawer.

Pojello, a veteran at the game of grunting and grimacing, bends the beams at a scant 185 pounds, 15 pounds below the standard weight for wrestlers of the Curley group. While he is bordering on two-score mark in years, he still remains one of the fastest in the business. His opponent, and probable victim, will be Dick Stahl, said to be a protege of Dick Shikat, America's greatest wrestler.

Szabo Allotted Main Event.

Mr. Turner has allotted the main event heading to Sandor Szabo, the handsome Hungarian, who is expected to make goulash of old Mike Romano, tried and trusted matman, who loses to heroes and wins from such villains as Tiger Nelson, Nick Nestor and George Tragos.

Szabo made a tremendous hit here last week at Griffith Park, tossing Toots Mondt in as spectacular a match as has ever been committed since wrestling moved off Ninth street into the money. He affects a brilliant robe, with shorts to match, and is one of the handsomest boys in the business.

Mr. Turner announces that ladies will be admitted absolutely gratis if accompanied by members of the paying species.

While Mr. Turner has already made all arrangements for these two matches, it is unreliably reported that he is searching under old boards and loose bricks for the preliminary artists.

Shore-Latona Play Sendel-Staubly Today

Frank Shore and Anthony Latona, one of the best young doubles teams in Washington, will reopen the oft-delayed ninth annual men's public courts tennis championship today at Rock Creek Park when they encounter the crack combination of Frederico Sendel, former Mexican Davis Cup player, and Alan Staubly, George Washington University player.

It is the only match on the schedule today, but the tournament committee announced an active program for tomorrow as Dooly Mitchell, seeded No. 1 and defending champion, clashes with Frank Shore, and Bud Markey, heavily backed "dark horse," engages Maurice O'Neill in semifinal round singles matches.

It is planned to hold the finals of the doubles either tomorrow or Thursday, depending on the outcome of the singles. The finals of the singles will not be played until Sunday afternoon.

Londos Throws Szabo In Connecticut Bout

New Haven, Conn., July 20 (A.P.).—Jim Londos, Greece, claimant for the world's heavyweight wrestling title, threw Sandor Szabo, Hungary, with an airplane twirl in 35 minutes and 42 seconds at the White City Stadium here tonight before 5,000 fans. Londos weighed 290 and Szabo scaled 204.

Tiny Roebuck, Haskell Indian, 245, won a close 20-minute decision, which was shortened from 30 minutes on account of rain, over Skega Kaimikoff, Siberia, 240.

Mike Romano, Chicago, 202, threw Gene Benkert, Belgian, 218, in 9 minutes and 44 seconds with a headlock.

Gene Bruce, Finland, 200, pinned Casey Berger, Texas, 210, in 21 minutes and 12 seconds by using the reverse flying mare.

QUANTICO A. C. BOOKING.

The Quantico A. C., of Quantico, Va., is seeking games with strong unlimited teams of this city. The Virginians have just reorganized for the season. Manager Norman Bourne can be reached at Quantico 312.

LAUREL BOUT PRINCIPALS DUE TODAY

Latzo, Weiss Ready for 10-Round Tiff Tomorrow.

LIGHT heavyweight principals in the headlining 10-round-bout of tomorrow night's Midcity Arena card outside Laurel, Md., one mile toward Baltimore, are to report here by nightfall. Pete Latzo, former world's welterweight champion, and Sam Weiss, 21-year-old Philadelphia sensation, whom he is to oppose, are scheduled to put in an appearance late today.

Latzo, who has primed himself throughly for the impending fight, is to arrive here at 6 o'clock this afternoon. Midcity officials yesterday instructed Weiss to check virtually at the same hour.

Late tonight or early tomorrow, the remaining out-of-town principals are to arrive. Frank Pullam, former Catholic University ring favorite and present national A. A. U. middleweight champion, along with his stable mate, Paul Berlenbach, Manager Dan Hickey and a second will comprise this pilgrimage.

Capacity Crowd Anticipated.

Unusual interest is being evidenced in this card which features two former world champions and a fair supplementary line-up. Advance ticket sales are reported to have boomed smartly yesterday and indications are that a near capacity gathering will be present when hostilities get under way at 8:30 o'clock.

While making his bow in this section, Latzo, one of the most popular and picturesque of modern day ringmen, will be severely tested by Weiss, Al Lippe's youthful candidate for the world's light-heavyweight title. Twice previously Latzo managed to shade aggressive Sam by the closest of margins. In the event he turns the tables on the Scranton, Pa., Italian tomorrow night, Weiss will start a real drive for the championship now held by Max Rosenbloom. And, according to Lippe and other Quaker City experts, the Jewish kid has better than an outside chance of succeeding.

Seconding the main spot in interest is the semifinal of five rounds which finds old "Punch 'm" Paul Berlenbach battling Herman Weiner, Baltimore's heavyweight. Berlenbach, champion light-heavyweight in 1927, expects to counteract a disadvantage in weight with a booming right hand that has accounted for innumerable knockouts. Weiner, however, has a punch of his own which he is preparing to unload at "Punch 'm's" expense.

Buses to Transport Patrons.

By special arrangement and at a nominal cost, Washingtonians desiring round-trip transportation to these bouts can make connections with buses supplied by White Line Tours and stationed in central sections. At 7:30 o'clock these buses are to depart from Ninth and E streets northwest; Ninth street and New York avenue northwest; Seventh street and Pennsylvania avenue northwest, and North Capitol and H streets northwest.

Tickets may be procured at Goldie Ahearn's, 500 Ninth street northwest; Curb Lunch, 714 H street northeast; Spalding's, 1338 G street northwest, and Vic Sport Shop, 716 Ninth street northwest.

Johnny Weissmuller At Glen Echo Tonight

Johnny Weissmuller, world champion swimmer, who is in Washington this week, will visit Glen Echo Pool tonight and display his tank ability. He holds or has held the world's championship record in practically all events. The noted swimmer, diver and all-around water athlete will appear at 9 p. m.

Phil Scott "Resigns" As British Champion

London, July 20. (U.P.).—Phil Scott, once regarded as among the outstanding heavyweights of the country, indicated today that he would retire from boxing in a letter to the British Boxing Commission surrendering his heavyweight championship of Great Britain.

Scott, known as "Phainting Phil," gave no reason for his decision. His only statement in the latter was that he wished to "resign" his heavyweight title.

The British commission acepted the resignation and announced that it would recognize Charlie Smith as the title holder. Smith has been regarded as the leading contender for the crown Scott held.

German Woman Sets New Shot-Put Mark

Dortmund, Germany, July 20 (A. P.).—Fraulein G. Haublein, of Elberfeld, bettered the world's record for women in the shot put today, tossing the 8-pound ball 13.16 meters, or 43 feet 2⅛ inches.

The listed world's record for the women's shot put is 11.96 meters, or 39 feet 2⅞ inches, set by Fraulein Haublein in 1928. This mark, however, was bettered by Rena MacDonald at Chicago in 1929 with a toss of 42 feet 3 inches, and also by Fraulein Haublein, who recently established a mark of 13.10 meters, or 42 feet 11 49-64 inches, a little more than two inches short of the toss she made today.

Glascoe, Undiscouraged, Planning for 1932 Griffs

"Wee Willie" Serves Notice He Is Out for Title.

By LEWIS F. ATCHISON.

IT has been seven long years now since "Wee Willie" Glascoe piloted a team to the District championship, but the little Napoleon of Washington's sandlots is not one whit discouraged by his failure to bring home a winner. The latest of Willie's teams to finish out of the money is the Griffith Blue Coals, who wound up in fourth place in section A of The Post's Capital City League.

Willie is not losing any sleep over the team's poor showing this year, not by a long shot; he's too busy planning for next season to think about what happened this year. If any faith can be put into his statements, and Willie knows whereof he speaks, the Griffs will be some pumpkins next year.

Organized Semipro Loop In 1927.

Glascoe has been a player, coach and manager of teams, and in 1927 he played an important role in the organization of a semipro league. The latter venture collapsed during the season and no attempt was made to resurrect it. By his long association with the sandlot sport, Willie has built up an enviable reputation as a sportsman and a square shooter.

He first played with the Bradburn M. E. Church nine, managed by "Nancy" Steele, as a pitcher. Not until 1906 was the Shamrock A. C., with which Willie gained his greatest fame, organized. The little fellow was business manager of the team in its first year. In those days there was no organized league as there is now. Champions were often obliged to resort to the manly art of self-defense to prove their claim to the crown.

The Shamrocks played all of their games on the "Dutchman's Lot," located at Fourteenth and Potomac avenue southeast. On many occasions the team was deprived of its playing grounds when the Gentry Bros. Dog and Pony Show camped on the lot. Large crowds were the rule rather than the exception at all of the games and the team usually realized a small profit by passing around the hat about the sixth inning. As Willie put it, "Nobody had much but everybody gave plenty."

Won City Title on First Try In 1917.

The Shamrocks' first venture into organized baseball resulted in its first city championship. That was in 1917 when the Irish escaped unscathed in the "Down and Out" series. One defeat would have put an end to their championship aspirations, but the Southeast players were right that year and were well nigh unbeatable. Willie does not know off-hand just how many titles his boys won; he thinks it is either four or five.

Willie can spin some mighty interesting yarns about the old days when he is in the mood. For instance, there is the time Bucky Harris wrote to him and informed Willie that if he ever ran across any players he deemed worthy of a try-out with the Nats to send them out to the park. Sammy Haas was singled out by the Shamrock pilot and accordingly obtained a week's leave of absence from work to display his wares before the Nats' boss. Oddy enough, it rained the entire week and the weather so disgusted Sam he returned to work the following Monday and abandoned all hope of ever playing in the big show.

Building Operations Force Transfer.

Building operations on the famous "Dutchman's" lot forced the team to repair to a field at Seventeenth street and Pennsylvania avenue southeast, where the club attracted an unprecedented number of fans. While playing there one day, Everet Steele, who bore title of "the Babe Ruth of the Sandlots," having slammed three circuit clouts in one game,, poled one over Smoot's lunch room, a good city block's distance from the home plate.

The biggest star in Willie's crown is the winning of the city title in 1924, the same year the Washington team captured the American League title. The Shamrocks' opponent in that memorable series was the Dominican Lyceum Team. The final game was played at the Washington Barracks before the largest crowd to ever witness a sandlot fray, 12,000, and Willie's gang won by 7 to 5.

The "Old Days" are precious ones in Glascoe's life. In those days when Pete Haley and his Georgetown A. C. were the chief rivals of the Southeast aggregation, the boys were in it for the game itself and the glory of winning. Very much different than it is today.

Glascoe Developed Stars.

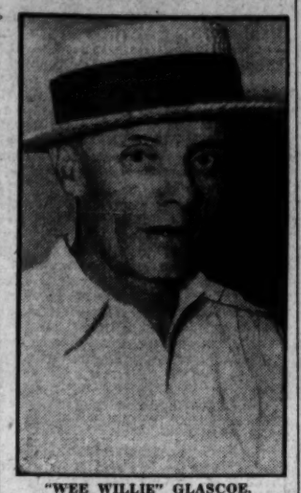
Among the many stars that have been developed under Willie's watchful eye are Sammy Haas, Johnny Simons, "Lefty" Kuhnert, "Hump" Humphries, Loule Long, Howard Miller, "Dutch" Smithson, Walter Beall, Tom Sweeney and "Pike" Hamel. There is an interesting tale told of how Walter Beall fanned 22 of the famous Dreadnaught A. C., of Alexandria, only to lose by a 3-2 score. Tom Sweeney was playing rightfield for the Irish that day. In the ninth inning with one man on "Ike" Devers at bat. Tom played well over toward the foul line as Devers was a notorious rightfield hitter, but Beall had other ideas about where the ball was going if it was going at all. After much persuasion Sweeney finally shifted his position over near centerfield and a moment later "Ike" banged a double down the rightfield line winning the game.

Of all the players Willie has seen in action he believes "Dutch" Smithson and "Pike" Hamel to be the best. Both men were hard hitters, fast on their feet, and good fielders. "Rowdy" Roudabush, whom Willie signed when he was just out of high school, was another who Glascoe thinks could have made the grade.

The so-called "good old days" were good, no doubt, but the more modern ones are making the going tough for Willie, thus he is more determined than ever to prove that he can come back and pilot a Capital City League champion. Remember the old saying, "A quitter never wins, and a winner never quits."

ANDERSON LEAVES HOSPITAL.

Rochester, Minn., July 20 (A.P.).—Hartly "Hunk" Anderson, Notre Dame senior football coach, was discharged from a local hospital today after several weeks of treatment for meningitis and appendicitis. He will remain here at least until August 1 for further treatment.



"WEE WILLIE" GLASCOE.

Tuffy Griffith Slugs Pantaleo Into Defeat

White City Stadium, Chicago, July 20 (U.P.).—Tuffy Griffith, Chicago heavyweight, pounded out a one-sided victory over Paul Pantaleo, Chicago, in a bloody ten-round bout before a crowd of 9,000 here tonight. Griffith weighed 188½, Pantaleo 179.

Griffith won every round and had Pantaleo on the floor four times. Pantaleo was hopelessly beaten after the first few rounds and showed a lot of courage in staying the distance.

The fight was advertised as for the heavyweight championship of Illinois.

SAYS PEGLER

The article I have in mind would be something like this:

To those who have only seen Joseph Doakes, the sorter, at work in the Elite Laundry, the man appears to be a human dynamo of restless energy with no other inteerst in the world but the sorting of sheets from pillow cases, shirts from socks, hand towels from bath towels, and so forth.

Doakes Is Own True Self.

But to get at the true character of Joseph Doakes, the man, one must go to a little flat at 332-B, North Elm street, city. There, in the midst of his family, one will see the real Joseph Doakes, the cares of the laundry temporarily forgotten, reading the sport page, very likely, and pausing now and again to sip from a tumbler of ginger ale, with a dash of gin in it. For Mr. Doakes, although he is not by any means to be termed a consistent drinker, nevertheless confesses that he does enjoy a little drink with his sport page, and is of the opinion that if the prohibition act were modified so as to permit light wines and wholesome beer, the problem of temperance would be solved.

At home, Mr. Doakes is another man, a kind father and a loving husband, and if you were to take him unawares, you would be quite likely to find him down on his hands and knees playing horse or bear with his little girl, Wanda, age 3, blue-eyed miss who is just learning to lisp "Shut-up" and "I will not," and his little boy, Lester, age 5.

"After all," Mr. Doakes would tell you, "a man's true self is only to be observed in his own home. It is there that he forgets the cares and drving competition of the day's tasks at the ball park or the laundry or wherever he happens to fight the battle of life, waiting for the one great umpire's call, and indulges the tastes that show his true character.

"In my case, after the tasks of the day are done, I want to forget the laundry and playy with my kiddies. Later on, when they have gone to bed and the dishes are done, Mrs. Doakes and I sometimes go to the moving pictures or, if we are too tired, just sit and listen to some good number on the radio until bedtime."

"And what," you might feel bold enough to ask this frank, wholesome man with his rough but, in some mysterious way, fascinating countenance, "what do you call Mrs. Doakes?"

The brown eyes would soften with a fond light never seen at the Elite Laundry, and a glow of something akin to real nobility would overspread the large, well-defined nose and sensitive mouth, smiling beneath a sparse blond mustache. He would blush like a boy.

Dearie Is Her Pet Name.

"Why," he would answer, "I call her dearie, as a rule. It is just a little name that I happened to think of when we were engaged. She was working in a lunch room and I used to sit on a stool at her station every noon. One day it just slipped out, I guess. I said, 'Another piece of pie, dearie,' and dearie she has been ever since, haven't you, dearie?"

And a gentle, winsome woman with hands red from the dish water and the washing and with a roguish wisp of straw-colored hair dangling over her eyes would blush prettily and reply. In pretty confusion, "Oh, Petty, how you talk!"

Mr. Doakes, or "J. D.," as they call him at the Elite, is essentially a city man, having been born on Eleventh avenue, in the old Fourth Ward, now the Ninth, but somehow this remarkable character has always included a passionate love for the great out-of-doors and all the wild feathered and furred creatures of nature. Several times a year the longing to get away from the toil and moil of the city becomes irresistible and then he bundles the family into a street car and away.

Perhaps they go to the zoo, perhaps out to the end of the line to tramp in the fields. Some day this instinct for nature, derived possibly from some frontiersman in his ancestry, may lead him to take a vacation at some lake amid the woods, where the trees seem to whisper at night, but that will have to wait. The public is his master and he is its slave now. The public must have its shirts and socks, pillow slips and sheets efficiently sorted and the man is cashing in on his unique talent and the public demand while yet he can.

This, then, is Joseph Doakes, the man, sorter extraordinary, family man, and lover of nature, who still finds time to be a red hot sport fan.

"I try not to take myself too seriously," he says. "After all, sorting is only a matter of knack, enthusiasm, and experience. Any golfer, fighter, or broker might become a successful laundry sorter if he would throw himself into it as I have done."

REVENGE AIM OF SHARKEY IN BOUT

Would Relieve Kearns of Meal Ticket Tomorrow.

"ballyhooed" Walker into a position as heavyweight title contender despite the fact that Mickey weighs only 165 pounds and has done nothing in the ring to earn consideration as a heavy.

Once the bout was signed, Kearns started "tearing down" Sharkey. He has filled the newspapers with vitrolic personal attacks against the Bostonian and rasied a question regarding Sharkey's courage and ability to make his best fight under pressure. These tactics, and the "giant killer" ballyhoo for Walker have convinced the general public that Walker actually has a strong chance of defeating Sharkey, a fellow who has been close to the heavyweight championship for nearly five years.

In training Walker, Kearns has devoted the major share of his efforts to hyppotizing Mickey into believing he can defeat Sharkey. The psychological build-up has been an unqualified success, such a success in fact that Kearns, usually a keen judge of fighters, not only has succeeded in hypnotizing Walker but also has hypnotized himself into believing that Walker is a better fighter than Jack Dempsey in his prime and a sure bet to knock out Sharkey.

Sharkey Tells The World.

Pompton Lakes, N. J., July 20 (U.P.).—Prebattle orations by prominent pugilists usually are written by "ghost" writers or managers, but Jack Sharkey who is to meet Mickey Walker in a 15-round bout at Brooklyn Wednesday insisted on inditing his own.

Here's how it goes, without music:

"I shall

CRUISERS' DEFECTS MAR MARKSMANSHIP

Changes Planned to Reduce Rolling; Alterations Under Way.

(Associated Press.)

The Navy has found that its eight new 10,000-ton cruisers roll so sharply in rough water as to interfere with effective gunfire, and has ordered alterations in design to overcome this fault.

Changes, including installaiton of antirolling tanks and larger bilge keels are now being made on the Pensacola and Northampton at the New York and Norfolk, Va., navy yards.

Installation of the tanks on the others will await proof of their success on the Pensacola and Northampton. The work of doubling the width of the bilge keels, and the installation of horizontal fins has already been completed on most of the cruisers.

Later Craft Heavier.

The Navy's designers have so planned the seven cruisers now under construction that excessive rolling is expected to be eliminated. The cruisers yet to be launched are expected to be heavier than those already built, which were lightened because of efforts of the builders to save weight under the incentive of a bonus. Greater weight is figured to increase seaworthiness.

The Northampton is one of the five new cruisers on which cracked sternposts were discovered. The sternpost is being replaced and the anti-rolling alterations are being made at the same time to avoid laying up the ship more than once. The same procedure will be followed in connection with the others wherever possible.

Aim at Stability.

Construction experts at the department pointed out that the short, jerky roll is the result of efforts to produce highly stable ships by placing the center of gravity at a very low point. It was added that a "stiff" ship of this sort can stand more punishment in battle without turning over and sinking than a vessel with a longer roll.

The present alterations are intended to retain enough of this stability to maintain a high safety factor. At the same time they are expected to make the ship more yielding under the impact of the waves, thus avoiding the jerkiness which interferes with marksmanship.

Indians Sacrifice Chicken at Rites

Stomp Dance in Oklahoma Lasts All Night; Inventor Honored.

Muskogee, Okla., July 20 (A.P.).—Sacrifice of a snow white chicken by John Noisy, Jess Locust, and Paul Sta, keepers of the Eternal Fires of Keetoowah, climaxed a picturesque Night Hawk Cherokee Indian ceremonial, near Gore, Okla.

Chief Sam Smith, explaining the sacrifice to white friends, said he gave up a white chicken each month during the World War in praying for victory, and the return of Keetoowah Cherokees who were across the sea. All of them came back, he said.

The Eternal Fires of the Keetoowahs were brought to Indian Territory from Georgia. For many years but one central fire was kept burning. Now there are seven. A stomp dance, begun at dusk last night, ended at sun-up today. It marked the birthday anniversary of Sequoyah, inventor of the Cherokee alphabet. His life was the subject of the only address in English at the ceremonial, by Ed Frye, assistant United States district attorney, and a full-blood Cherokee.

Association to Seek Lower Cotton Rates

New Orleans, La., July 20 (A.P.).—Intention of seeking lower freight rates on cotton in proceedings before the Interstate Commerce Commission and the various State railroad commissions was announced today by the American Cotton Cooperative Association.

The association said it not only will oppose the 15 per cent increase in rates now being asked by the railroads before the Commerce Commission, but will immediately petition for a lowering of the rate on cotton, which is handicapping the American grower in his competition with foreign producers.

New York, July 20 (A.P.).The value of New York Stock Exchange memberships showed a decline of $15,000 today. Arrangements have been made for the sale of a seat at $235,000, compared with $250,000 at the previous sale.

HEAT PROSTRATES 7; BARNS NEAR CAPITAL FIRED BY LIGHTNING

Streams Running Over Road Block Firemen From Silver Spring.

HIGH HUMIDITY ADDS TO DISCOMFORT OF CITY

Mercury Tops 93 Degrees, as Compared With 106 One Year Ago.

Washington and environs sizzled in the nineties again yesterday and last night, gaining no relief with the one-one hundreth of an inch of rain which fell in the Capital late in the afternon. Police reported seven prostrations.

Ninety-three degrees was official high, compared with 106 degrees on July 20, 1930, but the humidity more than compensated for the difference, to the discomfort of hundreds of thousands. The official humidity readings were: 90 per cent at 8 a. m., 56 per cent at 2 p. m. and 78 per cent at 8 p. m.

Two barns near Sandy Spring, Md., were struck by lightning and burned at the height of a storm whose heavy rains blocked fire engines which responded to the alarm.

Streams Block Help.

The fire department of Silver Spring was called to fight a fire on the property of W. W. Moore, but reported that it was unable to reach the place, as streams had overflowed across the road. A barn filled with hay burned, with a loss of about $3,000, covered by insurance. Mr. Moore said that streams in the vicinity had not been so high for 25 years.

Lightning also struck a barn on the farm of Charles Ray, about a mile from Sandy Spring, and destroyed the barn and a number of outbuildings. The Sandy Spring Fire Department was called and managed to save another barn. With the aid of the Rockville department, whose hose was called into play, water was pumped about a mile from the town to fight this blaze. Damage in this fire was also about $3,000, with insurance only on the barn.

Outside of making a noise and wetting the ground, the showers were not expected to be of any significance so far as heat relief is concerned. The temperature will remain about the same and humidity will probably increase, the weather man said.

The lowest official temperature yesterday was 76 at 6 o'clock in the morning; the low mark at the kiosk was not much under 90.

To William Nolan, of 1353 Pennsylvania avenue southeast, the heat was unbearable. Police of the Fourth Precinct found him strolling along in the vicinity of Fourteenth street and Pennsylvania avenue southeast, clad only, they said, in a smile, and nonchalantly smoking a cigarette. He was taken to the Fourth Precinct, where he was charged with indecent exposure and intoxication.

Seven Persons Treated.

Those prostrated yesterday were: James McCall, 48 years old, 1307 Twelfth street northwest, employed by the District Repair Shop, collapsed at Prospect avenue and Bank street, taken to Georgetown Hospital; Ross Frederick, colored, 35 years old, 706 second street northwest, collapsed at home, taken to Casualty; Ulysses Wells, 68 years old, of Baltimore, employed by the Washington, Baltimore and Annapolis Railroad, fell from a ladder at Twelfth street and New York avenue northwest after being stricken by heat, and suffered scalp lacerations, taken to Emergency Hospital; Eva Jones, 31 years old, colored, 1837 Ninth street northwest, at 1222 G street northwest, taken to Emergency Hospital; William Johnson, 41 years old, colored, 1123 New Jersey avenue northwest, overcome at First and Elm streets northwest, treated at Emergency Hospital and discharged; Dorothy Paw, Fifth street, near I street northwest, overcome at Sixth and F streets northwest, taken to Emergency Hospital by rescue squad and later discharged.

The seventh prostration occurred late yesterday afternoon at Fifth and K streets northwest, when an unidentified man collapsed. Police rushed to the scene, but learned that the man had been taken to a private physician by unknown persons.

Bulges on Hips Lead To Arrest of Cyclist

Because he had a bulge on either hip and an automobile is faster than a bicycle, Joseph Cowell, 21, colored, was arrested yesterday by Detective W. G. Grooms and charged with illegal possession of two one-half gallon bottles of liquor. The youth said he lives at 119 E street northwest.

Grooms was driving leisurely down G street when, near Third, he noticed the bulging bicyclist. He gave chase and after a few blocks Cowell abandoned his bicycle and ran into a lunchroom. There he was caught by the policeman.

Penalties Assigned In New Bus Order

Interstate Operators Warned of Imprisonment or Fine.

Determined that the recently adopted order governing the operation of interstate buses in Washington shall not be violated, the Joint Traffic Board yesterday fixed a penalty of $100 fine or ten days' imprisonment, or both, for each day that any part of the regulation is disobeyed.

Daniel E. Garges, secretary of the Board of District Commissioners, prepared the order for advertisement in the press today in accordance with the procedure required by the traffic act. The order thus does not become effective until ten days later, or on July 31.

Some of the bus operators, who are disappointed because the order does not permit the maintenance of a terminal in the congested zone after next April 1, have indicated they may challenge the authority of the District officials.

ATTACK KILLS MAN WHILE DRIVING AUTO

Acute Indigestion and Heat Believed Cause; Car Crashes Curb.

Harry Hayes, 32-year-old automotive mechanic, died last night in Sibley Hospital, a few minutes after he had been stricken suddenly while driving his automobile on North Capitol street near I. Death was caused, it is believed, by acoute indigestion, aggravated by the heat

Thomas F. Collins, who saw Hayes' car get out of control and crash into the curb, stopped his machine and took the unconscious driver to the hospital, where he was pronounced dead by Dr. H. H. Greene. With Mr. Collins was Dr. R. Kirchner, of Providence Hospital.

James E. Hayes, brother of the victim, said Mr. Hayes left the house after partaking of a hearty meal. The former expressed the belief that his brother, who was bound on a social engagement, was taken ill shortly after he left the family's home at 10 I street northeast and had turned back when he was stricken.

The car crashed within a few yards of the Hayes residence.

Police reported that the mechanic was treated recently by Dr. James R. Costello, 2818 Twenty-eighth street northwest, for stomach trouble and heat prostration.

Besides the brother, James, survivors are the mother, Mrs. Mary Hayes, and a sister, Mrs. Gertrude Zachary.

Mr. Collins lives at 324 H street northeast.

Winning Pistol Team Is Given Cup as Award

Having won 17 out of 18 matches in the annual competition of the Washington Pistol Club League, the pistol team of the Seventh Police Precinct yesterday was presented with a silver cup symbolic of its victory. The trophy was donated by Maj. J. Clinton Tribby, Georgetown jeweler, who is a devotee of the small-arms sport.

Private G. M. Stewart, of the Seventh Precinct, was the high scorer of his team, marking up a count of 395 out of 400. To Stewart went the honor of officially receiving the cup he and his brother policemen had won.

Foul Play Is Hinted As Man Is Buried

Fairfax County Seeks Aid in Solving Death of Joseph Palazzo.

Despite the fact that Fairfax, Va., authorities yesterday wrote to Washington Police Headquarters asking aid in tracing rumors in connection with the supposed suicide last Tuesday of Joseph Palazzo, 24 years old, 704 E street southeast, who was found dead in his automobile on the Washington-Richmond highway, funeral services were held yesterday morning at 9 o'clock in the Holy Rosary Church. Following the services, Palazzo was buried in Mount Olivet Cemetery.

Fear that something has happened to Mrs. Lotta Olinsworth, friend of the dead man, who disappeared shortly after his body was found with a bullet wound in the temple, prompted Sheriff E. P. Kirby to ask assistance of Washington police in locating her.

Mutual friends of the couple expressed the belief that Palazzo and Mrs. Olinsworth were victims of foul play, although members of Palazzo's family are convinced he committed suicide.

Cab Hits 'Shoals' Without Sea Trip

Vehicle Runs Into Concrete Street Buoy as Driver and Rider Talk.

A Negro hacker, cruising downtown Thirteenth street in his taxicab last night had the unusual experience of "running aground" without ever putting to sea.

William Smith, 34-year-old hacker, while conversing with a friend riding beside him jammed his vehicle squarely and securely into and upon an ovular concrete street "buoy" at Thirteenth and H streets northwest. The friend, whom Smith knew only as "Cephus," suffered a cut on the bridge of his nose while the hacker escaped injury.

A large crowd was attracted to the scene by the crash and several policemen came in response to a telephone call. A repair truck was called, and, after some time, the taxicab was hauled off the "shoals," its understructure considerably damaged. The driver told police he would pay for repaving the street "buoy." The lights on it were smashed, and part of the concrete was torn up.

Annulment Plea Claims Wife Already Married

Charging his wife had been formerly married and was wedded to him without obtaining a divorce, Arthur E. Dorer, 200 Massachusetts avenue northwest, yesterday sued in the District Supreme Court for annulment of his marriage to Mrs. Gladys S. Dorer, of 503 D street northwest.

He said he married the defendant here February 14, 1929, and lived with her until February 7 of this year, when they were separated. Not until after their separation did he learn of an alleged former marriage to Lewis P. Wright, he alleges. He said his wife filed a bill of complaint against Wright in the Circuit Court of Surrey County, Va., in March, 1929, but a divorce decree was never granted.

Intruder Strikes Man and Escapes

Police Hunt for Two Who Fail in Effort to Rob 13th Street House.

Thirteenth Precinct police last night were looking for two colored men who attempted to rob the home of William H. Simons, 4801 Thirteenth street northwest, and fled after one of them had struck Mr. Simons.

The resident said he was on the second floor, alone, when he heard a noise downstairs as if a chair being knocked over. As he reached the bottom of the staircase to investigate, a short but hefty colored man strode forward and struck Mr. Simons. Then he fled by the back door.

Arising, Mr. Simons chased his assailant into the yard, where he saw the intruder joined in flight by another man. Nothing was stolen. Mr. Simons told police his attacker was about 5 feet 8 inches tall, more than 200 pounds in weight, and was wearing a blue shirt, dark pants and was without hat or coat. He had a long scar on the right cheek.

Memory Blank Holds For Victim of Amnesia

Condition of Charles G. Limerick, 46-year-old District fireman, who disappeared from his home at 4616 Verplanck place northwest, early Friday, and declares he has no recollection of what occured until he was found unconscious in his automobile in Bethesda, Md., Saturday, was "unchanged" last night at Gallinger Hospital.

Police physicians yesterday took x-ray pictures of the man's head in an effect to determine cause for his lapse of memory. He remembers events that have happened since he was revived by the Fire Rescue Squad, but what took place in the period he was missing, is still a blank, he says.

WOMAN SUES DEAN; DEMANDS $1,000,000

Margaretta Meeker Says Man Attempted Criminal Assault.

Charging attempted criminal assault, Margaretta Meeker, 1320 Twenty-first street, northwest, yesterday filed suit in the District Supreme Court to recover $1,000,000 damages from Edward B. Dean, Sr., wealthy real estate owner, of 1669 Columbia road northwest.

She charged that Mr. Dean, who is 72 years old, on July 3 struck, beat, wounded and ill-treated her in his alleged attempted assault. The suit, filed by Attorneys J. William Tomlinson and W. Roy Ives, claims she suffered severe nervous shock and was greatly embarrassed by Mr. Dean's alleged deed.

She declared that because she is in fear of the defendant she had to leave her home as the result of the alleged attempted attack.

Mrs. Edyna C. B. Lloyd and her husband, Robert Lloyd, both of Garrisonville, Va., sued the millionaire real estate owner for $500,000 damages July 9 for alleged assault on Mrs. Lloyd. She said the alleged assault occurred while she was showing Mr. Dean through a house at 2430 Wyoming avenue northwest, where she was living at that time with her husband. Later both she and her husband were arrested and held by police for three days, without being charged, the suit stated.

Liquor Transportation Charged.

Arrested near his home at 1216 Thirty-seventh street northwest yesterday, Lawrence Graham, 38, colored, was charged with transportation of less than one-half gallon of white whisky. He was taken in custody by Sergt. E. A. Bullock, leading a Second Inspection District liquor squad.

OUSTED WASHINGTON POLICEMAN NABBED AFTER AUTO CRASH

William F. Burke Arrested in Marlboro by Efforts of Postmaster General.

BROWN SEES ACCIDENT, FOLLOWS MAN TO HOTEL

Former Detective Says Car Was Being Driven by Girl Companion.

William F. Burke, former Washington detective who was dismissed for drinking several months ago, was arrested Saturday night in Marlboro, Md., through the efforts of Postmaster General Walter F. Brown, who followed Burke's machine eight miles after an accident near Mount Zion.

Burke's car struck another automobile, according to Sheriff R. Glenn Prout, of Anne Arundel County. After the accident, Mr. Brown said, he saw that Burke's machine did not stop and he followed it to Marlboro, where it stopped at a hotel. Mr. Brown notified police, who found Burke in bed in the hotel and held him for Sheriff Prout.

Says He Posted Bond.

Burke told Prince Georges County police yesterday he had posted bond of $1,000 in Anne Arundel County, although he told reporters he had been freed after paying for damage to the other car. The man booked in Anne Arundel County, however, gave the name of William F. MacDonald. He was charged with permitting his car to be driven by a drunken person.

Judge John T. Hall, of Tracy's Landing, who held the hearing for Burke, said that the prisoner admitted, when putting up a cash bond of $1,000, that he had given a false name. Burke then signed his bond papers as William F. Burke. The former policeman posted the bond for his appearance before a jury next fall.

According to Sheriff Prout, Burke's machine hit one driven by Mervin Norfolk, of Greenock, Md. After the crash Mr. Norfolk's car ran into a pole. Burke said yesterday he had paid Mr. Norfolk $3.50 for repairs to the fender.

Admits Ownership of Car.

Burke denied yesterday that he was in the machine at the time of the accident, although he admitted owning the car. He said it was driven at the time by a girl known to him only as "Babe," whom he had picked up in the vicinity of Eleventh and H streets southeast that afternoon.

Burke, while a precinct detective, was arrested here charged with shooting a man, but later released. He was transferred to another precinct, however, as uniformed patrolman. He was in uniform at the time he was dismissed from the Washington force for drinking.

Club Caddy Wounded In Dice Game Battle

A fight between a pair of caddies at the Congressional Country Club over a craps game resulted in slight injuries to one of them, according to a report made by Montgomery County police yesterday.

The injured youth is R. L. Herbertson, 14 years old, of Edmonston, Md. He was cut slightly on the left arm. His assailant was a colored youth about 18 years old, who is known only as "Perry."

BOY TELLS HOW HE FOUND BOMB

Francis Getz, 12, at the Fourth Precinct Station, telling Patrolman William C. Truesdell how he found a 7-inch aerial bomb, as police described it, while playing near his home at 408 New Jersey avenue southeast yesterday. The bomb was turned over to navy yard authorities, who threw it into the Potomac River.

THE ONCE OVER

By H. I. PHILLIPS

THE LIFE OF A COURTESY COP.

(Commissioner Mulrooney of New York had detailed a squad of Courtesy Cops to answer questions and give visitors general information on all topics.—News item.)

I

A COURTEOUS copper am I—
Politeness I treat as a duty;
All rudeness I stoutly decry—
My attitude never is snooty.
My job is to treat people so
They'll never regret having met me;
Such charm and attention I show,
They never, no never, forget me.

II

I travel my beat with a smile
And strive to make taxpayers happy;
I try to be sweet all the while
And never impatient or snappy;
To answer all questions I try,
Well knowing the strain is terrific;
I tell folks the wherefor and why
Of happenings quite scientific.

III

Such questions as "When does my train
Depart for Cos Cob (or Sioux City)?"
Are never a tax to my brain—
My answers are clever and witty.
I often am asked "What o'clock?"
By people whose clocks are not going;
Statistics regarding each stock
I have to have some way of knowing.

IV.

I'M patient with quarrelsome guys
Who ask for all facts on the city—
Who want me to pick out their ties
And often to join in a ditty;
Such queries as "When is high tide?"
I answer, and offer a table;
To "What should one buy for a bride?"
I answer as far as I'm able.

V.

My task is to put at their ease
All persons in town with a question
Like "Where can a man shop for bees?"
And "What will offset indigestion?"
I strive to make visitors feel
I dote on absorbing such queries
As "Where can one fish for an eel?"
And "Whom do you pick for the series?"

VI.

At noon in the heat of the sun
I love to serve persons quite sappy
Whose problems I hear one by one,
Determined to make them quite happy;
"What train do I take to the zoo?"
They ask and "How far to the beaches?"
"What stores handle sport shirts in blue?"
And "Where can I order stewed peaches?"

VII.

"WHO'S playing the Giants today?"—
"What car do I take to the races?"—
"How much is the trip round the bay?"
They ask in the rush to go places;
"What musical show is a wow?"
"Who's headlinging now at the Palace?"
"Which way to Long Island, and how?"
And "Wasn't your sister's name Alice?"

VIII.

"Just where can I purchase a horse?"
"What firm handles chow dogs and kittens?"
"Must colds in the head run their course?"
And "Where can I buy me some mittens?"
"What hotels have ivy green shades?"
"Which side of the town is East River?"
"What store sells the best razor blades?"
And "What'll take squeaks from a flivver?"

IX.

No question's too deep or complex—
I'm Dorothy Dix in brass buttons;
I'm asked for the facts about sex
And how to tell lamb chops from muttons.
I'm asked what'll whiten white shoes
And what is a cure for the rickets—
What liniment's good for a bruise
And where to buy "Band Wagon" tickets.

X.

Each query I take as it comes;
Of data I'm always unsparing;
I help people do little sums
And simplify all questionnairing.
Oh, the life of a questionnaire cop
Is diverting, refreshing and jolly—
For it feels so damned good when I stop
That the change is delightful, by golly!

Body of Man, 80, Held Here for Identification

Still unclaimed, the body of a man believed to be Martin Miller, 80-year-old laborer, who committed suicide by drinking poison in a park at Seventh street and Pennsylvania avenue northwest, is being held at the morgue while police are attempting to locate relatives or friends of the man.

Miller was found about 1 o'clock yesterday morning, lying at the base of the Gen. Winfield Scott Hancock statue with a small bottle containing poison nearby. He was identified from papers and cards found in his clothing.

Car Crash Snaps Both Legs for Two Victims

Two persons each suffered fractures of both legs early yesterday in an auto accident on the Baltimore Boulevard near Ammendale, Md., and a third man was slightly injured.

Vincent Gaegler, 19 years old, 1445 Oak street northwest, is in Casualty hospital with compound fracture of both his legs, and James Machin, Baltimore, is in a Baltimore hospital with similar injuries. The third person injured was Fred Maske, 1215 Florida avenue northeast, who was treated at Casualty for lacerations about the head.

Pop Bottles Burst, Youth Cut.

John Fady, 18 years old, 440 Warner street northwest, was cut severely on the face yesterday while unloading a case of soda water from a truck at Ninth street and New York avenue. The heat caused several of the bottles to explode. He was taken to Emergency Hospital.

ONE-MAN CAMPAIGN CHANGES BUS NAME

New Designation Fixed for Rhode Island Avenue Route Cars.

Perseverance scored another victory for the copybooks yesterday when the Public Utilities Commission, outwinded by the persistence of Joseph W. Cheyney, changed the name of the Rhode Island avenue bus line of the Washington Railway & Electric Co. from "Brookland-Woodridge" to "Twenty-second and Quincy Streets Northeast."

For four years this issue has weighed heavily on the minds of the Commissioners as Mr. Cheyney, with accumulating indignation, beseiged them with letters, documentary evidence, petitions, to say nothing of personal visits. The file of correspondence now is about 3 inches thick.

The one-man controversy, it seems, was based on the fact that the bus line does not touch the small community of Woodridge, where Mr. Cheyney lives. In fact, it misses the suburb by a full two blocks.

Nevertheless, a number of stores and a branch postoffice alohg Rhode Island avenue, where the bus operates, use the name of Woodridge—also much to the disgust of Mr. Cheyney.

The commission, in an effort to straighten out the tangle, consulted several citizen associations in the territory the line serves only to learn that, with the exception of the Brookland group, none of them cared what the buses were labeled. The Brookland Citizens wanted the name "Brookland-Woodbridge" retained.

As the heat became daily more unbearable and the appeals from Cheyney more frequent, the commission finally succumbed. And, as one official put it, the Commissioners hope this is the "last of Mr. Cheyney" so far as the Rhode Island avenue bus line is concerned.

MAN PLEADS GUILTY TO KILLING HIS WIFE

Donald Sagle, 26, Capital Resident, Admits Murder in Richmond Court.

Donald W. Sagle, 26 years old, who killed his wife for "real publicity," pleaded guilty in Richmond, Va., yesterday to a charge of first-degree murder. He killed his wife, Agnes J. Sagle, on May 3 in Richmond.

Judge John L. Ingram, after hearing evidence against the Washington youth, reserved his decision in the case until Thursday. John W. Sagle, a carpenter, of 813 Fifth street northwest, father of the accused, testified that his son was not mentally normal and there were several cases of insanity in his family.

Three policemen testified that they went to Mrs. Sagle's home, where they found her fatally wounded and Sagle in a serious condition from a self-inflicted pistol shot in the abdomen. Relatives of Mrs. Sagle testified that Sagle shot his wife when she refused to return to Washington to live with him.

The elder Sagle also told the court that his son's wife took poison a few weeks after their marirage here on December 29. This happened, he said, after she was accused of "running around with other men." At that time she was treated at Emergency Hospital.

In one of three notes he left Sagle said: "Give the shooting some real publicity. * * * I've always wanted to be a racketeer and now my time has come."

Man Endangered As Boom Crashes

Accident Is Reported at Scene of Klingle Bridge Work.

An unidentified man was said to have narrowly escaped serious injury yesterday when the boom of a motor crane on the new Klingle Bridge construction project slipped from its fastenings and crashed to the ground.

Frank Massey, superintendent of the bridge job for the W. P. Thurston Co., of Richmond, contractors, said last night that the crane was not under his authority, being the property of the Lawrence Stone & Setting Co., a Pennsylvania concern, subcontractors in the building of the new bridge. He was loath to talk about the accident, although admitting its occurrence and saying that he had filed a report on it to his home office.

The boom of the crane weighs several tons, Massey admitted, but deprecated the report received by The Post that in falling it had come within an ace of striking a man. An eyewitness said the man's hat was swept from his head as the boom fell past him.

Taxi Skids, Hits Tree; Cab Man Badly Hurt

Aubrey Powell was seriously injured late yesterday when the taxicab he was operating skidded on slippery car tracks at North Capitol and Douglas streets northeast and crashed into a tree.

The driver, who is 23 and lives at 411½ Fifth street northeast, was taken to Sibley Hospital with a possible fracture of the skull. His machine was demolished.

$115 Stolen From Bed.

Walter C. Panell, of 1825 Sixteenth street northwest, reported to police yesterday that $115 had been taken from under a mattress in his apartment.

U. S. JUSTICE GROUP STARTS ADDITIONAL QUIZ OF ENGINEERS

Bolsters District Attorney's Inquiry Into Funds and Discriminations.

SENSATIONAL CHARGES CAUSE PROBE OF UNION

Labor Racket Alleged, Along With Blacklisting; Suits Seek Injunctions.

The affairs of the International Union of Operating Engineers, which first came to public attention with a pistol attack on three of its chiefs in a K street restaurant opposite union headquarters, are under scrutiny of the Department of Justice in an investigation which is Nation-wide in scope.

This investigation augments another which has been under way since May by the district attorney's office in Washington.

The two inquiries seek to clear up charges of alleged misuse and squandering of union funds on one hand and the operation of a labor "racket" by factions of the organization on the other. The ramifications of the charges are Nation-wide in scope and concern several thousand members of the union and dozens of local organizations.

Officials Admit Inquiry.

Both the Department of Justice and District Attorney Leo Rover admitted yesterday that an intensive inquiry into the affairs of the organization was under way. Neither, however, would go into details on the progress of their quiz.

In May, shortly after the attack on Arthur M. Huddell, of Boston, general president of the union; John Possehl, of Cleveland, general secretary, and Frank Langdon, editor of the union's trade journal, James S. Easby-Smith, attorney for the union, sent Mr. Rover charges against a former official of the organization.

Mr. Easby-Smith charged that the funds of the union were approximately $30,000 short, and gave Mr. Rover a number of photostatic copies of cancelled checks in urging investigation of the shortage.

No Indictments Found.

The affair was placed before the District grand jury, but only two witnesses testified. They were Mr. Possehl and an employe of a bank in which the union funds were kept. Mr. Huddell was unconscious in a hospital from a sickness which struck him a day before the grand jury was scheduled to take up the case. He later died from this illness. Mr. Langdon was still in Emergency Hospital from the effects of a bullet wound received in the attack in the cafe.

The grand jury failed to reutrn any indictments at that time.

On the other hand members of the union, or former members of it, have charged that high officials were attempting to work a labor "racket" on them. One official of the organization was horse-whipped in front of union headquarters even before the attack on Messrs. Huddell, Langdon and Possehl.

Labor Row Is Involved.

This phase of the dispute is Nation-wide in scope, it is said. It embodies a labor row which has been in progress for months. Officials of the organization are accused of keeping members out of work by failing to call them when jobs are open, because they failed to "pay tribute."

These members say that when Mr. Huddell began his regime as head of the organization it had a membership in excess of 40,000, but because of suspensions, blacklistings and resignations, the membership has fallen greatly.

Injunction suits are pending in District courts for relief from an alleged system of oppressive "supervision" by the International, and the blacklistings and suspensions charged to it.

Recently four additional injunction suits were intervened in the original actions, three from the District of Columbia and one from Maryland. Harry S. Barger, of Washington, is attorney, representing this faction of the union in these recent cases.

Mr. Barger and his clients are said to have on file more sensational charges than the first ones which entered into the petition.

Three-Year-Old Wanderer Again Taken Home by Police

Three-year-old Richard (Call me Dickie) Baldwin got himself placed under technical arrest again yesterday because of his roving disposition.

Several weeks ago he strayed from his home at 1416 Belmont street northwest. He was found just around the corner, but being unable to give his address, was taken to the Second Precinct Station, where his appetite for sweets almost drained the pocketbooks of benevolent policemen. Finally his father, M. H. Baldwin, was located.

Yesterday Dickie slipped out of the house while his father was upstairs and had gone several blocks down Fourteenth street before a woman motorist came along and decided she ought to place the matter in the hands of Policeman H. M. Overstreet, who was directing traffic at Fourteenth and U streets.

There was little difficulty recognizing Dickie's familiar countenance, and soon he was back home. Altogether too soon, he may have thought, recalling the candied reception which was his last time out.

115 Face Drunk Charges In 'Blue Monday' Session

One hundred and fifteen persons faced drunk charges when the "blue Monday" session of Police Court was called to order yesterday.

Rescue of the hot weather, all of the prisoners awaiting trial were escorted into the courtyard, under order of Judge Ralph Given, presiding in the District branch. His action followed collapse of six persons in a cellroom Friday.

Of 32 persons arraigned on liquor charges, 11 pleaded guilty. Sentences will be handed down Saturday. Pleas of not guilty to sale and possesion were entered by William Elmer Winstead, 40, and Clyde Shipp, 27, arrested when police raided a restaurant. The raiders said Shipp claimed he had to sell liquor to keep his job.

Frederick Thomas Good, 18, pleaded not guilty to possession. Police said he was paid 25 cents a delivery by his employers. They arrested him when he responded to a phone call they made to trap him, police said.
